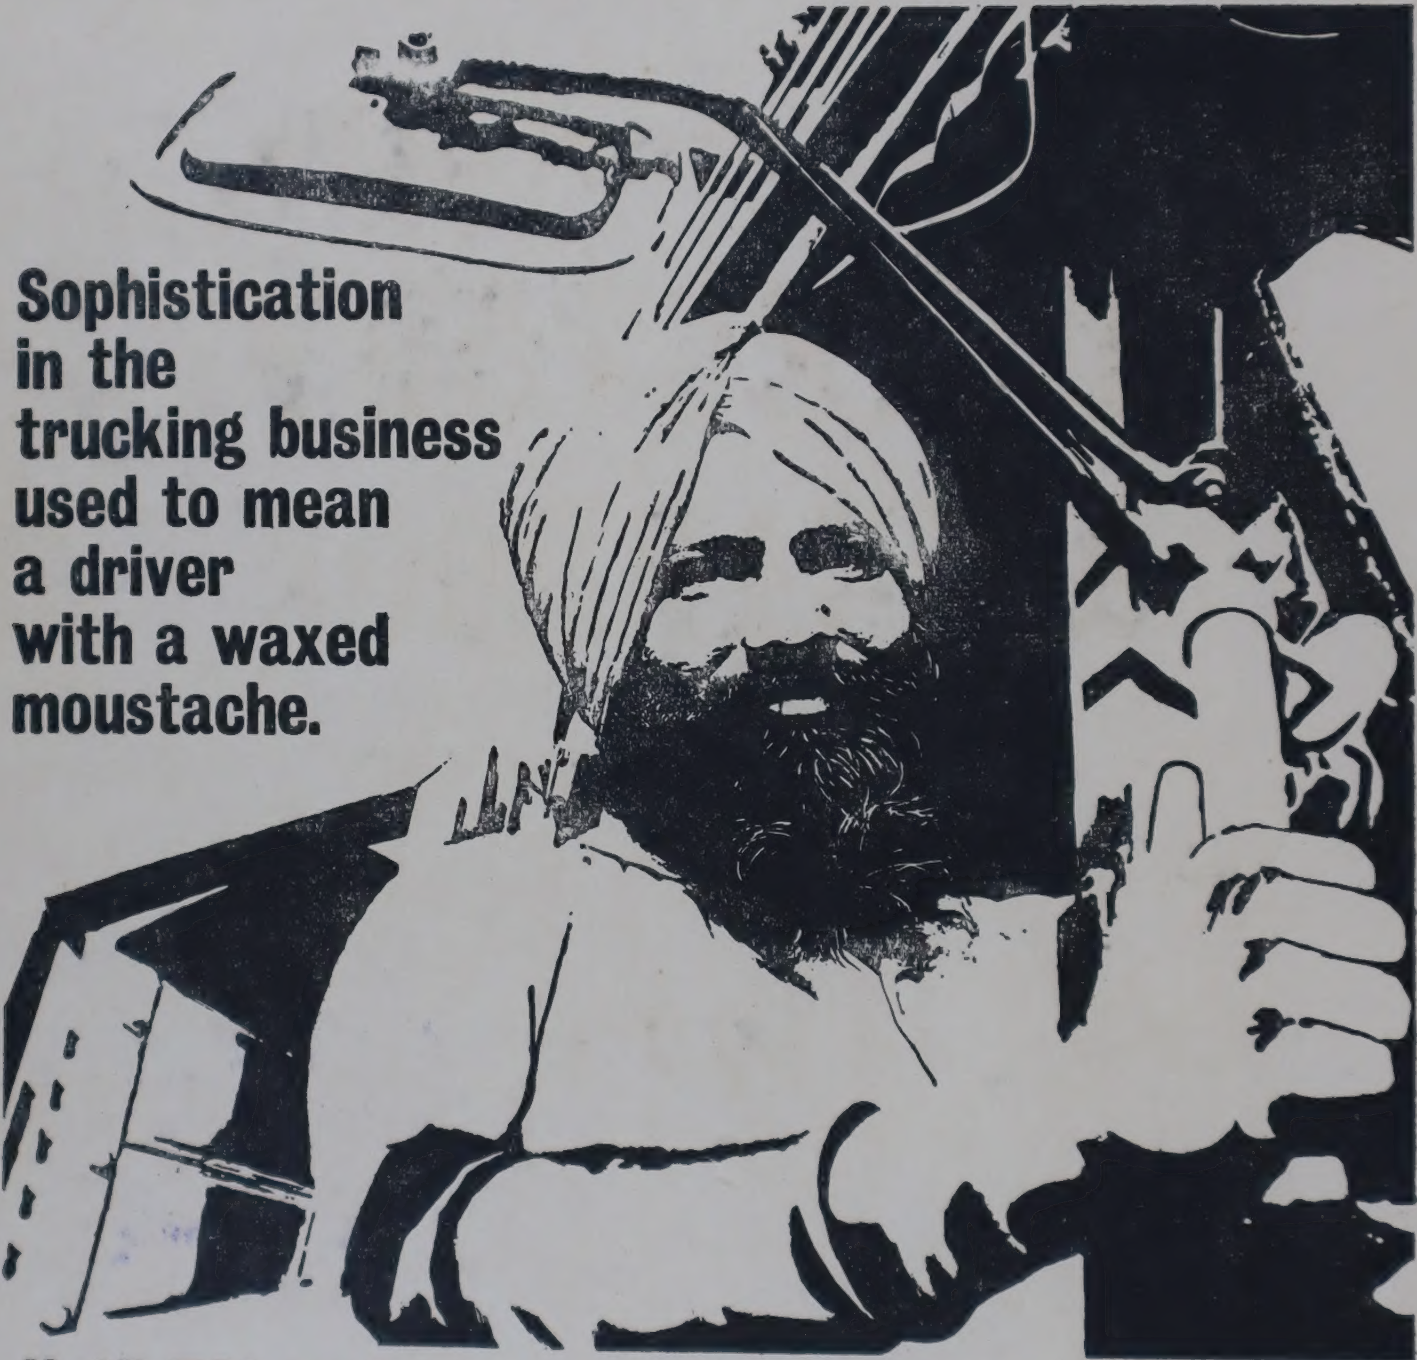
INCLUDING WHO'S WHO

1973



Sophistication in the trucking business used to mean a driver with a waxed moustache.

Until TCI arrived.

For years the road transport industry believed in just coming and going. Sophisticated business practices were unknown. Result: instead of your goods, you were often taken for a ride.

Then came TCI. A new breed of transporters. People who understood receiving, despatch and handling of goods.

And TCI grew as your business grew. From a single truck company to the top in its field.

This transformation has been possible because of the confidence you've shown in TCI. We are living up to it with determination and efficiency.

Largest manufacturers in India of R. C. C. Pipes known as ' HUME PIPES ' and allied products, HUME STEEL Pipes, WELDED STEEL Pipes and STEEL PENSTOCKS, PRESTRESSED CONCRETE Pipes and POLES, R. C. C. POLES, NO-JOINT CONCRETE Pipes Cast-in-Situ, PRESTRESSED MONOBLOCK CONCRETE SLEEPERS, etc., etc.

HUME PIPES : Extensively used for Water Supply, Sewerage, Drainage, Irrigation, Culverts, Well-Sinking etc.

ALLIED PRODUCTS : Concrete Half Rounds Channels, Water Tanks, R. C. C. Septic Tanks, Dust Bins, Sentry Cabins, Telephone booths, Housing for Latrines, Policeman Cabins, Cattle-Troughs, Pillars, etc. Also R.C.C. Piles and ventilating shafts.

HUME STEEL PIPES : Hume Steel Shells Lined and Outcoated with cement concrete which are manufactured as per ISI 1916, are known as Hume Steel Pipes and are exclusively used as High Pressure Mains for Water Supply Projects.

WELDED STEEL PIPES : Extensively used for Gas mains, Tunnelling and for high pressure Water mains. We recently supplied Steel Pipes (nearly 45,000 tonnes. Dia of pipes is 2500 mm to 3650 mm.) to Bombay Municipal Corporation for its Upper Vaitarna Water Supply Project.

STEEL PENSTOCKS : Pioneers in the manufacture of Steel Penstocks for Hydro Electric Projects ; Penstocks varying in diameters from 600 mm to 5,500 mm of 10 mm to 56 mm thickness are supplied by this Organisation for important schemes using various types of steel such as Mild Steel, High Tensile Steel, extra high tensile steel quenched and tempered.

Penstock factory at Hadapsar (Poona) is fully equipped with the latest machinery to meet the increasing needs of Penstocks in the country. From this central factory, the Company have supplied over 35,000 tonnes of Steel Penstocks for the above schemes and also for Balimela Hydro Electric Project in Orissa State, and Pressure Shaft Lining of Koyna Stage III Works, Yamuna Steel Lining Works, U.P. State and Loktak Hydro Electric Project in Manipur State which are at present in progress.

IHP Prestressed Pipes, generally manufactured as per ISI 784, are built with compressed concrete for greater strength, to bear internal pressures and to withstand external ones. In the Prestressed Pipe process, High tensile steel wire, under controlled tension, is wound around a core pipe of concrete, thus inducing a designed circumferential precompression in the concrete core pipe. The core pipe is precompressed longitudinally by high tensile steel wires. This method of construction is now used over a very wide range of pipe diameters and design pressures. Prestressed Pipe processes are widely used by major overseas manufacturers. Since 1945 more than 160 kms. of pipes are in service in Australia. In India, IHP has so far supplied about 600 kms. of these pipes. The projects in progress are Water Supply Schemes at Delhi, Poona, Karwar and Tuticorin.

NO-JOINT CONCRETE PIPES : The Company have the patent rights for the NO-JOINT Concrete Pipes cast-in-situ. To complete storm water drains or sewerage scheme with standard non-pressure precast pipes or other conventional methods such as masonry conduits, a long period is required for either manufacture, curing, transporting, laying in case of precast pipes or constructing the masonry conduit manually. No-Joint Concrete Pipes are machine-cast-in-situ in ready formation, reducing either the number of operations in the work or manual labour or technical difficulties in executing the work. This speeds up the work considerably with a saving in time and cost. Major projects executed at Delhi and Chandigarh.

PRESTRESSED CONCRETE POLES : These Poles are manufactured for Transmission lines both for High Tension and Low Tension lines. R.C.C. Poles also are manufactured and are largely used as Lamp Posts in all the cities.

PRESTRESSED MONOBLOCK CONCRETE SLEEPERS : Are manufactured for the Indian Railways for laying them under Railway tracks.

The Company has a large network of 55 factories in India, two in Ceylon, and one in Libya.

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

THE Constitution of India was passed by the Constituent Assembly on the 26th of November, 1949, and it came into force on the 26th of January, 1950.

The Constitution is the fundamental law or instrument of Government. It defines and deals with the organs of power — the legislature, the executive and the judiciary, and their relations to each other. It also deals with the rights of the subject; contains provisions for amendment and a number of other provisions necessary for its working.

The Constitution is an elaborate document, consisting of 395 Articles (divided into 22 parts) and 9 schedules.

Federation : India, also called Bharat, is a sovereign democratic republic. The Republic, described as a Union, is made up of 21 States and 9 Union territories.

The scheme of the Constitution is that it makes appropriate provisions for the legislative, executive and judicial machinery in the States constituting the Union. Three lists, attached to the seventh schedule contain respectively the topics on which the legislative power of the Union legislature, the State legislatures and both the Union and State legislatures can be exercised.

Division of Subjects : Thus, defence, foreign affairs, transport and communications, currency and coinage, banking, customs and export duties, and the administration of justice at the higher level are all union subjects, while State powers include those over police, public health, education, agriculture, forests and so on.

There is a third group of subjects called Concurrent List containing trade and industry, economic and social planning, social security and insurance, labour welfare, price control, electricity, newspapers and books and vital statistics. On these subjects both the Centre and the State can freely legislate, it being understood that whenever there is conflict between Union and State legislation the Union laws will ordinarily prevail.

If at any time, a subject which does not figure in any of the three lists, comes up for consideration the power of dealing with it lies with the Union Government.

The Union List has 97 entries, the State List 65 and the Concurrent List 47.

Elections : All elections are directed and controlled by an Election Commission. Elections to the Lok Sabha and the Legislative Assemblies of the States are on the basis of adult suffrage. Seats are reserved in the Lok Sabha for the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes.

There is a Public Service Commission for the Union and one for each State. The Union Public Service Commission operates for the Union Territories as well.

In the Indian Union the rights of Indian citizenship are given to 1. One who is born in India, 2. Either of whose parents was born in India, and 3. Who has been a resident of India for five years. Provision is also made for persons who are affected by the partition of the sub-continent.

FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS

Part III is an elaborate and comprehensive declaration of the Fundamental Rights available to a citizen of India. These rights are inviolable, in the sense that no law, ordinance, custom, usage or administrative order can abridge or take away these rights.

Fundamental Rights are classified under seven categories :—

Right to equality (Arts. 14, 15 and 16). Art 14 guarantees equality before the law, or equal protection of the laws within India. This right can be claimed even by a non-citizen residing in India.

Art. 15 : Provides that no discrimination can be made against any citizen on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth. Clauses 3 and 4 provide for exceptions to the doctrine of equality, viz, the State can make (a) discriminations in favour of women and children, and (b) special provisions for backward classes or for Scheduled Castes and Tribes.

Art. 16 provides equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State.

Right to Freedom: (Arts. 19, 20 and 21). Art. 19, guarantees seven kinds of freedoms. They are : the right to (i) freedom of speech and expression (ii) to assemble peaceably (iii) to form associations or unions (iv) to move freely throughout the country (v) to reside and settle in any part of the country (vi) to acquire, hold and dispose of any property (vii) to practise any profession, or to carry on any occupation, trade or business. These rights are not absolute but can be regulated in the interest of public good under the circumstances enumerated in clauses (2) to (6) of Art. 19.

Art. 20, provides (a) that no person shall be prosecuted and punished for the same offence more than once (b) that no person accused of any offence shall be compelled to be a witness against himself.

Art. 21 provides that no person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.

Art. 22. No person who is arrested is to be detained in custody without being informed of the grounds of such arrest, nor is he to be denied the right to consult, and be defended by, a legal practitioner.

Right Against Exploitation : (Arts. 23 and 24) : Traffic in human beings, forced labour, and employment of children under 14 years in factories are prohibited.

Right to Freedom of Religion: (Arts. 25 and 26) : All citizens are guaranteed the right to free profession, practice and propagation of religion and every religious denomination has freedom to manage its own affairs.

Cultural and Educational Rights: (Arts. 29 and 30): Minorities are given right to establish and administer educational institutions and each minority has the right to preserve and sustain its language, script and culture.

Right to Property: (Art. 31) : No person can be deprived of law. Acquisition of property by the State is permissible only for public purpose and on the payment of compensation which may be fixed by the law in accordance with specified principles. The whole or part of compensation payable may be given otherwise than in cash and the adequacy of such compensation cannot be questioned in a Court of Law.

If the property is acquired for the purpose of giving effect to the directive principles relating to socio-economic rights (Art. 39 (B & C)) such law is not considered void on the ground of being contrary to Articles 14, 19 or Article 31. This right extends to property of any kind, belonging to a citizen or non-citizen and even to companies incorporated outside India, provided they own property situated in India.

This Article has been modified five times by Amendments to the Constitution.

Right to Constitutional Remedies: (Art. 32): For the enforcement of the Fundamental Rights every person has the right to move the Supreme Court by appropriate proceedings.

DIRECTIVE PRINCIPLES

In Part IV certain directive principles of State policy are laid down for the guidance of the legislatures as well as governmental authorities. They relate to (a) Principles of social policy, (b) Principles of administrative policy (c) Socio-economic rights and (d) a statement of the international policy of the Republic.

The Directive Principles are not enforceable by any courts.

The Form of Government: The Constitution sets up parliamentary form of government, both in the Centre (Union) and the States. Broadly speaking, each of the States has its own executive, legislative and judicial machinery corresponding to that of the Centre.

UNION EXECUTIVE

The executive head of the Indian Union is the President. He is elected by the elected members of the Houses of Parliament and the Legislative Assemblies of all the States. His term of office is five years, and is eligible for re-election. Only a person who is a citizen of India and has completed the age of thirty-five years is qualified to contest the election.

He is the Supreme Commander of the Armed Forces.

He has the power to grant pardons or remission of punishment.

Salary: The President is entitled to the use of an official residence without payment of rent, and a salary of Rs. 10,000 per month and allowances. Provision has also been made by an Act of Parliament for a pension of Rs. 15,000 per annum. He is also entitled to a maximum of Rs. 12,000 per annum for the sake of secretarial staff and other expenses.

Presidential Powers: The President has the power of summoning, proroguing and dissolving Parliament. At the commencement of each session he addresses both Houses of Parliament assembled together. He has the right of sending messages to Parliament and sending back a Bill presented to him for his assent. This power however can be used by him only once. He has right to veto a Bill passed by Parliament.

Ordinances: The President has legislative powers under certain circumstances. When neither of the Houses of Parliament is in session and the President is satisfied that circumstances exist which make immediate action necessary he may promulgate an ordinance.

Such ordinance must be put before both the Houses of Parliament and will cease to operate at the expiration of six weeks from the reassembly of Parliament.

Appointments: The judges of the Supreme Court and the High Courts, the Attorney-General of India and the Comptroller and Auditor-General of India are all appointed by the President. The heads of States, i.e., Governors are also appointed by the President.

The President has the power of appointing ambassadors abroad and receiving diplomatic representatives of foreign States.

Council of Ministers: All executive action of the Government of India is taken in the name of the President and it is the duty of the Prime Minister to communicate to the President all decisions of the Council of Ministers.

In the exercise of his functions, the President has the aid and advice of a Council of Ministers, with the Prime Minister at the head of it. The President appoints the Prime Minister and other Ministers are appointed on the advice of the Prime Minister.

The Council of Ministers is collectively responsible to the Lok Sabha (the Lower House). Every Minister must be a member of either House of Parliament, and he is required to take an oath of office and secrecy.

The salaries and allowances of Ministers are determined by Parliament.

Emergency: If the President is satisfied that a grave emergency exists, and the security of India or any part thereof is threatened either by war or internal disturbance, he may make a declaration to that effect.

This is a Proclamation of Emergency which must be approved by both the Houses of Parliament before the expiration of two months, otherwise it ceases to operate at the end of that period. While a Proclamation of Emergency is in operation (a) the Union will have power to give directions to any States as to the manner in which the States' executive power is to be exercised. (b) Parliament will have power to legislate on items included in the State list. (c) The Fundamental Rights guaranteed by Art. 19 are virtually suspended. (d) As regards other Fundamental Rights, the President may, by a specific order declare that the right to move any court for its (their) enforcement may be suspended during the period of Emergency.

The President of India made a Proclamation of Emergency in October 1962 after the Chinese aggression.

The President may proclaim a failure of constitutional machinery in a State if he learns that the Government of the State cannot be carried on according to the provisions of the Constitution. If this is done, President's rule will be introduced in the State. Upto Dec. 1971, there have been 25 cases of failure of constitutional mechanism in the States.

Financial Emergency: If the President is satisfied that the financial stability of the country is threatened he may, by a Proclamation make a declaration and in consequence the executive authority of the Union is considerably extended and it is empowered to take suitable action.

Impeachment: Provision is made for the impeachment of the President, by Parliament, for violation of the Constitution. If such a resolution is passed by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the total membership, such a resolution has the effect of removing the President from office.

Vice-President: There is a Vice-President of India, who is ex-officio Chairman of the Rajya Sabha (the Upper House). The Vice-President acts as President during a casual vacancy in the office of the President. He is elected by the members of both Houses of Parliament and his term of office is five years.

UNION PARLIAMENT

The Parliament consists of the President and two Houses known as, as already mentioned, the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha. It must meet at least twice a year. The maximum strength of the two Houses is fixed at 250 (12 nominated) for the Rajya Sabha and 525 for the Lok Sabha (not more than 500 from the States and 25 from the Territories).

Elections: The Rajya Sabha is elected by the elected members of the Legislative Assemblies of the States and of the Union Territories. While the Lok Sabha is elected directly by the voters in the country.

The elections to the Lok Sabha are based on adult suffrage and joint electorates. There is no reservation of seats for any group except Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.

The Rajya Sabha is a permanent body with one-third of its members retiring every second year. The Rajya Sabha has a Chairman and Deputy Chairman.

Ordinarily the Lok Sabha has a duration of five years. There is a Speaker and a Deputy Speaker of the House both of whom are elected by its members.

All these posts carry salary and allowances.

Immunity for M.P.s : Members of Parliament are assured of freedom of speech in Parliament subject to the provisions of the Constitution. They enjoy immunity from proceedings in any court in respect of anything said or a vote given by him in Parliament.

Under certain circumstances, the members can be disqualified and their seats declared vacant.

Legislation: All legislation requires the consent of both Houses of Parliament, and every question is decided by a simple majority of those present and voting except on amendments to the Constitution.

Money Bills can be introduced only in the Lok Sabha. The Rajya Sabha can only return a bill with its recommendations to the Lok Sabha within a period of fourteen days of its receipt. Bills passed by Parliament are submitted to the President for his assent. Only on such assent being given does the Bill become law.

Procedure: A Bill normally goes through the following stages. It is first published. After introduction there is a general debate. Then, there is a clause-by-clause discussion and voted upon. A specially important measure may go before a select committee or a joint select committee. A Money Bill has a slightly different passage. After it has been passed in the Lok Sabha it is sent to the Rajya Sabha which has to return it within fourteen days with its recommendations which may be accepted or rejected.

Quorum: The quorum is fixed at one-tenth of the membership of the House.

The language used in Parliament is either Hindi or English.

Distribution of Seats : (Please see index for chapter on Rajya Sabha and Lok Sabha Members).

Committees: Parliament's control over the administration is also exercised through a series of committees.

The committees can summon witness or require documents to be produced. There is a Committee on Privileges which sees to breaches of Parliamentary privilege, a Business Advisory Committee which helps the Ministry of Parliamentary Affairs in drawing up the programme for a session.

Two very important Committees are the Public Accounts Committee and the Estimates Committee. They are elected by the House of the People and Ministers are barred from membership. The Public Accounts Committee ensures that money is spent for the purpose for which Parliament has voted it, and criticises cases of waste, or extravagance. The Estimates Committee examines possibilities of economy and reform in financial administration and the manner in which estimates may be presented to Parliament.

Comptroller and Auditor-General is appointed by the President to control on behalf of the Union and the States all disbursements and to audit all accounts of moneys administered by the Parliament and the State legislatures.

STATE GOVERNMENT

The 21 States have Governors at their heads, the Union Territories of Andaman & Nicobar Islands and Chandigarh have Chief Commissioners, Delhi, Goa, Mizoram and Pondicherry have Lieutenant-Governors, Laccadive, Minicoy & Amindivi Islands and Dadra & Nagar Haveli have Administrators.

Appointment of Governor: The Governor of a State is appointed by the President. Executive power is vested in the Governor who is appointed for a term of five years, ordinarily. Only a citizen of India and one who has completed 35 years of age, is eligible for such an appointment.

The Governor, like the President, has the power to grant pardon, etc. The Governor also appoints an Advocate-General for the State.

The de facto executive is the Council of Ministers, with the Chief Minister as its head to aid and advise the Governor. The Chief Minister is appointed by the Governor and other Ministers are appointed by the Governor on the advice of the Chief Minister.

Types of Legislatures: Seven States, Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Jammu & Kashmir, Maharashtra, Mysore, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh have two Houses of Legislature; the others, only one. The two Houses are called the Legislative Assembly (sometimes Vidhan Sabha) and the Legislative Council (sometimes Vidhan Parishad). The former has a duration of five years, while the latter is a permanent body with one-third of the members retiring every second year.

Membership Strength: The minimum strength of an Assembly is 60 and the maximum 500. The minimum strength of a Council is 40, and the maximum one-third of the State Assembly.

Elections: An Assembly is elected directly on the basis of adult franchise with reservation of seats for the Scheduled Castes and Tribes. The composition of a Council is more complicated. About a third are elected by the Assembly, another third by local authorities (municipalities, district boards), about a twelfth by registered teachers in schools not lower than the secondary school standard, and about a twelfth by registered graduates of not less than three years' standing. And the rest are nominated by the Governor from among persons who have distinguished themselves in art, science, literature, co-operation and social service.

The Legislature must meet at least twice a year.

Rules of Procedure : The legislature can frame its own rules of procedure but it is more or less the same as in Parliament. The quorum for a meeting is one-tenth of the membership or ten whichever is higher.

In case of disagreement, if the Bill is passed a second time after three months of its reference to the Council it automatically becomes law after one month of its passage in the Lower House.

The State legislature too has its Committees like Parliament.

Kashmir Assembly: 25 seats are now vacant waiting to be filled in by members from that part of Kashmir now under Pakistani occupation. The effective strength of the Assembly is 75.

Zonal Councils: Have been established by the States Reorganisation Act of 1956 to advise on matters of common interest to each of the five zones into which territory of India has been divided. Northern zone (Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Kashmir, Delhi and Himachal Pradesh); Central zone (Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh); Eastern zone (Bihar, West Bengal, Orissa, Assam, Manipur and Tripura); Western zone (Gujarat, Maharashtra and Mysore); Southern zone (Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, and Kerala and also Mysore as a permanent invitee).

Official Language: Article 343 of the Constitution provides that the official language of India shall be Hindi in the Devnagri script and the form of numerals for official purposes shall be the international form of Indian numerals. English, which was originally to continue as the official language upto January 26, 1965, will, under the Official Languages Act, 1963, continue to be used even after that in addition to Hindi.

Recognition to former Indian Rulers: The Constitution gave recognition (Art. 362) to the personal rights, privileges and dignities enjoyed by the former rulers of the Indian States under agreements and covenants entered into by them with the former Government of India. In December 1971 by the 26th Amendment Parliament abolished (363A) the recognition given to the rights, etc. as well as privy purses and the recognition granted to the rights and privileges granted to the former Rulers of the Indian States.

Amendment of the Constitution: For purposes of amendment the items are divided into three classes with a different procedure for each class.

For amendment of the provision with respect to the Supreme Court and the High Courts, the distribution of legislative powers between the Centre and the States, the representation of the States in Parliament, etc., the amendment must be passed by both the Houses of Parliament by a majority of the total membership of the House and by a majority of two-thirds of the members present and voting, and must further be ratified by the legislatures of not less than one-half of the States.

In other cases no reference to the State legislatures is necessary. Parliament by itself can amend the Constitution in the manner mentioned above. In some cases amendment can be effected even by a bare majority such as is required for the passing of any ordinary law. The Supreme Court in Golaknath case (Feb. 1967) laid down that Parliament has no power to curtail fundamental rights.

Parliament has amended the Constitution when it found that judicial decisions either inadequately, or in its opinion, erroneously interpreted the intention behind the relevant Constitutional provisions or they pointed out certain lacunae in them.

There were 28 amendments to the Constitution upto the end of August 1972. Some of the important Articles modified by Amendments: Arts. 15, 19, 31, 31A, 66, 71.

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE

THOUGH the Constitution of India is of a federal type, there are no double chain of courts (as in the U.S.A.), one to administer the Union laws, and the other to administer the State laws. All the courts of the country constitute a single hierarchy with the Supreme Court at its head. All the courts, subject to their respective territorial and pecuniary jurisdictions, administer the whole law of the country enacted by the Parliament or the State legislatures.

SUPREME COURT

The Supreme Court of India consists of a Chief Justice and not more than 13 judges appointed by the President.

Retirement: At the age of 65.

Qualifications: For appointment as a judge of the Supreme Court a person has to be a citizen of India and must have been for at least 5 years a judge of a High Court or of two or more such courts in succession; or an advocate of a High Court or two or more such courts in succession for at least 10 years; or, he must be in the opinion of the President an eminent jurist.

Removal: A judge of the Supreme Court cannot be removed from office except by an order of the President passed after an address by each House of Parliament, supported by a majority of the total membership of that House voting, has been presented to the President in the same session for such removal on the ground of proved misbehaviour or incapacity.

Present Strength of the Supreme Court is a Chief Justice and 11 Judges.

Jurisdiction: The Supreme Court has both original and appellate jurisdiction. Its exclusive original jurisdiction extends to all disputes between the Union and one or more States or between two or more States inter se. In addition to this, Article 32 of the Constitution gives an extensive original jurisdiction to the Supreme Court to enforce fundamental rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution.

Appellate Jurisdiction: The Supreme Court can be invoked by a certificate of the High Court concerned or by special leave granted by the Supreme Court, in respect of any judgement, decree or final order of the High Court in cases involving substantial questions of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution.

Civil Appeals: Also lie to the Supreme Court where the amount or value of the subject matter of the dispute is not less than Rs. 20,000 or where the judgement, decree or final order involves claims respecting property of like amount, or where the High Court concerned certifies that the case is a fit one for appeal to the Supreme Court.

Criminal Cases: The right to appeal to the Supreme Court has been provided for "if the High Court (a) has on appeal reversed an order of acquittal of an accused person and sentenced him to death; (b) has withdrawn for trial before itself any case from any court subordinate to its authority and has in such trial convicted the accused person and sentenced him to death; or (c) certifies that the case is a fit one for appeal to the Supreme Court." Parliament is authorised to confer on the Supreme Court any further powers to hear and entertain appeals from any judgement, final order or sentence in a criminal proceeding of a High Court in Indian territory.

HIGH COURT

Every state has a High Court of its own except in the case of Assam and Nagaland and Punjab and Haryana who share one each between them. Delhi has a High Court of its own.

Appointment: High Court judges are appointed by the President after consulting the Chief Justice of India, the Governor of the State and the Chief Justice of the High Court. They retire at the age of 62.

Qualifications: To be appointed a person has to be a citizen of the country who has either held judicial office or practiced as an advocate for 10 years in any State.

Removal: Article 124 (4) which lays down the procedure for the removal of a Supreme Court judge apply to the High Court judges also.

Jurisdiction: The jurisdiction as well as the laws administered by a High Court can be altered both by the Union and State Legislatures. Certain High Courts, like those at Bombay, Calcutta and Madras, have Original and Appellate jurisdictions. Under the Original jurisdiction suits, where the subject matter is valued at Rs. 25,000 or over can be filed directly in the High Court. Under the Appellate jurisdiction only appeals from lower courts and Appeals from suits filed on the Original side of the High Court can be entertained. Most High Courts have only Appellate jurisdiction.

High courts are empowered to issue writs for the enforcement of Fundamental Rights.

Some of the High Courts have jurisdiction to try insolvency, testamentary and matrimonial matters.

The High Courts have powers of superintendence over all subordinate Courts and tribunals within their respective jurisdiction.

Legislation affecting constitution and organisation of the High Courts can be passed by Parliament alone.

No. of cases: On an average more than 14,000 cases are filed in the High Courts of India every month.

The Central Government has made separate judicial arrangements in the Union Territories, Goa, Daman and Diu, Andaman and Nicobar Islands and Laccadive, Minicoy and Amindivi Islands.

Under Article 241 of the Constitution, Parliament can by law constitute a High Court for a Union Territory or declare any court in any such territory to be a High Court for all or any purposes of the Constitution. Judicial Commissioner's Court in Goa, Daman and Diu is declared a High Court for certain purposes.

LOWER COURTS

In most of the States the judiciary is completely separated from the executive.

The system and number of courts is not identical in all the States, but the general pattern is the same:

I Criminal Administration

High Court.
Courts of Sessions.
Magistrate's Courts.
Subordinate or Judicial Magistrates.
Nyaya Panchayat (in some States).

II Civil Administration

High Court.
District Court.
Civil Judge (Senior Division).
,, (Junior Division).
Nyaya Panchayat (in some States).

Nyaya Panchayat: A tribunal established in a number of States, for administration of civil and criminal justice in a group of villages. The Gram-panchayat (village council) of each village elects one member to the Nyaya Panchayat. In its civil jurisdiction it tries certain claims not exceeding Rs. 100 e.g. (a) suits for recovery of money due on contracts. (b) Suits for compensation for injury to moveable property. In its criminal jurisdiction it tries certain petty offences such as petty thefts, house trespass, misconduct in public by a drunken person etc. There is no appeal against its decision, but the propriety and legality of the order can be questioned by the District Court.

Magistrates' Courts: Are of three classes with descending powers. Provision is made and largely utilised in the towns, for the appointment of honorary magistrates. In the towns of Madras, Bombay and Calcutta, Presidency Magistrates deal with magisterial cases and benches of Justices of the Peace or Honorary Magistrates dispose of the less important cases.

Every State, outside the towns of Madras, Bombay and Calcutta, is divided into sessions divisions consisting of one or more districts, and every sessions division has a court of session and a sessions judge, with assistants if need be. These stationary sessions courts are competent to try all accused persons duly committed, and to inflict any punishment authorised by law, but sentences of death are subject to confirmation by the highest court of criminal appeal in the State.

District Courts: Have Original and Appellate jurisdictions. District Judges are appointed by the Governor of the State in consultation with the High Court of the State. Appointments of persons other than the District Judges are made by the Governor after consultation with the State Public Service Commission and with the High Court. The limits of original jurisdiction of courts subordinate to the District Courts are fixed — but differ from State to State, e.g. in Maharashtra Subordinate Judge may try original suits where subject-matter does not exceed Rs. 15,000. The Subordinate Judge may also try appeals from lower courts. Salaries of Judges of District and Lower courts vary from State to State.

Small Causes: There are in addition a number of Courts of Small Causes, with jurisdiction to try money suits up to Rs. 500. In the towns of Madras, Bombay and Calcutta where the High Courts have original jurisdiction, Small Causes Courts dispose of money suits up to Rs. 3,000.

In Bombay and Madras there are also City Civil Courts. The City Civil Court in Bombay has a pecuniary jurisdiction of upto Rs. 25,000.

Insolvency Courts: As Insolvency Courts the High Courts of Calcutta, Bombay and Madras have jurisdiction in the Presidency towns. In the mofussil similar powers are conferred on the District Courts by the Provincial Insolvency Act of 1920.

Special Courts: Labour Courts and Industrial Courts now exist in most States.

A Labour Court consists of a single judge.

These Courts decide upon disputes regarding (a) propriety or legality of an order passed by an employer, (b) the application and interpretation of standing orders, (c) they also decide disputes referred to them by Government for arbitration. Legality or otherwise of strikes or lock-outs or closure, etc. is also decided by them.

An appeal against the Judgement of the Labour Courts lies to the Industrial Court. This court has also original jurisdiction regarding matters referred to it by the Government or by representative Unions. It decides upon questions of law referred to it by Wage Boards and references regarding interpretation of the Act and the Rules. It has power of superintendence over Labour Courts.

The Industrial Disputes Act: Was passed by the Central Legislature in 1947 for the investigation and settlement of industrial disputes.

Industrial Tribunals were established under this Act. If the conciliation bodies set up under this Act fail to bring about a settlement, the matter is referred to the Industrial Tribunals.

Neither party to a dispute is entitled to be represented by a legal practitioner except with the consent of the other party and by leave of Tribunal.

Industrial Tribunals are not permanent courts. Whenever a matter is referred to the Government regarding an industrial dispute the Government appoints one or more persons as Industrial Tribunal to adjudicate upon the dispute.

Administration of Labour Laws: Is a divided responsibility. The Central Government has the following organisations for the administration of labour laws. (1) The Office of the Chief Labour Commissioner, New Delhi. (2) The Office of the Coal Mines Welfare Commissioner, Dhanbad. (3) The Office of the Coal Mines Provident Fund Commissioner, Dhanbad. (4) The Office of the Welfare Commissioner, Mica Mines Labour Welfare Fund, Dhanbad and Nellore. (5) The Office of the Chief Inspector of Mines, Dhanbad. (6) The Office of the Chief Adviser of Factories, New Delhi. (7) The Office of the Director-General, Employees' State Insurance Corporation, New Delhi. (8) The Office of the Controller of Emigrant Labour, Shillong. (9) The Office of the Director, Labour Bureau, Simla. (10) The Office of the Central Provident Fund Commissioner, New Delhi.

Sheriffs: Are attached to the High Courts of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

There are Official Assignees in three States — Maharashtra, W. Bengal and Tamil Nadu. The appointment is made by the Chief Justice of the High Court concerned.

In addition to the Official Assignee, a Deputy Official Assignee may also be appointed. Another officer of the court is the Insolvency Registrar who may be vested with the powers mentioned in section 6 of the Presidency Towns Insolvency Act.

Social Reforms Acts: Parliament has passed two important Acts relating to social reform. The Suppression of Immoral Traffic in Women and Girls' Act (No. 104 of 1956) was passed in December 1956. This Act provides, in pursuance of the International Convention signed at New York on 9th May 1950, for the suppression of immoral traffic in women and girls. The Women's and Children's Institutions Licensing Act (No. 105 of 1956) was passed in December 1956. This Act provides for the licensing of such institutions and of matters relating to them.

Yet another Act in social reform is the Probation of Offenders Act (20 of 1958).

Dowry Prohibition Act was passed in 1961.

PHYSIOGRAPHY

THE vast size of India needs no stressing. Reaching from 8° 4′ to 37° 6′ North latitude, and from 68° 7′ to 97° 25′ East longitude, it measures some 3,220 km. from south to north and some 2,980 km. from west to east, and covers an area of 3,276,141 sq. km. (including Sikkim).

Physical Features

India is built on a grand scale. Its physical features fall into three well-marked regions, each of them vast in dimensions: first, the great Himalayan mountain system; secondly, the Indo-Gangetic plain; and thirdly the plateaux of peninsular India, the Deccan.

The Himalayan system lies between the plateau of Tibet and the Indo-Gangetic Plain, and consists essentially of a complex series of young fold-mountains arranged in more or less parallel ranges which now combine in a mountain-knot, then divide to leave room for intermont valleys like those of Kashmir and Kulu. The highest range, the Great Himalaya, consists of a whole series of giant peaks like Nanda Devi (24,645 feet), separated by deep chasms cut by rivers and glaciers and, occasionally, by high passes over which run the immemorial trade-routes between India and Tibet. South of the Great Himalaya lie other high ranges, and nearest to the plains there are the Sivaliks, the youngest member of the series geologically, which present a massive rampart to the south, broken only by valleys through which run great snow-fed rivers like the Sutlej (a tributary of the Indus), the Yamuna and Kosi (tributaries of the Ganga) and the Ganga itself. At the eastern-most end of the Indian Himalaya the ranges are breached in a spectacular gorge by the Brahmaputra, which rises in Tibet. East and south of the Brahmaputra gorge, the fold-ranges trend generally southward, and form the wild hilly country of Nagaland and other areas on the frontiers of India and Burma.

The Indo-Gangetic Plain occupies what must once have been a hollow between the Himalayas and the old-rock plateaux of the peninsula; a hollow that has been infilled by alluvium brought down by the great Himalayan rivers and, to a lesser extent, by those flowing into it from the Deccan, like the Chambal and Sone. If one includes the level ground along the Brahmaputra in Assam, the Plain as a whole is over 2,400 km. long, and generally 200-300 km. wide (rather narrow in Assam). Here is one of the world's really large Plains. To the casual observer it is one great monotony, but actually it has considerable variety, of two kinds: first, the gradual transition from the dune-covered desert-plain of Rajasthan, through the rich, cultivated alluvium of Uttar Pradesh to the swampy Sundarbans along the seaward edge of the Bengal delta; and, secondly, more intimate local variety — for example, the contrast of deeply-gullied terraces of old alluvium and of low-lying flood-plain where the Chambal runs into the Yamuna below Agra.

The dominant landform in the Deccan (that is, in peninsular India) is the plateau, the great stretch of rolling country at some considerable elevation above sea-level. Such is the Maidan of Mysore or the black-earth plateau of Malwa (or the detached plateau which forms Meghalaya). Most of these plateaux, indeed, almost all of the Deccan, are built of hard old crystalline rock, with here and there ancient sediments. Here lies most of India's mineral wealth, especially iron and manganese ore (with coal in down-faulted basins in the North-east Deccan). In Maharashtra there was a great outpouring of basalt which overlies the crystalline base and gives rise to characteristic stepped landforms. Across the plateaux roll the great east-flowing Deccan rivers, the Mahanadi, Godavari, Krishna and Kaveri, with their tributaries. Each forms a notable delta where it reaches the sea. The Narmada and Tapti, on the other hand, flow westward to the Gulf of Cambay north of Bombay. The great plateaux end in massive mural scarps like those overlooking the Indo-Gangetic Plains or the even more impressive Western Ghats (the so-called Eastern Ghats are puny, broken things in comparison). There are also scarps with the appearance of mountain ranges where one plateau-level descends to another within the Deccan.

Climate

The vastness of India and the variety of its relief are reflected in the wide range of climatic types to be found within it. In the Plains, the desert of Rajasthan contrasts with the humidity of Bengal. The winter snows of the Himalaya contrast with the nearly equatorial heat of Kerala and Tamil Nadu. The last two contrasts with each other, for Kerala is wet, with a short dry season, and Tamil Nadu is dry, with a long dry season when much of India is having rain, during the south-west monsoon.

If one seeks a unifying factor in the climate of India, it is to be found in the dominance of the monsoon : that is, in a great seasonal reversal of wind and weather. For most of India except Tamil Nadu, the south-west monsoon of about June to September is a period of rain, very heavy in Bombay and Calcutta, torrentially heavy in Meghalaya (where Cherrapunji has the reputation of being the earth's wettest spot), light by the time Delhi is reached, even lighter (and highly variable) in the desert. The north-east monsoon of 'winter' is a period of dry weather over most of India except Tamil Nadu, which then has its rainy season ; and of cold weather, becoming hot as the south-west monsoon season approaches, in north India.

Vegetation and Soils: Natural and Cultivated

Most of India must once, it is thought, have been covered with forest whose nature reflected principally variations in rainfall (or of altitude in the Himalaya): forest that ranged from tropical rain forest in Kerala through tropical moist deciduous forest in the eastern Plains and north-east Deccan to thorn scrub in semiarid interior Maharashtra. Forest reserves to some extent preserve this pristine vegetation, though usually in a form modified by man, acting as a destructive agent (for instance, turning thorn forest to poor savana-jungle) or as a constructive agent (replacing 'natural' vegetation with pure stands of desired species like sal or sandal-wood). In the Plains, the east coast deltas and western coastal strips, in Tamil Nadu and much of Maharashtra, little 'natural' vegetation of any sort survives.

Human activity over the centuries (indeed, for millennia) has replaced 'natural' vegetation with crops : the kharif rice and rabi wheat of much of the Plains (and, of course, other crops beside, like sugar-cane and mustard) ; the jowar and bajra of the drier parts of the Deccan, except where irrigation has brought in wheat, or rice, or sugar-cane ; the tea of Assam ; the tea and coffee of Kerala and of the hills north of it ; the coconut of the coastal fringes of the South. So, too, the teeming wild life of India, dependent as it is on forest cover, has been fighting a losing battle against man. There is now concern over the survival of a number of species, notably the lion (confined to the Gir forest in Saurashtra), the tiger, the elephant and the rhinoceros. But a number of species of deer are still relatively common, and bird life is generally abundant.

Population

India is the world's second most populous country. The 1971 Census indicate the total population was 547,949,809, an increase of 24·57 per cent since the 1961 Census. It is not surprising that, although there are great variations between one region and another, pressure of population on the land has become excessive, especially in the Plains, the east coast deltas and Tamil Nadu.

STATES, TERRITORIES

The country is divided into 21 States and 9 Union Territories.

Andhra Pradesh (Hyderabad), Assam (Shillong), Bihar (Patna), Gujarat (Gandhinagar), Haryana (Chandigarh‡), Himachal Pradesh (Simla), Jammu and Kashmir (Srinagar), Kerala (Trivandrum), Madhya Pradesh (Bhopal), Maharashtra (Bombay), Manipur (Imphal), Meghalaya (Shillong), Mysore (Bangalore), Nagaland (Kohima), Orissa (Bhubaneshwar), Punjab (Chandigarh‡), Rajasthan (Jaipur), Tamil Nadu (Madras), Tripura (Agartala), Uttar Pradesh (Lucknow), West Bengal (Calcutta).

The 9 Territories (with capital towns in brackets) are :

A TOURIST'S GUIDE

INDIA has three major seasons: winter, summer and the monsoon.

The winter months (November-February) are pleasant throughout India with bright sunny days. In the northern plains, the minimum temperature at times drops steeply and there is snowfall in the hills. In Maharashtra and the south and in eastern India, however, December and January are pleasantly cool, never really cold.

The summer months (April–June) are hot in most parts of India, and it is during this season that hill resorts such as Simla, Mussoorie, Naini Tal, Kulu and Kashmir Valleys, Darjeeling, Shillong, Ootacamund, Kodaikanal, Pachmarhi and Mount Abu provide cool retreats.

The south-west monsoon usually breaks about the beginning of June on the west coast and reaches elsewhere later. With the exception of the south-eastern areas, India receives the major share of its rainfall between June and September. The south-eastern areas receive most of the rainfall from the north-east monsoon between November and January.

Clothing: In northern India, where evening and night temperatures drop steeply in winter, woollen clothing will be necessary from the middle of November to the middle of February. Winter in other parts of the country is mild and tropical clothing should be sufficient. For those visiting the hill resorts during this time heavy woollens will be essential.

During the summer months, only light tropical and cotton clothing will be comfortable. Visitors to the hill resorts, however, should carry light woollens.

Medical Facilities: In all the cities and towns there are State-managed and private hospitals and dispensaries. The services of highly qualified specialists and consultants are available in places like Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and other large cities. Some of the chemists offer round-the-clock service.

Foreign Exchange: Under the revised rules of the Government of India all foreigners, including those of Indian origin, are required to pay their hotel bills in foreign currency. For details please enquire at nearest Indian Government office.

The official rates of exchange are as follows: £1 equal to Rs. 18·08; U.S. $1 equal to Rs. 7·50. The actual buying and selling rates, however, differ slightly from these rates.

Time: The Indian Standard Time (IST) is 5½ hours ahead of Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) and Central European Time, and 11½ hours ahead of the United States Time.

Electric Current: Voltage in most places is 220–240 A.C., 50 cycles, though a few areas have D.C. supply as well. The tourists are advised to check the voltage before using an electric shaver or other electrical gadgets.

ACCOMMODATION

(List of Hotels under "Services" Please see General Index under "H".

There are modern western-style hotels in all large cities as well as at popular tourist centres. These have been classified on the internationally accepted star system. Most hotels offer a choice of first class western and Indian cuisine. Hotel charges in India are moderate compared to those of many other countries.

At tourist centres where hotel accommodation is not adequate, there are travellers lodges/tourist bungalows constructed and run by the India Tourism Development Corporation, a Government of India Undertaking, or by the State Governments which offer comfortable lodging and meals.

House boats fully furnished and staffed are moored to the banks of the river Jhelum and Dal and Nagin lakes in Kashmir and are known for their comfort and convenience.

Many centres of tourist interest in India are situated in out-of-the-way places. At most of these tourist centres there are Government owned rest houses (semi-hotel establishments) where tourists can stay. These are all close to national highways and convenient for tourist travelling by road. It is advisable to make reservations in these rest houses sufficiently in advance.

Youth Hostel accommodation is generally available in the hostels of schools and colleges in most places of tourist interest during vacations only, in summer from May to July and in winter during December. However, there is a

PLACES OF TOURIST INTEREST IN CENTRAL REGION

Sanchi: It is 45 Km. (28 miles) from Bhopal, the Capital of Madhya Pradesh. Sanchi was not directly associated with the life of Buddha, but grew to be an active centre of Buddhism during the time of Ashoka (3rd Century B.C.). The magnificent and relatively well preserved monuments for which Sanchi is famous are all situated atop a hill overlooking woods where "Flame of the Forest" trees bloom fiery red in the summer. The most imposing of the monuments is the Great Stupa (about 150–100 B.C.)—huge semi-circular structure, surrounded by profusely carved gateways and railings depicting scenes from the Buddha's life. In the history of Indian art, the Sanchi stupa occupies a very important place, for it has influenced Hindu and Buddhist sculpture for many centuries that followed.

Accommodation : Tourist Bungalow; Circuit House; P.W.D. Rest House; Buddhist Guest House.

Khajuraho : Nearly 402 Km. (250 miles) south east of Delhi (flying time 2 hrs. 15 mts.) are the erotic temples of Khajuraho in Madhya Pradesh, belonging to about 950 to 1150 A.D. They are ranked among the world's top-most tourist attractions, and represent some of the most exquisite specimens of Hindu architecture and sculpture in medieval India. The carving in the temples still seem to breathe a life and passion of their own and their beautiful proportions, the vibrant texture of the carvings which enrich their walls and their impressive size testify to the glories of the master builders of those days.

Accommodation : Traveller's Lodge; Circuit House; Tourist Bungalow.

GAME SANCTUARIES

Kanha National Park : In the central highlands of India is one of the finest places for seeing Indian swamp deer, chital, blackduck, Indian bison, sambar and various carnivores. There are also nearly a hundred species of birds in this park. It can be reached by a motorable road from Nagpur (273 km. or 170 miles).

Accommodation : Forest rest houses.

Shivpuri National Park : The game preserve of the former rulers of Gwalior State, this 158 sq. km. (61 sq. miles) park is the natural abode of the sambar, chital, nilgai, chinkara and the Indian tiger. It is about 181 km. (70 miles) south of Gwalior.

Accommodation : Shivpuri Hotel, Circuit House and Dak Bungalow.

IN EASTERN REGION

Bodh Gaya : It is the most sacred of Buddhist centres because it was here that the Buddha attained enlightenment under the 'Peepal' tree. A number of monuments were raised at this site in the subsequent centuries. The Mahabodhi Temple, a magnificent structure with a pyramidal tower of nine storeys, 48·75 m. (160 feet) high, contains a colossal gilded image of the Buddha in the earth-touching posture symbolising the event of enlightenment. The temple was probably built in the 4th century A.D. and restored several times subsequently. Bodh Gaya is 11·26 km. (7 miles) by road from Gaya railway station which is connected with Patna by rail (92 km. or 57 miles).

Accommodation : Traveller's Lodge.

Darjeeling : Hill station in West Bengal lies on the lower slopes of the Himalayas about 600 km. (370 miles) north of Calcutta. It is 2,167·12 m. (7,110 feet) above sea level. From here, one can view the Himalayas in all their majesty, range upon range of perpetual snow culminating in Kanchenjunga (8,578·90 m. or 28,146 ft. high). The quaint Buddhist shrines and monasteries, the happy carefree faces of the hill-folk and above all the picturesque scenery all around will abide in the visitor's memory.

Darjeeling's great attraction is a view of sunrise from Tiger Hill, 10 km. (6 miles) from Chaurasta, the centre of the resort. As the crimson sun appears on the horizon, the white peaks become a glorious feast of colour. The Kanchenjunga can always be seen, while the Everest, the highest peak in the world, is visible only on a clear day. Other favourite walks for the visitor are to Birch Hill and Lebong. The former is a reserve forest with an excellent park. Here the visitor will find oak, chestnut, cherry, maple, birch and alder. Lebong is a fine spur where English fruit-trees and the tea plant flourish. The racecourse here has the reputation of being the smallest and also the highest in the world.

Not far from the Birch Hill Park is the Himalayan Mountaineering Institute which provides training in the science and art of mountaineering in the Himalayas. Mr. Tenzing Norkay, who climbed the Everest along with Sir Edmund Hillary, is associated with the Institute. The Observatory Hill, above the church, is known to the Buddhists as 'Rdo-rje-gling', 'the place of the Dorje', the mystic thunderbolt of the lamaist religion. It is from this that Darjeeling takes its name. The bazars of Darjeeling are very exciting. There you will find curios, carved wooden boxes, exotic pieces of jewellery, embroidered shawls and art objects. On Saturdays and Sundays, the picturesque hill-folk—Bhutias, Nepalese, Tibetans, Lepchas — throng the market place with their wares and look most colourful.

Darjeeling can be reached from Calcutta by air upto Bagdogra and from there by road (88 km. or 55 miles).

Accommodation : Oberoi Mount Everest, 15, Gandhi Road; Windamere Hotel, Observatory Hill; Central Hotel, Robertson Road.

Bhubaneshwar : Orissa's new capital, a metropolis of temples, was built around a sacred lake which was once encircled by some 7,000 shrines. Now only 500 remain in decay, presenting a complete picture of Orissan art and history from the 3rd century B.C. to the 16th century A.D. The great Lingaraj Temple is supposed to be "the finest example of a purely Hindu temple in India". Pilgrims come here for blessings and then take a dip in the sacred lake "Bindu Sagar" to wash away all sins. This 20th century garden city has many other attractions like the nearby Jain and Buddhist rock cut caves of Khandagiri and Udayagiri. The beautifully preserved Asoka's rock edicts at Dhanli, carved around 260 B.C. narrate the horrors of the Kalinga war and Asoka's acceptance of the path of non-violence.

Accommodation : Traveller's Lodge and the State Guest House.

Puri : About 63 Km. (39 miles) by road from Bhubaneshwar is the sacred city of Puri dominating Orissa's sea coast in all its secluded splendour. It is one of the 'Char Dham', the four most holy places of pilgrimage in India, the three other being Badrikedarnath in the north, Rameshwaram in the south, and Dwarka in the west. Every year, in the month of June, as many as two hundred thousand visitors and pilgrims flock to Puri to watch the Car Festival, when the images of the Jagannath ('Lord of the Universe') Temple are taken over a distance of one mile to the garden shrine of Gundicha Mandir. The gigantic car 11 m. (35 ft.) long and 14 m. (45 ft.) high with 16 wheels — each 2·13 m. (7 ft.) in diameter — is used for carrying the deities. It is a unique sight to see thousands of devotees vying with each other to pull the chariot.

Modern Puri has been built more or less along the beach which stretches east to west. The sea is shallow for about a mile from the beach, but the surf breaks with a rare violence on the shore. From early morning the beach is thronged with people who sport or bathe in the roaring but harmless waves.

Accommodation : South Eastern Railway Hotel; Circuit House; P.W.D. Dak Bungalow; Forest Rest House.

Konarak : The Sun Temple of Konarak, on the seashore, about 66 km. (41 miles) from Bhubaneshwar is stupendous in proportions and truly amazing in its ornamentation. Standing in lonely splendour among the sand dunes, built in 1250 A.D. and dedicated to the Sun God, the temple is in the architectural image of the mythical chariot of the Sun rushing through the blue heavens. The twelve pairs of wheels of the chariot are the last word in sculptural artistry and the seven horses in front, straining to pull the massive weight, are superbly executed. Intensely lovely are the thousand and one figures — musicians, lovers, couples in embrace, floral designs, the enormous horses and elephants flanking the temple, scenes of the battle and the chase — all masterpieces.

Accommodation : Traveller's Lodge at a short distance from the temple is a very comfortable place to stay in, but tourists prefer to visit Konarak in a one-day trip from Bhubaneshwar.

Chilka Lake : About 96 km (60 miles) south of Bhubaneshwar is this great lake, famed for its rich bird life and a favourite resort for fishermen. Its scenery is of great natural beauty and many people travel there to watch the ever-changing light at dawn, at noon, at sunset, in winter and in summer, in sunshine and in the rains.

Some of the most attractive aborigine tribes live in the neighbourhood of this lake.

Accommodation : P.W.D. Inspection Bungalow at Barkul which overlooks the lake.

Hyderabad-Secunderabad : The twin city linked together by the Hussain-Sagar (lake), is the capital of Andhra Pradesh. It is a centre of Muslim culture and learning and the fifth largest city in India. Standing on the banks of the river Musi, it was till 1948 the capital of Hyderabad State of Nizam, one of the richest men in the world. The Salar Jung Museum crammed with curios from all over the world, old manuscripts, costumes and ancient weapons is a living proof of the riches. Trapezoid in shape the city is surrounded by a stone wall. At the junction of wide avenues stand the Char Minar, a stately rectangular white building with four tall minarets often referred to as the "Arc de Triomphe" of the East. It is the famous landmark of Hyderabad and curiously made more famous by a brand of cigarettes of the same name said to be one of the strongest, cheapest and most satisfying kind on the market. To the south of Charminar lies the Chaumahalla Palace and to the west the Mecca Masjid, the principal mosque of Hyderabad. Built entirely of stone and richly decorated in coloured and polished plaster it boasts of an interior that can hold ten thousand worshippers at a time.

The Falaknuma Palace, the Osmania University and the beautifully laidout river gardens are some of the recent additions to the city that blend well with the old.

The tombs situated 8 km. (5 miles) out of the city, are of Qutbshahi kings who ruled in the 16th and 17th centuries. Next to it is the massive Golconda Fort. It is surrounded by a strongly built wall of solid blocks of granite, with eighty-seven bastion at the angles, on which there are still some of the old guns. Now in ruins it was once famous as the diamond mart for the nearby mines.

IN NORTHERN REGION

Delhi : Like Rome, the capital of the Indian Republic, is an 'eternal city', and with a history even more chequered and ancient. In the ancient days, the city shifted its site at least seven times and the ruins of all these townships are still there for anyone to see.

There are today two Delhis — the old city of the Mughals built by Shah Jahan, the Emperor who built the Taj, and the new city built by the British in 1931. While Old Delhi evokes a distinctly oriental atmosphere, the New Delhi has wide avenues and imposing office buildings. Both the cities are rich in monuments and mosques; such as the Red Fort, the Jantar Mantar Observatory, Humayun Tomb, the Parliament House, the Rashtrapati Bhavan and many more.

Accommodation : Hotel Oberoi Intercontinental, Wellesley Road; Ashoka Hotel, 50-B, Chanakyapuri; Claridges Hotel, 12, Aurangzeb Road; Hotel Imperial, Janpath; Hotel Rajdoot, Mathura Road; Hotel Oberoi Maidens, 7 Alipur Road; Hotel Janpath, Janpath; Nirula's Hotel, L Block, Connaught Circus; Lodi Hotel, Lala Lajpat Rai Marg.

Advanced styling is adapted to the local climatic needs making it an unique city in the whole of India.

Accommodation : Hotel Oberoi Mount View, Sector 10; Dak Bungalow.

Amritsar : City in the Punjab, is the religious capital of the Sikhs. It was founded in 1577 around a sacred pool, from which the city takes its name "Pool of Nectar". The Golden Temple stands in the centre of this pool. The marble based temple has bronze sides and dome which are heavily covered with pure gold leaf. These reflect the tropical sun into the still waters of the pool, illuminating it and creating an atmosphere of awe and respect. There are a few more of the Sikh and Hindu temples worth seeing, but none surpass the peaceful aura of the Golden Temple.

Accommodation : Hotel Airlines, Cooper Road; Mrs. Bhandari's "Guest House", 10 Cantonment.

Almora : In U.P. (133 km. or 83 miles from Kathgodam Railway Station) is the main town in Kumaon Hills. Perched at an elevation of 1,706·88 m (5,600 ft.) it is about two miles in length like a saddle, and is said to have been founded four hundred years ago by Raja Kalyan Chand. Almora has moderate rainfall, temperate climate, the temperature seldom rising above 31°C (88°F), even during the summer days, and comparative freedom from fog. Within easy distance of Almora are many Himalayan peaks — Seehee Debi, Bandnee Debi and Binsar being the chief ones. Binsar Hill also known as Jhandi Dhar is only 21 km. (13 miles) from Almora and the bridle path leading to it, passes through enchanting jungle scenery.

Accommodation : Available at the Government circuit house for which an advance booking has to be made.

Pindari Glacier : Can be reached from Almora at a distance of 120 km. (75 miles) in eight stages, attaining an altitude of 3,963 m. to 4,267 m. (13,000 to 14,000 ft.). The most suitable time for this trip is either May–June or September–October.

Naini Tal : Hill station also in Kumaon Hills, is attractively situated around a mountain lake 1,935·48 m. (6,350 ft.) above sea level. A shady avenue skirts the lake. On either side of the lake rise lofty hills dotted with beautiful villas and bungalows. There are a number of picnic spots around from where one can have a magnificent view of the snow peaked Himalayan mountain range. Nainital District has a chain of lakes lying close to one another, the prettiest amongst them being lake Naini itself. They are a veritable paradise for the angler. Besides fishing, one could also do swimming, yachting, boating, riding, skating and trekking.

Kashmir : The Great Mughals, who were connoisseurs of the good things of life, described Kashmir as 'the earthly paradise'.

Indeed, it is difficult to imagine anything more lovely. It is a vast, rich, green valley criss-crossed by streams and rivulets and encircled by stupendous snow-clad mountains — 'an emerald set in pearls'. Nature has adorned it with lakes of limpid waters, bubbling springs by hill-sides, upland pastures and springy meadows. Clothing the valley is a vast expanse of paddy fields and forests alive with a variety of birds and animals. To enhance its natural beauty, pleasure gardens were laid out by the Great Mughals at many places in Kashmir.

Kashmir is just the place for a perfect holiday.

Here you can stay in luxury in a floating hotel called the 'house-boat'; glide gently on the placid waters of the Dal Lake in a shikara; play golf on perhaps the world's highest golf-course; enjoy a variety of water sports; or, if you are adventurous, go trekking or hunting. Also, you can take back home some of the exquisitely embroidered, carved, chiselled or painted handicrafts for which Kashmir is known the world over.

Srinagar : Is a central place from where excursions and pleasure trips to all parts of the valley can be planned. It is itself a picturesque place with lakes, gardens and monuments along the river Jhelum.

Srinagar is an ancient city believed to have been first built by Emperor Asoka in the third century B.C. The Jhelum flows through the heart of the city, dividing it into two parts which are connected by nine bridges. A trip down the river in a swiftly gliding shikara would give the visitor a feel of the city's picturesque balconies, busy ghats, mosques and temples.

Gulmarg : Is about 46 km. (29 miles) from Srinagar, a huge grassy bowl, known for its golf-course. The last 6·4 km. (4 miles) of the journey are covered either by a pony or on foot and, with special permission, by jeep also. At the end of the climb, the visitor is rewarded with a magnificent view of Gulmarg which has numerous walks and picnic spots.

Kangra has several tea gardens while Kulu is well-known for the fruit orchards. The winding narrow roads flanked and shaded by pink blossomed apricot trees, huge rhododendrons and blue and purple iris in different seasons lead to the hilltops that look down on a gorgeous alpine scenery. These valleys are favourite vacation places as the summer is never uncomfortably hot and offer sports like golf, tennis, swimming, hiking and trout fishing.

Here the simple and unsophisticated people are a contented lot with few needs and fewer worries. These happy-go-lucky people hold fairs and festivals throughout the year and it would be wise to check and be there on a festival.

Accommodation : At Kangra : Civil Rest House; At Kulu : Traveller's Lodge; Civil Rest House; Forest Rest House; Calvert Lodge and Hotel May Flower; At Katrain : Riverview Guest House; At Manali : Orchards Guest House.

Allahabad : (Also called Prayag) : City in U.P. situated at the confluence of the Ganga, the Jamuna and the unseen Saraswati. The confluence is the holiest bathing place for Hindus. Every 12 years, Kumbha Mela (religious fair) is held attracting over four million of pilgrims during the four weeks. The last one was held in February 1965. A smaller fair occurs every six years — Adha Kumbhi. The old Mughal fort contains an underground temple where well carved images are seen and the pilgrims worship at a small tree taking it to be the Eternal Banyan Tree (Akshaya Vata). 104·6 km. (65 miles) from Allahabad is Kosambi, where the ruins of an ancient capital are being excavated.

Jaipur : Capital of Rajasthan State, it was planned and built by an astronomer-prince in the 18th century, when there were few planned cities even in Europe. "I have seen Jaipur, and now I can die" was how Max Lerner, a famed traveller, felt after having an eyeful of this beautiful pink city. Comparing it with Venice and Paris, he named Jaipur along with them as the three most beautiful cities of the world. But he found something more in Jaipur — a dream quality about the fabric of its delicate gossamer structure, its lattice work and pink terracotta. This picturesque city — a fantasy in stone — set in the heart of Rajasthan is encircled by rugged hills crowned with medieval fortresses reminiscent of the days when the valiant Rajputs fought fierce battles and long drawn out wars to save their beloved land from invading alien hordes. The city palace in the centre of Jaipur is now a museum of Rajput & Mughal miniature paintings, an armoury and rare manuscripts. The Hawai Mahal Palace of the winds — has so many windows with perforated screens that the breeze sweeps through them. Maharaja Jai Singh who built the city in 1727 was also a great astronomer. He built an observatory with instruments of his own design. About 11·2 km. (7 miles) away is Amber palace perched on the slopes of a steep hill and surrounded by a lake. A majestic elephant takes the visitor up the slopes and into this mysterious palace that possesses the world's best chamber of mirrors. The sprawling marble palaces with coloured glass of amber and pale jade reflect in the steel blue waters of the lake Pichola. Hundreds of green parrots lend a peaceful colour to the early morning skies. Surrounded by wooded hills the city is aptly called the 'City of Dreams'. The Jag Nivas palace with fountains and gardens and apartments with courts, has now been turned into the Lake Palace Hotel and offer the visitor a unique and unforgettable stay.

Other accommodations : Garden Hotel and Motel, State Hotel, Laxmi Vilas Palace Hotel.

About 112·6 km. (70 miles) from Udaipur is Chittorgarh. The ruins of this abandoned capital of Mewar speak eloquently of the many grim and glorious deeds of Rajput heroism and sacrifice which have almost become a myth.

IN SOUTHERN REGION

Madras : Capital of Tamil Nadu is the gateway to a pleasant land, the city of an ancient civilization exemplified in its many monuments of the past with a rich heritage of culture. Although being carried along on the stream of progressive development yet remaining largely unspoilt, Madras is one of the more attractive cities of India. Perhaps the first claim to fame for Madras is its wonderful foreshore of fine sandy beach stretching from the harbour to the limits of the city at the Adyar river and then beyond for many miles to the south. It is a source of pride to the people, for it is considered to be the second longest beach in the world. There are delightful gardens along its whole length with many varieties of flowers.

Speaking of culture the visitor instantly feels the difference between the rest of India and the south in this city which can be the starting point for an introduction to the Dravidian culture. The many invasions of the aliens never quite reached upto the south and the pureness of this culture remains intact. The temples, the music the dance all vibrate in its original form and one should never leave Madras without seeing a Bharat Natya dance performance. Much of the poses and stances of this dance are depicted in the sculptures of the South Indian temples.

The so-called pagodas are actually known as rathas. They are carved out of rocks in the form of temple chariots and are the chief glory of Mahabalipuram.

Conjeevaram (Kanchipuram) : The city of temples, the Banaras of the South, is about 72 km. (45 miles) to the southwest of Madras. The place is divided into three parts, Shiva Conjeevaram, Vishnu Conjeevaram and Pillayar Paliyam, a testimony to the part played by all the main Hindu religious sects in the history of the city.

There are over a thousand temples in all, amongst them is the temple of Kailasnath, believed to be 1,200 years old and contains some excellent 7th and 8th century paintings on the walls. More of these wall paintings are seen in the Vaikunthanath Perumal Temple which is also over 1,000 years old.

It is a one-day excursion trip from Madras, but one can stay at the Traveller's Lodge.

Pondicherry : 167 km. (104 miles) by road from Madras. The atmosphere of a sleepy French provincial town still prevails here. It was returned to India in 1954 after the French rule of 250 years. The main attraction of this place is the ashram of the philosopher Aurobindo Ghose.

(40 in.) so that Ooty has excellent weather throughout the year, and during the season from April to June, it ranks amongst the gayest resorts in India. It reposes in an amphitheatre surrounded by four great hills. On the slopes of the hills are residential and office buildings. At the bottom of the valley enclosed by them is Ooty's artificial lake which could pass for a natural one. Conceived by Sullivan in 1823 and meant for irrigation, it turned out to be so lovely that it was preserved for its sheer beauty. The lake provides facilities for boating and fishing. Walking round the lip of the lake towards the bazar one comes to the edge of Hobart Park where there is the race-course. Racing is a weekly event in Ooty during the season. By the side of the park stands the chief bazar in Ooty. West of this are the Wenlock Downs — an expanse of undulating springy turf embellished with woods and streams. Here are also the golf-links. These downs are the home country of the Ootacamund Hunt.

The terraced Botanical Gardens, a landmark in Ootacamund, were laid out by an expert from London's Kew Gardens, over a century ago. It has many rare trees and flowering plants. Ooty's flower, fruit and vegetable shows are attended by people from all over the Nilgiris, and here the fashionable jostling with the tribal folk present a colourful spectacle.

A man-made lake with a three-mile shady promenade around it is the popular place in the evenings. Kodaikanal has a hint of a place somewhere on the continent with chalet-type houses perched at random on the slopes of the Palni Hills.

EXCURSIONS OUT OF MYSORE

Shrirangapatna : The city of Lord Ranganath — takes its name from the imposing temple of Vishnu. This quiet island-town on river Kaveri 16 km. (10 miles) from Mysore, is reminiscent of many battles and past glories. On special occasions devout Hindus pass through this place to bathe in the river and to worship in this shrine.

Tipu Sultan, son of Hyder Ali, inherited a large dominion from his father. Srirangapatna was its capital and it became the centre of diplomatic manoeuvres against the rising power of the British. Tipu's summer palace in the midst of an exquisite garden on the river bank has large panels with paintings depicting battle scenes and processions that recall episodes from his and his father's life. The walls, pillars, arches and roofs are covered with an amazing variety of painted designs made gorgeous by a liberal use of gold.

Sravana Belgola: Wedged in between two hills, which rise abruptly from a flat plain, Sravana Belgola dominates the countryside for four miles with its 17·37 m. (57 ft.) high Jain colossus of Lord Gomateswara, shaped out of a single rock. This monolithic statue was carved in 983 A.D.

The town, a flourishing centre of Jain pilgrimage, abounds in monuments that recall the achievements of a bygone age. It is about 100 km. (62 miles) from Mysore.

Belur : 56·3 km. (35 miles) from Sravana Belgola is Belur, 800 year's ago a flourishing capital of the Hoysala kings. Its chief place of interest is the 12th century temple of Chenna Keshava, a manifestation of Vishnu. Its outer walls are decorated with an amazing variety of carvings. No description can do justice to the infinite patience and skill with which the sculptors fashioned the intricate details of the scroll work, the niches, the elephants, the miniature turrets and human figures and gods. The interior of the temple also displays a profusion of artistic skill lavished on the pillars, ceilings, doorways, and bracket figures.

Halebid : 12·8 km. (8 miles) from Belur, it was the metropolis of the ancient Hoysala rulers. The Lord Siva temple built about the same time as the Belur Temple has every inch of its outer wall covered with friezes of great variety. Remarkable for artistic skill are the sculptured elephants, horses, mythical beasts and birds, the scroll work of infinite beauty and variety, and the big panels of gods and goddesses of the Hindu pantheon running all round the walls.

Usually all these places are visited from Mysore in a day and a half's trip with a night stop at the comfortable Traveller's Lodge at Hassan.

Bijapur : Town in Mysore State, capital of the old Adilshahi Sultans of Bijapur, is rich with the remains of palaces, mosques and tombs. Gol Gumaz the vast mausoleum of Mohammed Adil Shah (17th century) has a dome which is the second largest in the world with St. Peter's at Rome outdoing it by merely 15 feet. The Whispering Gallery inside the dome is called thus, because the enclosed space is so constructed that it has remarkable acoustics and a soft whisper at one point of the gallery can be heard most distinctly at the opposite point. Jama Masjid of Bijapur is the greatest mosque in the south and also one of the finest in India.

IN WESTERN REGIONS

Bombay : Arriving by sea or by air, one is struck by its lovely natural setting — the far-away blue outlines of the majestic Western Ghats, the calm sea dotted with fishing boats gliding smoothly under white sails, the palm-fringed beaches and on the outskirts smoke rising from a thousand chimneys in the mill area — a reminder that Bombay is one of the largest industrial cities of the East.

A cosmopolitan city, it owes its prosperity to the industry and enterprise of its population of over five million. Throughout the day, a constant stream of people keeps flowing in and out of its streamlined transport, smart business premises, modern hotels and busy textile factories. In the evening, the centre of attraction is the city's splendid promenade by the sea, the Marine Drive.

The 'Gateway of India', as the entrance to the harbour is known, is the most familiar landmark in the city. The massive edifice, situated on the Apollo Bunder, serves as a place of reception on important ceremonial occasions.

The main cave, dedicated to Siva, has huge sculptures and panels in relief. The most striking of the images is the Maheshmurti, a 6 m. (19 ft.) high, three headed bust hewn from a single rock representing the triple aspect of the Hindu Divinity.

There are a number of rock-cut monuments around Bombay. The more well-known among them are the Kanheri group of Buddhist caves and the series of shrines and monasteries known as Karla, Bhaja and Bedsa. Bassein, the sixteenth-century stronghold of the Portuguese, was a flourishing city, as may be gauged from the ruins of churches, convents, manors and fortifications.

Aurangabad : In Maharashtra is where Emperor Aurangzeb built a replica of the Taj, Bibi-ka-Maqbara, a mausoleum for his wife. It has its own splendour and grace quite different than the Taj.

Close to Aurangabad is Daulatabad, "City of Fortune", built in the 14th century by a Sultan of Delhi, who was mad enough to try to move here the whole population of Delhi, which is some 1,813 km. (700 miles) away.

There are a few Buddhist caves near Aurangabad which are worth a visit.

Ajanta-Ellora : An hour and a half's flight from Bombay is Aurangabad, the starting point of a journey to two of the world's famous rock-cut temples — Ajanta and Ellora, the most remarkable monuments of their kind in the world. These monasteries and shrines have been hewn out of living rock by generations of sculptors. Ajanta, 170 km. (66 miles) from Aurangabad, lies in a narrow gorge and contains a breathtaking picture gallery of frescoes. It is believed that these caves were cut in stages between the 2nd century B.C. to about 7th century A.D.

The Ellora caves situated 38·8 km. (15 miles) from Aurangabad are excavated in the face of a hill and run north to south for a mile and a quarter. The crescent-shape hill has Buddhist, Hindu and Jain cave temples with a unique collection of sculptures. These caves are about a thousand years old.

Ahmedabad : Capital of Gujarat; is the second largest textile centre in India. It contains numerous monuments of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, amongst them are the Shaking Minarets which are architectural wonders. Once a Portuguese possession in India, Goa has numerous beautiful beaches, where one can sun-bathe, swim or just laze away in the vast expanse of dazzling white sands fringed with swaying palm trees. Cosy eating places serve the famous Goan curries and excellent wines.

The remnants of the Portuguese civilization can be seen in the old Goa. MINES AND MINERALS

THE total value of mineral production in India during 1971 was Rs. 4,422 million as against Rs. 4,485 million in the previous year. Fuels (coal, lignite, petroleum & natural gas) constituting the leading group accounted for Rs. 3,390 million or 77 per cent of the total value of mineral production during 1971. The share of metallic minerals was Rs. 659 million and that of non-metallic minerals Rs. 375 million accounting for 15 and 8 per cent respectively.

In terms of value of output during 1971 next to coal and lignite (Rs. 2,596 million) and petroleum (Rs. 757 million) were iron ore (Rs. 389 million), limestone (Rs. 213 million), manganese ore (Rs. 77 million), gold (Rs. 76 million), copper ore (Rs. 53 million), mica (Rs. 18 million), dolomite (Rs. 23 million), kyanite (Rs. 19 million), chromite (Rs. 21 million) and phosphorite (Rs. 20 million).

The quantity index of mineral production (base 1960—100) stood at 179 during 1971 remaining steady compared to previous year. Fuel (coal, lignite, petroleum (crude) and natural gas) mining constitutes as much as 78·2 per cent of the overall mining activity in the country followed by metal mining with 13·7 per cent and non-metallic mining 8·1 per cent. The index of coal mining registered 142 in 1971 in comparison with 149 in 1970. Metallic mining index during 1971 was 156 as against 145 in the previous year. The exports of manganese ore is canalised through the Minerals and Metal Trading Corporation of India Ltd. The Manganese Ore India Ltd. is also allowed to export the ores produced by it or acquired by it in the course of its normal business operation.

There is only one ferro-manganese plant under public sector at Bhadravati in Mysore State, and six in the private sector, two each in Maharashtra and Orissa and one each in Andhra Pradesh and Mysore.

During 1971, the total production of ferro-manganese was 163,902 tonnes as against 175,612 tonnes in 1970. The export of ferro-manganese during 1971 was 38,505 tonnes, valued at Rs. 39·5 million as against 91,756 tonnes valued at Rs. 85·9 million.

NON-FERROUS GROUP

Bauxite: India is self-sufficient in respect of bauxite which is the chief raw material for aluminium metal. A sizeable quantity also finds outlet in export market after meeting the indigenous requirements. The all India reserves of bauxite of all grades are placed at 227 million tonnes.

The important deposits of bauxite occur in Palamau and Ranchi districts of Bihar; Surguja, Shahadol districts of M.P.; Salem, Madurai and Nilgiris districts of Tamil

Nadu; Kolhapur, Ratnagiri and Kolaba districts of Maharashtra; Saurashtra, Kutch and Surat districts of Gujarat; Belgaum, North and South Kanara districts of Mysore; Kalahandi, Sambalpur districts of Orissa and Poonch, Riasi and Udhampur districts of Jammu & Kashmir.

Yearly production and export of bauxite in thousand tonnes are: 1968 (961; 99); 1969 (1,085; 126); 1970 (1,370; 119); 1971 (1,496; 36).

During 1971, six aluminium smelters, all in the private sector with a total installed capacity of 167,500 tonnes per annum, located one each at Hirakud (Orissa); Alwaye (Kerala); Belgaum (Mysore); Renukoot (U.P.); Mettur (Tamil Nadu) and Jayakanagar (West Bengal) produced a total of 178,179 tonnes of aluminium metal. Setting up of two units, under public sector one each at Koyna, Maharashtra (50,000 tonnes capacity) and Korba, Madhya Pradesh (100,000 tonnes capacity) are under progress.

Copper : In India at present Indian Copper Corporation Ltd. is the sole producer of copper ore and metal at Ghatsila, Bihar.

Extensive investigations are being carried out in Singhbhum copper belt of Bihar; Khetri belt and Bhagoni area of Rajasthan; Malajkhand of Madhya Pradesh, etc.

The integrated mine and plant at Khetri under the "Khetri Copper Complex" which is under construction will have a capacity of 31,000 tonnes of electric copper metal annually. Besides 600 tonnes of sulphuric acid will be produced as a by-product which will be utilised for the production of about 200,000 tonnes of triple super phosphate per annum.

The production of refined copper was 9,554 tonnes in 1971 and 9,311 tonnes in 1970. This meets about 16 per cent of the copper requirements of the country.

Copper import in tonnes and value in '000 rupees respectively: 1968 (36,429; 326,203); 1969 (48,402; 449,088); 1970 (50,970; 624,391); 1971 (59,017; 549,593).

Regular production at Khetri mines, was expected to start by end of 1972, at the rate of 2,000 tonnes per day.

Lead & zinc : Investigation for lead-zinc were being carried out in Zawar belt of Udaipur district, Ambamata belt in Gujarat and Lokdega-Sargipalli of Orissa.

Zawar is the only area producing lead and zinc ores. During 1971, 4,262 tonnes of lead concentrates and 15,865 tonnes of zinc concentrates were produced from Zawar mines in Udaipur district, Rajasthan.

There are at present two zinc smelters, one at Debari in Rajasthan and the other at Alwaye, Kerala. The zinc smelter at Debari, has an annual installed capacity of 18,000 tonnes of zinc metal and 29,464 tonnes of sulphuric acid (to be converted in turn into 75,000 tonnes later on) and 75 tonnes of cadmium metal.

Another firm viz. Cominco Binani Ltd. at Alwaye, Kerala based on imported concentrates, has annual installed capacity of 20,000 tonnes of zinc metal, 48,000 tonnes of sulphuric acid, and 36 tonnes of cadmium metal.

During 1971, the production of zinc metal and cadmium metal was 21,248 tonnes and 31 tonnes respectively.

The production of refined lead during 1971, was 1,539 tonnes as against 1,861 tonnes in 1970 from the Tundoo smelter, Bihar. The present installed capacity of the plant is 6,000 tonnes per annum.

NON-METALLIC MINERALS

Apatite and rock phosphate : These constitute the principal raw material for production of commercial phosphatic fertilisers. Requirements of rock phosphate were entirely met by imports till 1968. In view of their short supply, intensive exploratory programme for the search of phosphate minerals were launched upon by the Govt. and as a result several workable deposits of phosphorites were discovered in Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh. Already production of phosphorite has commenced at Jhamar-Kotra in Udaipur district of Rajasthan and Maldeota in Dehra Dun district of Uttar Pradesh. The production of phosphorite totalled 232,089 tonnes during 1971.

Yearly import of phosphate 1968 : 860,625 tonnes; 1969 : 661,747 tonnes; 1970 : 667,657 tonnes; 1971 : 813,261 tonnes.

Asbestos : Naturally occurring fibrous minerals are called 'asbestos'. The commercial varieties fall into two groups viz. the serpentine group found extensively in the serpentine rocks and is commonly called chrysotile variety and the other amphibole group comprised tremolite, actinolite, anthophyllite, crocidolite and amosite varieties. The chrysotile variety is the most important one from the industrial point of view and is mainly limited to Pulivendla taluk of Cuddapah district of Andhra Pradesh.

The bulk of the asbestos requirements of the country is met by imports on account of inadequate domestic production. The trend in the production and imports of asbestos for the last four years is shown in the table below:

(In tonnes)

Year	Output	Imports

In all there were 9 asbestos cement manufacturing units in 1971 with a total licenced capacity of 561,000 tonnes per annum, against which the production was 390,118 tonnes.

Gypsum : deposits are mainly found in Jodhpur, Bikaner, Nagaur and Jaisalmer districts of Rajasthan; Tiruchirapalli and Coimbatore districts of Tamil Nadu and Doda and Baramulla districts of Jammu & Kashmir.

The total inferred reserves are placed at 1,235 million tonnes, Rajasthan accounts for more than 90 per cent of the Indian reserves.

Smaller deposits also occur in Halar, Bhavnagar-Porbandar and Kutch districts of Gujarat; Nellore district of Andhra Pradesh; Tehri Garhwal district of Uttar Pradesh and Sirmur district of Himachal Pradesh.

Production of gypsum in thousand tonnes 1968 : 1,338; 1969 : 1,391; 1970 : 921; 1971 : 1,083.

Kyanite and sillimanite : are the important refractory minerals having the same chemical composition (Al_2O_3 : SiO_2). India has the richest deposits of kyanite and sillimanite in the world. Kyanite deposits are located at Lapsaburu, Kharswan in Singhbhum district, Bihar and sillimanite deposits at Sonapahar in Khasi Hills, Meghalaya. The Indian sillimanite can be used as a refractory without calcination since it shows very little expansion. India occupies important position both as a producer and an exporter of kyanite and sillimanite.

The trend of their output and exports for the last four years are shown in the following table :

Year	Kyanite		Sillimanite
	Output	Export	Output	Export
1968 ..	64,361	50,465	4,657	2,514

Limestone : is one of the most important industrial minerals required in the manufacture of cement, iron and steel, ferro-alloys, chemicals (for soda ash, caustic soda, bleaching powder, calcium carbide etc.) fertiliser (calcium ammonium nitrate) and lime.

From the present knowledge of reserves of various limestone deposits, it is apparent that sufficient resources of flux and cement grade limestone are available.

The chief producing centres are Salem and Mysore districts.

Major part of the output is used in the manufacture of refractory bricks for steel works and some quantity is exported.

The principal mica deposits are concentrated in Bihar, Rajasthan and Andhra Pradesh. During 1971, Bihar accounted for 54 per cent of the all India output, followed by Andhra Pradesh 29 per cent and Rajasthan with 16 per cent.

There are three mica insulation bricks manufacturing units, one each in Rajasthan, Bihar and Andhra Pradesh, utilizing scrap or mica waste. There is also one major unit manufacturing different types of micanite in Bihar.

The Pyrites and Phosphates and Chemicals Ltd. has been set up to exploit pyrites for production of sulphuric acid and other related products. The company continued implementation of two projects viz. (1) Mining of 0·24 million tonnes of pyrites per annum at Amjhore ; (2) production oriented exploratory mining pyrite project, Saladipura, Rajasthan. The Sindri acid plant of Fertiliser Corporation of India was commissioned in the first quarter of 1970. The country's requirements of sulphur are met from imports.

Rare Minerals : Investigations carried out by the Department of Atomic Energy have revealed a number of radioactive mineral deposits in India.

The beach sands of Kerala and Tamil Nadu contain a very useful radioactive mineral-monazite. The Indian monazites consist of 8 to 10 per cent of thoria, 0·3 to 0·4 per cent of uranium oxide, 28 per cent of phosphate and 60 to 65 per cent of rare earth oxides. Thorium can be converted into an important atomic fuel of the future. The total reserves of rare earth oxides in the beach sands have been estimated at approximately one million tonnes.

Ilmenite is also recovered from the beach sands of Kerala State, contributing nearly 90 per cent of the total production, and the Manavalakurichi area in Tamil Nadu. It is now mainly exported to Japan. The present estimated resources of ilmenite in the country are placed at 100 to 150 million tonnes. The production of ilmenite during the financial year 1971-72 was 157,409 tonnes.

India's present overall indicated and inferred reserves of uranium are estimated at about 76,000 tonnes, and of thorium at 500,000 tonnes.

Uranium bearing ores have been discovered in the Singhbhum Thrust Belt of Bihar, and in the Himalayan regions of Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh. The uranium mine at Jaduguda in the Singhbhum district, worked by the Uranium Corporation of India Ltd., a Govt. of India undertaking, treats about 1,000 tonnes of ore per day in the uranium mill.

It has been estimated that the resources of uranium in India can support about 5 to 10 million KWs of electricity generating capacity.

† The production of chinaclay for purposes of reporting is categorised as nonsaleable crude, saleable crude and processed. The processed chinaclay is recovered from the non-saleable crude after washing and refining and despatched to various consuming industries. On the other hand, saleable crude chinaclay represents the material despatched by the mineowners as such, directly to the consumers who are by and large pottery and ceramic manufacturers.

 In addition a quantity of 1,915 tonnes during 1970 and 2,143 tonnes during 1971 (excluding December, 1971 for which data are not available) was reported from Madhya Pradesh.

An 3·5 per cent decrease in food production was recorded this year over last year's production. This year's production stood at 104·7 million tonnes compared with last year's production of 108·4 million tonnes.

The total cereal production is 93·598 million tonnes, about 3·0 million tonnes less than last year at 96·604 million tonnes. The total pulses produced are 11·576 million tonnes, a decrease of 6·4 per cent.

The grain-wise break up is : rice 42·735 million tonnes; jowar 7·753 million tonnes; bajra 5·357 million tonnes; maize 5·026 million tonnes; ragi 2·167 million tonnes; small millets 1·582 million tonnes; wheat 26·477 million tonnes; barley 2·501 million tonnes; gram 8·027 million tonnes; red gram 1·574 million tonnes and other pulses 4·378 million tonnes.

Rice : Production in the country during 1971-72 was estimated at 42·74 million tonnes marking an increase of 0·51 million tonnes (1·2 per cent) over the previous year (1970-71). The yield per hectare registered a 2·0 per cent increase over last year. West Bengal continued to be the largest producer of rice with an output of 6·508 million tonnes followed by Tamil Nadu with 5·362 million tonnes. Increase in production has been shared mainly by Bihar, West Bengal, Punjab and Mysore. This increase in production has, however, been offset to some extent by the decreases mainly accounted for by Andhra Pradesh, Orissa, Maharashtra, Gujarat and Assam.

Wheat: The area under wheat was 19·2 mill. hectares and production 26·5 mill. tonnes the highest on record. The increase in production during 1971-72 is accounted for by all the major wheat growing states except Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan and Gujarat and is generally ascribeable to improvements in average yield due to high yielding varieties programme, development of minor irrigation facilities and other intensive cultivation measures. Wheat is grown widely throughout the north as a winter crop, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Haryana and Punjab supplying over 70 per cent of the total out-turn in this country. This crop occupies, on an average, about 11·7 per cent of the total cultivated area. More than 40 per cent of the crop is irrigated.

Jowar : About 16·802 million hectares are grown to yield 7·753 million tonnes of grain. Maharashtra, Andhra, Mysore, and Madhya Pradesh contribute over three-fourth of the total output. The jowar area and production respectively during 1971-72 were 16·8 mill. hectares and 7·8 mill. tonnes.

Bajra : Occupies over 12 million hectares to yield about 5 million tonnes of grains. Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Haryana, Gujarat and Maharashtra are the chief growing tracts. The duration of the crop varies from about 2½ to 5 months. During 1971-72 bajra was cultivated in 11·8 million hectares and produced about 5·36 million tonnes total output.

Ragi : Ragi occupies about 2·5 million hectares to produce over 2·2 million tonnes of grain. More than half the area is in Mysore, Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh. The area and yield during 1971-72 were 2·4 million hectares and 2·2 million tonnes respectively.

Other Millets : Small millets form about one-tenth of the total area under millets and are grown in over 4·5 million hectares and yield about 2 million tonnes of grain. The area and yield during 1971-72 were 4·51 million hectares and 1·58 million tonnes respectively. The most important among them are Korra or Kangni, Cheena or Varagu, Kodon, Kutki and Sawan.

Maize : Maize is cultivated in India in about 5·637 mill. hectares to produce about 5·026 mill. tonnes of grain. The major growing areas, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Rajasthan, Punjab and Madhya Pradesh between themselves account for about three-fourth of the maize area. The area and production during 1971-72 were 5·64 mill. hectares and 5·03 mill. tonnes respectively.

Barley : During 1971-72 barley was cultivated in an area of 2·43 mill. hectares and the production estimate was 2·50 million tonnes.

Pulses : Pulses are grown in over 22 million hectares producing about 11·1 million tonnes of grains.

Cotton : The area under cotton during 1971-72 was 7·8 mill. hectares producing 6·5 million bales of 180 kgs. each of cotton lint or 3·5 million tonnes of kapas. Production of cotton during 1971-72 was the highest on record and was attributed partly to increase in area and in yield due to favourable weather.

Jute : The area under jute during 1971-72 was 0·82 million hectares yielding 5·7 million bales of 180 kgs. each.

Oilseeds : The present production of 5 major oilseeds viz., groundnut, sesamum, rapeseed and mustard, linseed and castor-seed is 8,275,500 tonnes as against 9,258,600 tonnes a year ago. With a view to augmenting the supplies of vegetable oilseeds and oils, measures have been taken to increase the production of traditional oilseeds, including summer groundnut, and encouraging non-traditional oilseeds like sunflower and soyabean, advocating larger utilisation of cottonseed oil and rice bran oil and minor oilseeds of tree origin. Cultivation of sunflower because of its short duration, high per hectare yield and high oil content is likely to be taken up during 1972-73 over an area of 180,000 hectares.

The High Yielding Varieties Programme : More use of high yielding varieties is the key to the achievement of the Fourth Plan target for foodgrains production. The coverage under high yielding varieties increased from 11·4 million hectares in 1969-70 to 15·4 million hectares in 1970-71 and to 18 million hectares in 1971-72. It is hoped this could be increased to 25 million hectares by 1973-74.

In wheat production, the high yielding varieties have brought about a revolution. Before introducing the high yielding varieties in 1964-65 the production was 12·3 million tonnes. In 1971-72 it was 26·5 million tonnes.

In the case of rice, IR-8 has been found to be the most acceptable high yielding variety in most parts of the country. Intensive efforts are being made to evolve new varieties of rice having higher yield, superior grain quality and better resistance to pests and diseases.

Hybrid bajra is gaining popularity both under irrigated and rainfed conditions. Research is being carried out to evolue suitable varieties of maize. In the case of pulses too, three high yielding varieties of early maturing arhar, namely, S-5 (Agati), 5-8 (Sharda) and R-60 (Makta) and early Baisakhi moong have been released.

Fruit: The total area under fruit production is 1·37 million hectares and the production is estimated at 10 million tonnes. The ICAR has sanctioned a centre for research on banana and pine-apple at Trichur in Kerala under its Fourth Plan scheme of All India Co-ordinated Fruits Improvement Project at a total cost of Rs. 0·28 million. The ICAR has also finalised plans to set up research centres for various horticultural crops in the eastern region to exploit the vast potential in that area. Exports of canned fruits during 1970-71 amounted to Rs. 17·5 million and that of pickles and chutnies to Rs. 6·3 million. During 1971, 101 new licences were granted and 1,093 renewed.

About half a million tonnes of fruits and vegetables are now manufactured in the country, major portion of this is represented by soft-drinks.

The present production of banana is about 3·2 million tonnes and a centrally sponsored scheme to intensify the cultivation of bananas over 12,000 hectares has been sanctioned since December, 1971, for implementation during the remaining Fourth Plan period. The scheme envisages the production of 0·4 million tonnes of bananas of which 0·1 million tonnes would be the exportable type.

Regulated Markets : One of the visible benefits has been the reduction in the market charges to extents varying between 28 to 50 per cent. Most of the states have passed the necessary legislation for market regulation. Marketing surveys are regularly carried out for the development of new market yards with modern amenities to cope with the growing volume of trade. As a benefit to the producer and consumer grading units have been set up in almost all states and Union Territories. The number of regulated markets at the end of June, 1972, stood at 2,716 as against 2,356 in September, 1971. The number of grading units at the producer's level at the end of October, 1972, was 460 as against 411 last ear. The total value of commodities graded during 1971-72 was about Rs. 1,649 million.

Marketing, Processing : The main features of the programme are :— (1) Linking credit with marketing in the form of marketing societies; (2) Developing, processing and distribution of farming requisites on co-operative lines, (3) Promotion of storage and warehousing; (4) Consolidation and strengthening of consumer co-operatives at all levels; and (5) Development of co-operatives for small, marginal farmers and agricultural labourers as also for tribal areas.

Exports of agricultural commodities were Rs. 3,263 million during 1971-72 as against Rs. 3,000 million during the previous year, an increase of about 9 per cent. This increase in exports was mainly due to sugar, solvent extracted groundnut meal, rice, castor oil, cardamom, meat and meat products, gums and resin and ginger.

Exports during 1971-72 amounted to Rs. 3,431 million — 5·2 per cent higher than last year.

Cold Storage : The present capacity of cold storage in the country is about 1·7 million tonnes provided by 1,390 cold storages mostly run by private traders. 171 new licences were granted and 1,319 licences were renewed during the year, 1971.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

There are 19 Agricultural Universities in India at the following places: Andhra Pradesh (Hyderabad); Assam (Jorhat); Uttar Pradesh (Pantnagar); Gujarat (Ahmedabad); Haryana (Hissar); Himachal Pradesh (Simla); Madhya Pradesh (Jabalpur); Kerala (Mannuthy); Maharashtra (Dapoli, Rahuri, Parbhani & Krishinagar); Orissa (Bhubaneswar); Punjab (Ludhiana); Bihar (Patna); Tamil Nadu (Coimbatore); Mysore (Hebbal); West Bengal (Kalyani); and Rajasthan (Udaipur). About 15,500 Agricultural graduates have passed out so far.

There are 71 agricultural colleges, 20 veterinary colleges, 9 agricultural engineering colleges, 2 Dairy Science colleges, and 5 Home Science colleges.

(See also main Chapter on 'Education' under subject of study.)

SOIL CONSERVATION

Till the end of 1970-71 an area of 12 million hectares had been treated under the soil conservation programme at an estimated cost of Rs. 2,465·6 million. About 1·37 million hectares of agricultural land are expected to benefit from soil conservation programmes in 1971-72 at a total cost of about Rs. 318·0 million.

Centrally sponsored soil conservation schemes are in operation in the catchment of 13 major river valley projects spread over 14 states to reduce the premature silting of the reservoirs. During the first three years of the Fourth Plan about 0·28 million hectares have been treated under this scheme at a cost of Rs. 120·3 million. Under the nine additional projects included in the Fourth Plan considerable importance has been attached to watershed management.

During 1971-72 an outlay of Rs. 5·0 million was provided for reclamation of 2,000 hectares of ravine land in Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Gujarat.

The All-India Soil and Land Use Survey Organisation, Pusa Rd., New Delhi 110012, is carrying out standard soil surveys in the catchments of 21 river valley projects. Under this scheme 0·47 million hectares were surveyed during the first two years of the Fourth Plan and another 0·24 million hectares were expected to be covered in 1971-72.

Research Centres: Eight research-cum-training centres under the jurisdiction of I.C.A.R. have been established at the following places :—

1. Ootacamund (Tamil Nadu) for erosion control in the Nilgiri and other hills; 2. Bellary (Mysore) for soil conservation studies in black soils; 3. Kotah (Rajasthan) with sub-centre at Agra for erosion control in the Chambal and Jumna ravines; 4. Dehra Dun (U.P.) for studying problems of afforestation in the Sivalik hills with the sub-station at Chandigarh for training chos (hill torrents); 5. Vasad (in the Gujarat tract) for erosion control in the ravines along rivers in Gujarat; 6. Chandigarh (outer Sivaliks); 7. Agra (Yamuna ravines); 8. Ibrahimpatnam (Andhra) for tackling red soil problems.

The centres have trained 731 gazetted officers and 926 assistants in regular courses and 273 officers in short duration special courses to man the soil and water conservation projects.

FERTILISERS : (See Chapter on Fertiliser Industry).

Plant Protection : The plant protection programme included seed treatment, prophylactic spraying, weed control, rat control, control of epidemics etc. During 1971-72 the gross area benefited is estimated at 49 million hectares as against 44 million hectares in the previous year. Aerial spraying operations were intensified. The area covered rose to 1.10 million hectares during 1971-72, from 0.45 million hectares during 1969-70. A fleet of 67 aircraft is available for aerial spraying. Under centrally sponsored scheme, 0.6 million hectares of endemic areas were covered by plant protection measures in 1971-72 as against 0·5 million hectares last year.

Agricultural Machinery : An estimated 173,000 tractors were in use at the end of 1972. Indigenous production of tractors was about 20,000 in 1970 and about 16,500 in 1971.

5 Units have been licenced for manufacturing power tillers with a capacity of 36,000 per annum.

During the first three years of the Fourth Plan about 40,784 tractors were imported. The demand for threshers and combine harvestors is increasing. During 1971-72, 126 combine harvestors were imported.

Agricultural Credit : Short and medium term loans advanced to cultivators during 1971-72 are believed to have reached Rs. 7,200 million compared with Rs. 5,780 million in 1970-71.

Small Farmers and Agricultural Labourers: 46 Small Farmers Development Agency Projects have started functioning. By May, 1972, the agencies had identified 1.59 million small farmers and assistance for development of minor irrigation, purchase of milch animals, poultry etc. is being given to them.

The marginal farmers (with holdings upto 1 hectare) and agricultural labourers (generally with homestead and earning more than 50 per cent of their income from agricultural wages) are also being assisted in 41 selected areas in the country. Over 0.8 million have been identified and are being helped to take up various subsidiary programmes like road construction in rural areas, afforestation, soil conservation, construction of godowns, collection of forest produce etc.

Agricultural Research: The Indian Council of Agricultural Research is the apex organisation for sponsoring, coordinating and directing agricultural research and education in the country. The Council now has 23 research institutes under it. A Central Plantation Crops Research Institute has been set up in 1970-71 with headquarters at Kasaragod by combining the three research stations located at Kasaragod, Kayamgulam and Vittal.

Land Reclamation and Development: The scheme of land reclamation continued to be implemented under the normal State development programme during 1971-72. Work to reclaim and develop an area of 0.07 million hectares with financial assistance of Rs. 470 million from the Agricultural Refinance Corporation was in progress.

Minor Irrigation: Minor irrigation includes schemes relating to small storage tanks, river pumping projects, tube-wells, filter points, dug wells, small flood protection embankments and drainage schemes. A high tempo of development of minor irrigation, especially ground water utilisation was maintained in 1971-72. About 1.89 million electrical pumpsets, 0.59 million private tubewells, 0.02 million State tubewells and 6.28 million dugwells were installed. In the first three years of the Fourth Plan about 4.5 million hectares have been benefited through minor irrigation. The Central Ground Water Board (Jamnagar House, New Delhi-110011) is fully responsible for groundwater exploration in the country and most of the States have set up Ground Water Organisations for development of groundwater resources for agricultural purposes.

Ceiling on Holding: Concerted attempts at evolving a national policy for ceilings on land began in 1969 and following the recommendations of the Central Land Reforms Committee in July 1972, the Chief Ministers of all the States suggested a national policy which has since been given a concrete shape by the Government of India. Keeping in view the varied agro-economic and climatic conditions prevalent in the country, it has been decided to keep the holding of a family between 4.05 and 7.28 hectares of land with assured irrigation capable of yielding two crops in a year; a ceiling of 10.93 hectares for land with facilities of irrigation capable of yielding one crop a year; and a ceiling of 21.85 hectares for all other categories of land. A family unit for the ceiling consists of husband, wife and three minor children. Additional land can be retained by large families subject to a maximum of twice the ceiling. Only the plantations of tea, coffee, cocoa and cardamom have been allowed exemptions from the ceiling. By now nine States have passed legislations revising the ceiling laws which are: Andhra Pradesh 4.05–10.93 hectares of wet land, 14.60–21.85 hectares of dry land; Bihar 6.07–7.28 hectares of irrigated land, 12.14–18.21 hectares of other land; Haryana 7.28–10.92 hectares of irrigated land, 10.92–21.85 hectares of other land; Jammu & Kashmir 3.69–8.98 hectares; Kerala 4.86–6.07 hectares; Madhya Pradesh 4.05–21.85 hectares; Maharashtra 7.28–14.57 hectares of irrigated land; 14.57–21.85 hectares of other land; Tamil Nadu 4.86 hectares; West Bengal 5 hectares of irrigated land and 7 hectares of other land.

Size of Holding: The average size of holding for the whole of India is 2.63 hectares, but this varies from State to State. Andhra Pradesh 2.87 hectares; Assam 1.46 hectares; Bihar 1.53 hectares; Gujarat 4.49 hectares; Jammu & Kashmir 1.43 hectares; Kerala 0.75 hectares; Madhya Pradesh 3.99 hectares; Tamil Nadu 1.49 hectares; Maharashtra 4.65 hectares; Mysore 4.11 hectares; Orissa 1.98 hectares; Punjab 3.85 hectares; Rajasthan 5.5 hectares; Uttar Pradesh 1.78 hectares; West Bengal 1.56 hectares.

Out of total estimated number of 71 million rural households possessing operational holdings, 36 per cent hold on the average less than 0.20 hectares of land each.

Legislation has been enacted in a number of States for compulsory consolidation. By 1969 about 34 million hectares of land had been consolidated. Statewise progress in consolidation of holdings in million hectares is as follows: Andhra Pradesh 0.02; Bihar 0.07; Gujarat 1.04; Haryana 3.31; Himachal Pradesh 0.37; Jammu & Kashmir 0.04; Madhya Pradesh 3.18; Maharashtra 7.58; Mysore 0.30; Punjab 4.78; Rajasthan 1.74; Uttar Pradesh 10.51; Delhi 0.07; and Chandigarh 0.05.

In view of the importance of consolidation in the Fourth Five-Year Plan, a provision of Rs. 287.6 million has been made by the States to consolidate an area of 0.94 million hectares.

Co-operative Farming: The programme of co-operative farming is directed towards the solution of the problems presented by small and uneconomic cultivators and landless labourers. Co-operative farming envisages pooling of land and joint cultivation. In a joint farming society, members owning lands pool their lands and cultivate the pooled lands jointly. In a collective farming society, the society holds land on free-hold or lease-hold basis and the land is cultivated jointly by the members. As on the 30th June 1971, there were nearly 9,601 co-operative farming societies with a membership of 0.257 million and covering an area of 0.512 million hectares. Of these, the number of joint farming societies was 5,067 with a membership of 0.122 million and covering an area of 0.311 million hectares. The number of collective farming societies was 4,534 with a membership of 0.135 million and covering an area of 0.201 million hectares.

FERTILISER INDUSTRY

WITH very large financial outlays being earmarked for the fertiliser industry, this sector has rapidly developed into a modernised industry.

The growth of the fertiliser industry during the Plan periods is given in the table below. It was only in the Third Plan that the industry received a big boost it deserved with a total investment of Rs. 1,750 million. At the end of 1966-67, the total investments in the industry mounted to Rs. 5,450 million — Rs. 3,570 million in the public sector and Rs. 1,880 million in the private sector. By the end of 1973-74, this is expected to grow up to Rs. 13,000 million for a production capacity of 5·15 million tonnes of nitrogenous and 230,000 tonnes of phosphatic fertilisers (measured in terms of nutrient).

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

There are more than 60 fertiliser factories of various sizes in the private as well as the public sector. Many of these however make fertiliser as a subsidiary of their main products.

In the private sector there are 35 public limited concerns manufacturing fertilisers as the main product. 8 of these manufacture nitrogenous fertilisers and 27 phosphatic fertilisers.

The State-wise break-up of the nitrogenous fertiliser manufacturing units is as follows :

2 in Uttar Pradesh, and one each in Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal.

The State-wise break-up of the phosphatic fertiliser manufacturing unit is :

Maharashtra 5, Tamil Nadu 5, Andhra Pradesh 4, Gujarat 4, Mysore 2, West Bengal 2, and one each in Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh, Delhi and Assam.

Public Sector : Following are the public sector units :

1. Fertilizer Corporation of India Ltd., which has five units, one each at Namrup — Assam ; Sindri — Bihar ; Nangal — Punjab ; Trombay — Maharashtra and Gorakhpur — Uttar Pradesh. (Project under construction of FCI are Durgapur — West Bengal and Barauni — Bihar to commence production in 1973, Talcher — Orissa and Ramagundam — Andhra Pradesh in 1975 and Korba — Madhya Pradesh in 1974.)

2. Fertilisers and Chemicals, Travancore Ltd. (FACT) Udyogmandal (Alwaye), Kerala. (Newly set up unit at Ambalamedu, Cochin, will be commissioned in 1973.)

3. Madras Fertilizers Ltd., at Madras — Tamil Nadu. It is a joint venture of the Government of India and Messrs. Amoco India Ltd., U.S.A., holding 51 per cent and 49 per cent of the shares respectively.

Besides the above mentioned units Neyveli Lignite Corporation, Neyveli — Tamil Nadu, the units of Hindustan Steel Ltd., at Bhilai — Madhya Pradesh, Rourkela — Orissa and Durgapur — West Bengal and Hindustan Zinc Ltd., Debari — Rajasthan also produce fertiliser as a subsidiary activity.

Bihar State Superphosphate Factory at Dhanbad is the only unit in the State Sector at present.

PRODUCTION & CAPACITY

In terms of production and capacity, fertiliser industry as a whole, has made rapid strides. Indigenous production in this sector meets about 53 per cent of the demand. During the First Plan period, only ammonium sulphate fertilisers were produced. It was during the Second Plan period that the product diversification was introduced in the form of ammonium sulphate nitrate, urea and calcium ammonium nitrate. Even then a sizeable portion was accounted for by ammonium sulphate. In the Third Plan and subsequent annual plan periods urea and calcium ammonium nitrate claimed a lion's share of total production.

Nitrogenous Fertilisers : Originally, the entire capacity in nitrogenous fertilisers was confined to the public sector. In 1960–61, private sector came with a small share. Out of the nine units accounting for a production of 98,000 tonnes, 6 were public sector units accounting for about 89,000 tonnes of N and the rest were private sector units. The total number of producing units rose from 9 in 1960–61 to 13 in 1965–66 and 19 in 1969–70. The number of public sector units stood at 11 in 1969–70 accounting for 58 per cent of the aggregate production. The public sector predominated in both capacity and production till 1965–66. With the removal of controls in 1965, the industry witnessed the entry of private sector in a large way. The growth of private sector units in terms of size and production in nitrogenous fertilisers (in terms of plant nutrient N) in comparison with the growth in public sector is shown below :

Year	Private Sector			Public Sector			Total
	No. of units	Production ('000 tonnes)	Share of production %	No. of units	Production ('000 tonnes)	Share %	No. of units	Production ('000 tonnes)
1965–66	4	15	6·4	9	218	93·6	13	233
1968–69	7	142	26·2	11	401	73·8	18	43
1969–70	8	298	41·6	11	418	58·4	19	716
1970–71	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	830
1971–72	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	950

The total installed capacity of nitrogenous fertiliser industry (in terms of plant nutrient N) as at the end of 1971 was of the order of 1·460 million tonnes. The share of public sector units was 824,000 tonnes (57 per cent). When the projects under implementation are completed the public sector will dominate the scene by controlling 71 per cent.

The capacity under implementation stage is estimated at 1·668 million tonnes, making a total of 3·012 million tonnes. In addition to this, the capacity approved in principle, amounted to 1·493 million tonnes. The Fourth Five Year Plan has placed a target of 3 million tonnes in terms of capacity and 2·5 million tonnes in terms of production of nitrogenous fertilisers.

Taking into consideration the slow rate of progress, and the large gestation period, the industry will be able to attain a total capacity of only 2·6 million tonnes by 1973–74. Thus, a shortfall of 400,000 tonnes in capacity is on the cards. This is confirmed from the slow progress of the projects under implementation in both the public and private sectors. The break-up of the existing capacity in both the sectors as well as that under implementation stage is set out below :

Phosphatic Fertilisers : In sharp contrast with the nitrogenous fertiliser industry, the phosphatic fertilisers were largely confined to the private sector as seen in the table below and production was accounted for by single superphosphates.

Year	Private Sector			Public Sector			Total
	No. of units	Production ('000 tonnes)	Share %	No. of units	Production ('000 tonnes)	Share %	No. of units	Production ('000 tonnes)

It is evident that the share of the public sector units in terms of production rose from 17·3 per cent in 1960–61 to 25·2 per cent in 1968–69 but declined to 18·9 per cent in 1969–70.

The installed capacity of phosphatic fertiliser stood at 500,000 tonnes in 1971-72 (184,000 tonnes in public sector and 316,000 tonnes in private sector). The capacity under implementation amounted to 443,000 tonnes and the capacity approved in principle but not yet formed up was 544,000 tonnes.

Manures and Composts : The night soil compost scheme has been introduced in Tamil Nadu, Rajasthan, Punjab, Orissa and Mysore. It will cover 500 of the large panchayats in the area for which the Central Government will provide assistance to the tune of Rs. 2,000 per panchayat. The coverage under green manuring increased from 8·5 million hectares in 1969–70 to 10·4 million hectares in 1970–71.

The fertiliser industry is one of the major industries of the world, with a total current output of 200 million tonnes in 1969–70, of gross weight of products (containing 66 million tonnes of Nutrients). The ex-factory sale value amounts to approximately $7,000 million. In agricultural products, it is stated that fertiliser is exceeded in tonnage only by wheat, maize and milk.

CONSUMPTION

With intensive farming, nominal increase of 1·37 per cent per year in the cropped area, and other efforts to make the country self-sufficient in food, one would have expected a commensurate increase in the consumption of fertilisers.

The actual performance, however, shows a decline in the rate of consumption in recent years.

In 1970–71 the rate of growth of consumption of nitrogenous phosphatic and potassic fertilisers was only 6·2 per cent compared with 13 per cent in 1969–70 and 14·3 per cent in 1968–69. The rate of growth is also considerably lower than the 14·5 per cent envisaged during the Fourth Plan.

The consumption of fertilisers per hectare of agricultural land in India works out at 6·87 kgs. of N, 1·66 kgs. of P and 0·92 kgs. of K respectively. The levels are far below that of other countries. (Figures in kgs.).

The rate of growth of the consumption of fertilisers has been declining in the last three years. Apart from inadequate marketing facilities and lack of purchasing power of the farmers, natural calamities and certain other facters like inadequate irrigation facilities are also responsible for the decline.

The table below portrays vividly how actual consumption fell short of targeted levels during the Fourth Plan.

Year	Target	Actual
1969–70	2·80	1·99
1970–71	3·30	2·18

* Provisional.

In five States, namely Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Uttar Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, and Punjab account for more than 57 per cent of total consumption. The States having very low consumption of fertiliser per agricultural land are Madhya Pradesh, Assam, Rajasthan, Jammu and Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh and Orissa.

The States which showed a sharp decline in consumption of nitrogenous fertilisers during 1970–71 were Andhra Pradesh, Kerala and Uttar Pradesh. On the other hand, the two States, Assam and Madhya Pradesh, recorded increase of 42·9 per cent and 48·4 per cent respectively in 1970–71. Statewise, the consumption of phosphatic fertiliser has recorded a fall in Bihar, Kerala and Uttar Pradesh.

IMPORTS

With the increase in indigenous production, imports were reduced in 1969–70. Total value of imports of manufactured fertilisers stood at Rs. 890 million in 1971–72 against Rs. 611 million in 1970-71 and Rs. 670 million in 1969–70. As there is insignificant manufacture of potassic fertilisers, the country has to depend on imports. The trend in imports of fertilisers is given in table below :

('000 tonnes)

GENERAL

Potassium Fertilizers : To substitute potassium sulphate which is being imported at present, the Central Salt and Marine Chemicals Research Institute in Bhavnagar, Gujarat, has developed a process for manufacturing potassium chloride and potassium Schoenite from mixed salts.

The institute has set up a commercial plant at Kandla in the private sector having a capacity of manufacturing 1,000 tonnes of potassium chloride and 2,000 tonnes of potassium schoenite (epsom salt) annually. The plant is the first of its kind in the country set up to manufacture potassium fertilisers on a large scale.

Development: In order to increase the production there are proposals for the establishment of fertiliser factories at Haldia (W. Bengal) and Paradeep (Orissa) and expansion of Gorakhpur, Nangal and Cochin factories. Punjab State Industrial Development Corporation also propose to put up a plant at Bhatinda.

Following are the proposals in the private sector in various stages of finalisation.

SEED

The Government of India established in 1963 the National Seeds Corporation, F44A, NDSE Part I, New Delhi 110049 for the supply and production of foundation/certified seeds of the high yielding varieties. This Corporation has a large network of about 530 dealers working on commission basis and 67 sale points for distribution of seeds. The total sales amounted to Rs. 46·07 million during 1970-71 as against Rs. 35·53 million during the previous year. It made a nominal profit for the year ending May, 1971.

It provides training and advises the seed processing industry. Small quantities of seeds were also exported to Iraq, Ethiopia and Ghana and the U.A.R. The Corporation also provides certification services to the States.

The Tarai Seeds Development Corporation set up in June, 1969, with loan assistance from the World Bank has a network of 27 distributors and 627 dealers. In Kharif, 1971, seed production was taken up over an area of 5,080 hectares as against 3,960 hectares the previous year. In Rabi, 1971-72, 5,480 hectares were brought under wheat. The Corporation made a net profit of Rs. 0·50 million as against a nominal profit of Rs. 0·021 million last year.

Mechanised Farms: During 1971, three new Central Farms were started. They are located at Chengam in Tamil Nadu (4,000 hectares); Phillaur in Punjab (1,080 hectares); and Lushaichera in the Mizo Hills (400 hectares). The farm at Cannanore (Kerala) started functioning in September, 1970.

The State Farm Corporation which manages these farms sold 30,698 quintals of improved variety seeds in 1970-71. It also helps with land development, levelling and harvesting for private parties on commercial basis. In its second year of working (30th June, 1971) it earned a net profit of Rs. 0·8 million and declared 3·5 per cent dividends.

Other State farms are at Suratgarh, Jetsar, Hirakud (Orissa); Hissar (Haryana); Jullundur (Punjab); Raichur (Madhya Pradesh); Sokichera (Mizoram).

THE FOOD PROBLEM

The per capita consumption in India of all food items in terms of calories compares as follows:—Canada: 3,150; U.S.A.: 3,290; U.K.: 3,180; Japan: 2,450; and India: 1,940.

The consumption of foodgrains and pulses in India has been increasing over the last three years at a rate much faster than production.

The increase in population of about 12 million persons per year in itself will require one million tonnes of additional foodgrains each year. With an increase of the per capita intake of 100 calories per day, India would require an additional five million tonnes of foodgrains per year.

Buffer Stock: With a view to imparting stability to the country's food economy, the Central Government decided to build a buffer stock during the Fourth Plan period. At the end of June, 1972, the total stocks with the Central and State governments stood at 8·8 million tonnes as against 7·3 million tonnes at the end of 1971. These were inclusive of stocks needed for operational purposes.

Supplies to Bangla Desh: The total quantity of foodgrains and pulses supplied to Bangla Desh during 1972 amounted to 0·902 million tonnes comprising 0·800 million tonnes of wheat, 0·100 million tonnes of rice, and 0·002 million tonnes of pulses. Out of these supplies, 0·650 million tonnes of wheat, 0·100 million tonnes of rice and the entire quantity of pulses were made on a grant basis.

Food Corporation : The Food Corporation of India was set up as a statutory body in January, 1965. The Corporation purchased about 6·6 million tonnes of foodgrains out of the 1971-72 crop comprising 4·5 million tonnes wheat, 1·9 million tonnes rice and 0·2 million tonnes coarse grains.

15 rice mills of 4 tonnes capacity have been set up by the Corporation. The Dry Maize Milling Plant at Faridabad, the Dal Mill at Lucknow and the Rice Bran Solvent Extraction Plant at Sembanarkoil are expected to be commissioned shortly.

The storage capacity owned by F.C.I. at the end of November, 1972 stood at 4·381 million tonnes. Including the capacity hired from C.W. Corporation, S. W. Corporation, State Governments and private parties the total availability of storage accommodation was 7,200 million tonnes. An Indian Grain Storage Institute has been established (in collaboration with U.N.D.P.) at Hapur, Punjab for designing suitable storage structures. An agreement has been signed with the World Bank to finance the construction of 10 silo complexes of 20,000 tonnes capacity each, and conventional godowns of 100,000 tonnes capacity. A new design with the minimum use of steel is expected to give a fillip to the construction of additional storage capacity.

Subsidiary Foods : The Food and Nutrition Board has initiated investigations for the development of cottonseed protein for human consumption, fortification of common salt with calcium and development of food from green vegetation and further work on parboiled rice and vegetable milk powder.

Balahar : About 18,000 tonnes were manufactured for distribution as a part of child feeding programme (in cooperation with CARE) in Mysore and Tamil Nadu. A total capacity of about 72,000 tonnes per annum has been created in the country.

Tapioca Flour : A project for setting up edible tapioca flour of 10 tonnes daily capacity for Kerala has been taken up by the Food Corporation.

Fortified Atta : During 1971-72, the total production was 20,000 tonnes in Bombay and Calcutta.

Weaning Food : Production of Bal-Amul, a pre-cooked weaning food, was undertaken on a pilot scale through Kaira Co-operative Union with the assistance of UNICEF. The development of miltone, a protein isolate toned milk from groundnut, has been in progress at the Government dairy in Bangalore. The total quantity of miltone produced during 1971-72 was 0·4 million litres.

Canning Centres : Fifteen community canning and food preservation centres continued to popularise fruit and vegetable preservation and impart training. Four more sub-centres are in the process of being set up. Seventeen mobile food and nutrition extension units located in the States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Mysore, Orissa, Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal continued to promote nutrition education. The units organised 8,000 demonstrations, lectures and film shows during 1971-72.

Modern Bread : During the year 1971-72, 85 million standard loaves were produced as against 57·5 million last year. (For further details see Modern Bakeries Ltd. in chapter on Government Industrial Undertakings.)

PACKAGE PROGRAMME

The Package Programme is now invigorated through three other programmes.

(a) The IADP — Intensive Agricultural District Programme — During 1970-71, the programme was operative in 28,300 villages in 15 selected districts. The area under high yielding varieties of crops in these districts during the year was estimated at 2·5 million hectares as against 1·74 million the previous year. It is proposed to extend this programme to 12 more districts (one in Mysore, two in Bihar, two in Punjab and seven in Madhya Pradesh).

(b) The HYVP — High Yielding Varieties Programme — This programme was launched in 1966-67.

It covered 9.29 million hectares in 1968-69, 11.4 million hectares in 1969-70, 15.4 million hectares in 1970-71 and 18·0 million hectares in 1971-72.

(c) Multiple Cropping Programme — This programme was started in 1967-68. As against the target of increasing the gross cropped area by 9 million hectares during the Fourth Plan, the achievement in 1969-70 was about 1·66 million hectares, in 1970-71 about 1·79 million hectares and in 1971-72 about 1·85 million hectares.

PRICE POLICY

Prices of agricultural commodities are constantly under review by the Agricultural Prices Commission which was set up in January 1965. The Commission makes its recommendations to the Union Ministry.

Training Centres : The four Institutes of Catering Technology and Applied Nutrition at New Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta and Madras trained 1,582 students during 1970-71. The five Foodcraft Institutes at Kalamassery, Panaji, Bangalore, Nagpur and Lucknow trained 450 students in various courses, such as cookery, bakery, confectionery, hotel reception and fruit and vegetable preservation. One more Institute at Hyderabad will soon come up.

FOURTH PLAN

Agricultural production in the Fourth Plan is primarily dependent on intensive agriculture. The plan provides an outlay of Rs. 27,282 million and lays greater emphasis on coordinated research, expansion and reorientation of irrigation practices.

Efforts are made to raise the yield levels of major commercial crops, increase intensity of cropping and improve the agricultural marketing system.

To safeguard against the uncertainties of food imports and fluctuations in agricultural production and also to maintain stability in prices, the Plan proposes to build up sizeable buffer stocks.

It is hoped that the agricultural targets of 129 million tonnes in foodgrains, 15 million tonnes in sugarcane production, about 10·5 million tonnes of oil seeds and 8 million bales of cotton production will be achieved.

FOOD SITUATION IN 1971-72 :

The food situation was grave during 1972 on account of a fall in the production in 1971-72 and damage due to drought in several parts of the country to the 1972-73 kharif crop. In 1971-72 the production declined to 104·7 million tonnes which was 3·8 million tonnes less than last year. Production of cereals fell by 3·0 million tonnes and that of pulses by 0·8 million tonnes. As a result prices had increased throughout the country.

To check the prices and ensure equitable distribution more grains were sold through Fair Price shops. Total offtake from public distribution rose from 7·8 million tonnes in 1971 to 10·6 million tonnes in 1972.

After July, 1972, when there was a further rise in prices the public distribution system stepped up its offtake to 1·1 million tonnes a month against 0·7 million tonnes earlier. These increases were possible because of the sizeable stocks built up over the past few years.

To meet the increased demands the Government has intensified procurement and re-imposed restrictions on the Inter-State movement of coarse kharif cereals. Government has also purchased grains in the international market. Strict austerity measures, including restrictions on guests to be fed, have been re-imposed.

Statutory Rationing : Statutory rationing of foodgrains continued to be in force in Calcutta and Asansol-Durgapur group of towns in West Bengal. In Greater Bombay rationing was applicable to rice only. In other areas informal rationing continued.

IRRIGATION AND POWER PROJECTS

India owns a fifth of the world's irrigated area yet the country suffers from a chronic food shortage. This is largely due to the increase in population from 380 million in 1939 (undivided India) to almost 560 million today.

At the beginning of the period of planned development in 1950 the area under irrigation from all sources was 22·66 million hectares (56 million acres), 9·7 million hectares (24 million acres) from major and medium sources and 12·95 million hectares (32 million acres) from minor irrigation works.

Additional Potential : Additional irrigation potential created from major and medium projects was 2.49 million hectares (6.1 million acres) in the First Plan ; 2.14 million hectares (5.3 million acres) in the second ; 2.23 million hectares (5.6 million acres) in the third ; and 2.02 million hectares (4.9 million acres) during the three Annual Plans 1966-69, bringing the total up to the end of March 1969 to 8.88 million hectares (21.9 million acres).

The total potential created from minor schemes upto the end of March, 1969, is estimated at 19·1 million hectares (47·3 million acres).

Many new medium and major schemes were taken up as part of the Fourth Plan.

Water Resources : India has water resources which if put to use, can irrigate 82 million hectares (203 million acres), out of a total culturable area of 181 million hectares (447 million acres).

The total surface water resources of the country have been estimated at 1675 milliard cubic metres (1356 million acre feet) of which the utilisable quantity would be 550 milliard cubic metres (450 million acre feet).

When planning was started in 1950 only about 93 milliard cubic metres (76 million acre feet) of this quantum of water had been used to develop an irrigation potential of 22 million hectares (56 million acres).

By the end of March, 1969, a total of 205 milliard cubic metres (166 million acre feet) was utilised (37 per cent of the total resources) leaving a substantial quantum of water still to be exploited.

Number of Schemes : From 1950 to 1970, in two decades of planning, 557 major and medium schemes were taken up for construction. Of these over 325 schemes were completed. The rest of the schemes are continuing in the Fourth Plan. (See also Chapter on Agriculture).

POWER PROBLEM (Position as on 15th February, 1973).

When planning started (in 1950-51) in India the installed capacity was 2·3 m. kw. In three successive Plans it doubled to reach 10·15 m. kw., and was raised to 17 million kw. by 1971-72. As a result the chronic power shortage disappeared. However, with industrialisation and electrification, shortages between 8·25 per cent began to appear in West Bengal, Maharashtra, Gujarat, Haryana, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu.

At the end of the Fourth Plan (1973-74) shortage is expected to be 4 million kw. or 25 per cent of anticipated demand of 18·1 million kw. It will be more if the industrial activity picks up.

Though expenditure on new schemes for generation and distribution has exceeded Rs. 1,000 million, it is still not able to meet the demand. The target of adding 4 million kw. every year during the Fifth Plan is not likely to meet the demand. Experts forecast a shortage of 10-million kw. by the end of the Fifth Plan.

Both industrial and agricultural sectors had been severely hit and a total loss of almost Rs. 10,000 million was estimated with industrial production alone suffering a loss of 300 million per month. Drought (see Chapter on Droughts) had contributed largely to this shortage since a large number of generators are hydro-electric units.

The other causes are : Inadequate maintenance, construction delays due to problems of securing indigenous machinery, faulty planning, shortage of technical personnel, the slow progress in forming a national grid system, transmission losses (amounting to 16 per cent resulting in material loss of Rs. 50 million), and, to some extent, shortage of funds. The position had been so bad that almost 3 per cent of national income was wiped out.

The position in the States is given below :

Assam : Inefficient operation and maintenance of thermal stations was the cause of power shortage in Assam. However, there was no need for power cuts.

Bihar : There were frequent cuts and load sheddings in Bhagalpur, Monghyr, Santhal Paraganas, Dhanbad, Hazaribagh and Singhbhum districts which depended on Damodar Valley Corporation Power. Power needs of Bihar are 630 Mw. while the State generates about 240–275 Mw.

Gujarat : Chronic power shortage resulting in a 25 to 50 per cent cut in industrial sector and 9 hours of load shedding in agricultural sector, had been imposed in Gujarat due to frequent trouble at Tarapur Atomic Power station and Dhuvaran Thermal station. Total demand for power in Gujarat was 936 megawatts against the supply of 725 megawatts.

It was feared that there would be production loss of Rs. 15 million per week in the industrial sector. About 30,000 workers were expected to be dismissed from their jobs.

Haryana: The supply was hit due to cut in supply from Bhakra Hydel Complex and a 60 per cent cut was imposed on all consumers.

Madhya Pradesh : Thus far it has a surplus of electric power but the Korba Aluminium Plan, when completed, is expected to consume 235 megawatts out of a total 757 megawatts installed capacity in the State. Three of the four power stations are thermal and, therefore, less dependent on water.

Maharashtra : A power cut varying from 2 to 25 per cent was imposed from December 1, 1972.

Production of power was expected to fall by 1,000 million units from Hydro-electric sources and 750 million units from the Tarapur Atomic Power Station.

The highest cut of 25 per cent had been imposed on domestic and commercial consumers. On industrial consumers it was 16 per cent ; on defence, and export oriented industries 8 per cent ; on processing units 4 per cent and on essential industries 2 to 5 per cent. Authorities estimated the loss in production in the Poona-Bombay complex alone to be Rs. 13 million per day out of a daily production of Rs. 80 million.

Mysore : A 25 per cent power cut had been imposed from October 1972, due to scanty rainfall in the Sheravathi Hydel Scheme. Industrial production loss was expected to be about Rs. 270 million till the next monsoon starts. Pumpsets, however, had been exempted from the power cut.

Punjab : The failure of the monsoons had resulted in reducing storage of the Gobind Sagar Lake at Bhakra by 50 per cent. The total availability of power was 8 million units of which 6 million units were supplied by the Bhakra Management Board. This supply was reduced to 3·7 million units in August, 1972, and to 2·7 million units in January, 1972. The government had, therefore, imposed a cut of 60 per cent on industries. Agriculture had also been badly hit and kharif crop of 1972 produced only 750,000 tonnes of rice against an expected 1·2 million tonnes (see Chapters on Agriculture and Food). The State Electricity Board had commissioned diesel sets with a total production capacity of 200,000 units of power per day to irrigate the Rabi crops. The board also drew power from Madhya Pradesh to tide over some of the shortage which is about 6 million units daily. The daily needs in the State are about 10—15 million units.

Rajasthan : No cuts were imposed despite a shortage of 800,000 to 1,000,000 units. This was overcome by disconnecting in rotation 5 or 6 distribution points which supplied power to rural areas for 2 to 5 hours each day.

Tamil Nadu : The power cut was stepped up from 40 per cent to 75 per cent on 15th February, 1973. A 25 per cent cut was imposed on October 1, 1972 and increased to 40 per cent on February 1, 1973. The crisis was brought about by the tensions in Andhra Pradesh consequent disruption of rail services and non-arrival of coal for the thermal plants.

The present requirement of the state is 1,325 Mw. Part of the deficiency is made up by borrowing almost 1,000 units from neighbouring States.

Uttar Pradesh : A 25 per cent cut was enforced in August 1972. This was increased further by another 15 per cent on January 7, 1973. The crisis was believed to be due to the incompetence of engineers of the State Electricity Board who utilised only about 35 per cent of the installed capacity of 1,572 megawatts from thermal and hydel stations. Thefts and transmission losses accounted for another 22 per cent. The total availability of power including supply from other States was 1,722 megawatts. The power cut had resulted in a loss of Rs. 454 million in the industrial sector till November 1972, and 30,000 workers had to be laid off. The agriculture sector had announced a loss of 600,000 tonnes of paddy.

West Bengal : A 15 per cent cut in power supply was enforced in early January, 1973. The deficiency was about 370 megawatts. A precise estimate of production losses was not available.

Per Capita Consumption : 500 kw. per capita is considered minimum or essential for a fair standard of living. On this basis 52 million kw. is needed by 1981.

The present demand of 11·7 m. kw. is expected to rise at least to 36·5 m. kw. by 1980-81. The country would therefore have to produce an additional 25 m. kw. by then.

FLOODS

BACKGROUND

Monsoon in India is erratic and its intensity variable. Hence all places cannot be protected against all floods at all times. However, more work has been done towards flood control since 1954, when the National Flood Control Policy came into being, than in the last few centuries.

Flood Regions : Ganga-Yamuna, Ghagra, Rapti, Gandak, Bagmati and Kosi—covers part of Punjab, U.P., Rajasthan, Bihar, West Bengal, Delhi and Himachal Pradesh.

Brahmaputra Basin : Brahmaputra, Barak, Teesta, Torsa and Raidak — covers Assam and West Bengal. Brahmaputra lies in the seismic zone and brings down sediment.

North Western River Basin : Jhelum, Chenab, Ravi, Beas, Sutlej — covers Jammu and Kashmir, part of Punjab and Himachal Pradesh.

Central India and Deccan : Mahanadi, Brahmini, Baitarni, Godavari, Krishna and Tapi — covers Orissa, A.P., M.P., Maharashtra, Gujarat, Mysore, Kerala and Tamil Nadu.

FLOOD-PRONE AREAS

States which have recurring floods—are Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab, U.P. and West Bengal. Recently Gujarat, Rajasthan and Madhya Pradesh have also experienced floods. The flood-prone area in India is estimated to be 24·27 million hectares. Out of that, 6·07 to 12·14 million hectares are affected every year. Sixty per cent of flood damage is caused by Himalayan rivers (Ganga, Brahmaputra and their tributaries). Damage from cyclones and rain is about 40 per cent of the total. Heavy floods in peninsular rivers (Godavari, Krishna, Pennar and Cauvery) have been occurring only at long intervals and almost all the damage caused in this area is by cyclones and heavy rainfall. In Himalayan region two-third damage is caused by floods and one-third by the rains. In the central rivers (Tapti, Narmada and Chambal) damage is the least, mostly by the rains. About 25 per cent of the flood-prone area has been protected at a cost of about Rs. 2,250 million, against floods since the first comprehensive plan to tackle flood which took shape in 1954. Present plan is to cover an equal area by 1981. In another ten years another 25 per cent will be protected, but it is not possible to cover the entire flood-prone area at any time. It is neither economically justifiable nor technically viable. In fact some areas which were considered safe have now become prone to floods.

The flood menace has been tackled by the construction of embankments, diversion channels and storage reservoirs. These measures protect the area around, but increase the risk downstream. This is what had happened in Bihar in August/September, 1971. River Ganga was in spate because of the many protective flood control works on many of the tributaries. It is difficult to construct a dam on River Ganga because it would inundate a large area and the loss thus incurred would be far greater than the damage by floods in its basin. Large areas in Assam, Orissa, Bihar and West Bengal became flood-prone due to breaches in embankments or absence of embankments. Strengthening and raising of embankments and constant vigil when the swollen rivers reach danger level helps in averting floods. West Bengal is flood-prone because of drainage congestion and releases from Damodar Valley Dam, though Damodar Valley Dam was designed with 'flood control' as its main objective like the Hirakud dam. Experts feel that canalisation of Damodar, the plans for which have been finalised for implementation within 3-4 years, will help avert much damage.

Another factor which contributes towards making large areas flood-prone are the indiscriminate cutting of trees and unauthorised grazing that is allowed in the foothills. The Himalayan rivers have steep gradients and in the absence of forestation in the catchment areas, the rapid flow leads to silting erosion, meandering, and changing of river courses, resulting in much damage. The region traversed by the Himalayan rivers is also subject to earthquakes and landslides, which makes large areas flood-prone.

Growing frequency of flood in Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Gujarat and Rajasthan can also be traced to deforestation.

FLOOD DAMAGE

Statistics from 1953 to 1970 reveal that the average annual damage caused by floods is Rs. 870 million. Including indirect losses, the annual average damage may amount to Rs. 1,000 million. The maximum damage in any year has been Rs. 3,333 million in 1969 — This includes Rs. 1,950 million damage due to Andhra Pradesh cyclone. In 1970 also the damage amounted to Rs. 2,868 million. In 1971 the loss by floods is expected to reach over Rs. 4,000 million.

FLOOD CONTROL

It was only in 1954, that a comprehensive National Flood Control Policy came into being. It was to be implemented in 3 stages.

(a) Immediate measures—which needed to be completed in 2 years or so.

(b) Short-term measures — which included the construction of channel diversions, raising of villages, construction of more embankments, and protection of more towns (to be executed over 6-7 years).

(c) Long-term measures — includes storage reservoirs, detention basins, additional embankments, channel diversions and protection of towns (to be completed and taken up in stages).

Rs. 1,500 million were spent in the First, Second and the Third Five Year Plans for flood control. By now Rs. 2,250 million have been spent to protect 25 per cent of the flood-prone area. An outlay of Rs. 10,000 million is needed to protect most of the area which is normally affected by floods. Total and all time protection is not possible as the factors that lead to floods are variable and estimates have to suit these factors. However, by the end of March 1971, 7,000 km. of embankments, 10,000 km. of drainage channels, and 191 town protection schemes had been completed to benefit an area of 6·2 m. hectares. 4,600 villages have been raised above high flood level and 80 km. of sea coast protected. Actual outlay on flood control, drainage and water-logging and sea coast protection schemes :—

I Plan	Rs. 133	million
III ,, ...	Rs. 866	,,
IV ,, ...	Rs. 1,430	,,
1966-69	Rs. 438	,,
1969-71	Rs. 443	,,

Measures suggested by experts for flood control are :

1. Deepening and widening of rivers and canals.
2. Digging of new drains.
3. Diversion of rivers and nalas to more natural flow levels.
4. Joining up of all rivers by an internal water system.
5. Additions and improvements of flood forecasting units in existence.
6. Inspection of flood control works.
7. Soil conservation measures.
8. Anti sea-erosion works.
9. Drainage works.
10. Training and maintenance of flood fighting teams and equipment.
11. Planting of millions of trees in the catchment areas of the rivers to reduce the rapidity of the flow of river and resulting erosion of soil.

2. Erosion checking at Kokilamukh — Assam.
3. Anti-erosion work on river Great Gandak — U.P.
4. Kaliaghye Kantakhali drainage — W. Bengal.
5. Repairing and strengthening of spurs near Mansi railway station to check erosion of Ganga — U.P.
6. Protection of Gaighat village on the left bank of Ganga — U.P.

Schemes Approved : Eastern Mograhat — Rs. 29·6 million.

Drainage improvement in lower Damodar Stage I — Rs. 68·2 million.

Construction of embankment on Subarnarekha (W. Bengal) Rs. 12·8 million.

Anti-erosion on River Tapti in Gujarat — Rs. 52·1 million.

Schemes Recommended for Approval : Construction of embankment on Bhutai Balan (Bihar) — Rs. 9·2 million.

Anti-erosion near Chitauni on Great Gandak (U.P.) — Rs. 8·9 million.

Schemes Prepared and Being Finalised: Construction of embankments on River Subarnarekha in Orissa — Rs. 108·4 million.

Construction of embankments on Mahananda in West Bengal — Rs. 36·11 million.

Lining of Najafgarh drain and construction of cunnette (Delhi) — Rs. 21·3 million.

Improvement of storm water drainage system in Shahdara (Delhi) — Rs. 10·6 million.

Drainage Problem : This is prevalent in intensively cultivated areas of Haryana, Punjab, low-lying fertile areas of West Bengal (24 Parganas, Midnapore) and highly irrigated areas in the deltas of Mahanadi, Krishna, Godavari, and Cauvery rivers. Inadequate drainage in some areas (in Punjab, Haryana, part of U.P.) had led to waterlogging rendering the area unproductive due to excessive salinity.

Money spent on drainage in the last decade has been Rs. 490 million (60 per cent of this has been spent in Haryana and Punjab). Future cost is estimated to be Rs. 2,000 million because the money spent has effectively reduced drainage congestion and waterlogging.

Sea Erosion : Erosion has occurred in patches in A.P., Orissa, Mysore and Maharashtra. It was serious in 550 km. of Kerala. So far only Rs. 90 million has been spent in the State to protect only 80 km. of coastline. Future estimate for sea erosion would be about Rs. 450 million of which Rs. 400 million would be for Kerala alone.

Policy : It has been the practice to allot funds for flood control on the basis of what can be spared, rather than actual need. It is suggested that the outlays should be based on requirements of works which are already taken up or which are ready to be taken up. This assessment should be made in the 3 categories of works : flood control, drainage, and anti-sea-erosion. This exercise can be useful in assessing schemes that cannot be postponed or for which additional finance is indispensable. The ideal form of flood control would be to have both reservoirs and embankments as on river Mahanadi in Orissa. But because of paucity of funds, it is not possible. Some of the damage can be avoided if people are not allowed to live in flood-prone areas. But problem of population makes it impossible.

MONSOON RAINFALL SUMMARY
JUNE TO SEPTEMBER 1972

Advance of Monsoon: The south-west monsoon temporarily advanced over south Peninsula towards the end of the second week of May but again retreated towards the end of the third week. It revived over Kerala by as late a date as 18th June; subsequently it covered the entire country by 9th July. The advance of the monsoon over the Peninsula and north-east India was delayed by 10 to 15 days, and over the central parts of the country by a week. Its advance into north-west India was nevertheless approximately near the normal date of onset in this area.

Activity of the Monsoon: The monsoon activity was normal in northeast India, extreme north-west India, Madhya Pradesh and the south Peninsula but weak in north Peninsula, Rajasthan and Bihar Plains. The delayed onset of the monsoon in June and a prolonged break in the second half of July led to droughts in many parts of north India and north Peninsula.

Withdrawal of the Monsoon: The south-west monsoon withdrew from north-west India on 6th September. By the end of that month, it had withdrawn from Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat and Maharashtra States. It withdrew from the rest of north-east India by 3rd October and from the rest of the country by 14th October. The withdrawal of the monsoon from north India and north Peninsula was about a week to 10 days earlier than the normal date of withdrawal.

Depressions and Cyclones: Three cyclonic storms and six depressions developed during the south-west monsoon. The three cyclones formed in the Bay of Bengal; while, out of the six depressions, two formed in the Arabian Sea, two in the Bay of Bengal and two over land.

Season's Rainfall: The rainfall for the season June to September 1972 was in large defect in Saurashtra and Kutch, in moderate defect in Nagaland, Manipur, Mizoram and Tripura, Sub-Himalaya West Bengal, Bihar Plains, east Uttar Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, Rajasthan, Gujarat Region, Madhya Maharashtra, Marathwada, Vidarbha, Telangana and Rayalaseema and in slight defect in Arunachal Pradesh, Bihar Plateau, in the plains of west Uttar Pradesh, in Punjab, Madhya Pradesh, Konkan, coastal Andhra Pradesh, coastal and north Interior Mysore, Kerala and the Arabian Sea Islands. It was normal over the rest of the country.

DROUGHT

CONSTANT famine has been so important a cause of economic dislocation, that the British Government appointed a commission in 1878 to enquire into the problem. One of its important contributions was to draft the Famine Code which was formalised in 1883. This laid down the procedure to be followed by the Government machinery at the first sign of scarcity conditions appearing in any area. Further periodic studies have been undertaken to modify the scarcity relief measures, and cropping pattern. However, the problem remains the same and scarcity conditions continue to occur almost every five years, on an average, in different parts of the country.

India on an average receives 3,700,400 cubic inches of rain — enough to cover the country with 114·30 cm. of water. But there is a variation in the seasonal and the annual distribution of rainfall. Some parts of Rajasthan get as low as 12·70 cms. of rain while hills of Assam get as much as 1,270 cm. About 12 per cent of the country's area receives less than 61 cms. of rain on an average and only 8 per cent more than 254 cms.

This erratic nature of the monsoon with long dry spells and high temperature, spells drought and scarcity conditions in the country.

Eighty per cent Indians live on agriculture, but produce only 45 per cent of GNP. Estimated harvest in India is about 100 million tonnes. However, to reach self-sufficiency we need about 120 million tonnes.

Drought Prone Areas: Against 194·24 million hectares cultivable area in the country, gross cultivated area is 157·82 million hectares. But irrigation is available for only 36·42 million hectares. This is only 23 per cent of the cultivated land. The rest (77 per cent) is still at the mercy of the monsoons. Out of the irrigated area only two-thirds has assured irrigation, one-third is irrigated by small tanks and wells which are undependable in dry years. However, irrigation potential of the country is estimated to be enough for 81 million hectares, of which only 60–70 million hectares can be assured of water supply.

Indian dry regions cover nearly 312,490 sq. kms. Of this about 63 per cent falls in Rajasthan alone. Arid zone of Rajasthan forms a part of the great Indian desert and covers three-fifths of the State. The zone comprises eleven districts in the north-western parts of the State.

Drought in 1972: Many parts of the country experienced severe drought conditions. With scanty rainfall in Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra and Rajasthan the crops in these regions were a total failure. The north and north-eastern parts of Mysore, Tamil Nadu, Tripura and West Bengal were also partially affected.

The 1972 drought was worse than the one in 1966-67. More than 200 million people were affected. The state governments had to take on 69,594 relief projects giving employment to 4.2 million people as against 2.5 million employed on relief projects in 1966-67.

Besides those employed on relief projects 1.7 million people were given gratuitous relief and about 3 million people received free meals.

Upto January, 1973, the Central Government had agreed to give the states grants amounting to Rs. 1,930 million of which Rs. 650 million had already been given.

In addition the Central Government had earmarked Rs. 1,500 million for the emergency food production programme and Rs. 1,000 million as short-term input loans to states.

The crop failures due to drought had resulted in a steep fall in the annual food production. According to 1971-72 population estimates the country requires 120 million tonnes of foodgrains to become self-sufficient. In 1970-71 the production of foodgrains was only 107.81 million tonnes. Current estimates in January 1973, showed that the government expected to reap only 100 million tonnes of food. For the period January-February, 1973, the Central Government negotiated to import 2 million tonnes of grains from the open markets of Canada, United States and Argentina.

Distribution: For equitable distribution 158,000 fair price shops have been opened throughout the country. But more than two-thirds of these are in cities. An estimated million tonnes of grains are sold through these shops each month. This step has been taken by the government to check the rising prices due to scarcity.

Drought Relief

Year	People affected	People employed in relief works	People granted gratuitous relief	People fed by CARE	Central Government Assistance to States
1968-69	63·1 million	1·6 million	194,000	145,000	Rs. 1,060 million
1969–70	55·3 million	2·28 million	34,000	985,000	Rs. 895·2 million
1970–71	15 million	424,000	—	1·72 million	Rs. 402·2 million
1971–72	66.8 million	835,000	—	767,000	Rs. 356.5 million

Drought Relief: Central assistance to drought areas amounted to Rs. 820 million in 1966–67; Rs. 760 million in 1967–68; Rs. 1,060 million in 1968–69; Rs. 895·2 million in 1969–70; and Rs. 402·2 million in 1970–71. In a bad year, drought relief normally amounts to around Rs. 1,000 million.

Most of the Central assistance is in the form of temporary measures on an ad hoc basis, aiming at maintaining the purchasing power of the affected population and keeping idle land-labour occupied.

Such measures comprise of construction and improvement of minor irrigation works like wells, tanks, soil conservation by contour bunding, improvement by irrigation canals, afforestation, construction and improvement of roads besides granting gratuitous relief and loans. No long term benefit accrues from these ad hoc measures. 'Taccavi' loans are seldom recovered; a lot of money is spent on feeding the affected population and in providing them short-term employment and gratuitous relief wherever necessary.

Expenditure on drought relief during the Plan periods. First Plan (1951–52 to 1955–56) Rs. 433 million; Second Plan (1956–57 to 1960–61) Rs. 769 million; Third Plan (1961–62 to 1965–66) — Rs. 867 million; Fourth Plan (1966–67 to 1970–71) Rs. 5,220 million.

Remedial Measures Suggested: Experts agree that the need of the hour is projects like Tungabhadra in Andhra Pradesh and Mysore. Extensive and variety of surveys in the drought affected areas need to be undertaken. Lift irrigation schemes should also be given priority. Drought can be fought effectively if major and medium scale irrigation and tube-well schemes are implemented. The only hope in arid zones lies in harnessing ground water resources and conservation and efficient utilisation of moisture by such measures as bunding, creation of shelter belts or wind breaks for crop lands.

Development and spread of dry-farming techniques, use of high yielding varieties, fertilisers and plant protection measures should also be evolved. Varieties of crops that withstand drought, could also be encouraged.

Central Arid Zone Research Institute, Jodhpur, Exploratory Tubewell Organisation and Rajasthan Ground Water Board are some of the bodies working towards this end. Recently Indian Council of Agricultural Research has also set up 24 dry farming research stations in different parts of the country.

FORESTS

TOTAL forests: 75·3 mill. hectares. Percentage of forests to land: 23·1. Per capita forest area 0·15 hectares.

During the year 1970-71 forestry activities provided employment to about three million persons.

Revenue from forests: Rs. 980 million. Forest revenue as percentage to national revenue: 2·44.

The forests are unevenly distributed and the production is also proportionately low, being only 0·28 cu. m. per hectare per year as compared to 3·923 cu. m. in France, 2·8 cu. m. in Japan and 1·25 cu. m. in U.S.A.

Private Forests: In Assam 1,036 sq. kms. (in Khasi and Jaintia Hills), Orissa 1,554 sq. kms. mostly in zamindari agencies, Punjab 880·6 sq. kms. in scattered units, and Himachal Pradesh 75·11 sq. kms. in Jabbal Division.

Kerala has passed legislation abolishing the rights of present owners of forest lands with effect from May 1971.

On the basis of the requirements of management, forests have been classified into five broad groups: viz. (1) moist tropical forests; (2) dry tropical forests; (3) sub-tropical forests; (4) temperate forests; (5) alpine forests.

Moist Tropical Forests: These consist of several sub-groups, namely, (a) tropical wet ever-green and (b) semi-ever-green occurring in the Western Ghats, Assam and Andaman. Tropical moist deciduous forests are found in moister parts of Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Mysore, Madras, Orissa, Kerala and Andamans.

The characteristic wild life associated with this type is represented by the tiger, leopard, clouded-leopard, gibbon, golden-cat, deer of all species including thamin deer, one-horned rhinoceros and elephant in the eastern range. The forest is also rich in bird life which includes paradise flycatchers and a large variety of insectivorous birds.

Dry Tropical Forests: These are divided into tropical dry deciduous forests extending from Cape Comorin to the foot-hills of the Himalayas and the tropical thorn forests found in south Punjab, Haryana, eastern Rajasthan, Upper Gangetic plains, Deccan plateau and lower peninsular India. The former contains teak, adina, dalbergia, anogeissus, latifolia etc. whereas the thorn forests have acacias.

The wild life seen in these forests are: black-buck, Indian gazelle, tiger, leopard, chital, sambhar, sloth-bear and wild dog, and birds such as peacocks, bulbuls, parrots, golden eagle, king vulture, scavenging vulture, and a variety of kites. The fauna of the tropical thorn forest is represented by nilgai, four-horned antelope, sloth-bear, leopard, desert fox, desert cat and porcupine.

Sub-Tropical Forests: The Himalayas are occupied by this type of forests stretching from Assam to Kashmir. Nilgiri and Palani hills forests are comparable in climate to the forests in the lower hills of the Himalayas.

The green species found in the forest are broad-leaved types like Phoebe, Maples, Michelias, etc.

The sub-tropical type of forest is the main habitat of the tiger, elephant, sambhar, buffalo, chital, hog deer, swamp deer, kashmiri stag, ibis and markhor, musk deer, Himalayan black bear and a large variety of birds.

Temperate Forests: This type of forests contain a number of broad-leaved evergreen species of oaks, litseas, walnuts, magnolias, spruce, fir and deodar. Mosses and ferns grow freely and profusely in these forests.

The main species of wild animals found are badgers, snow leopard, goat-antelopes like goral, serow, panda and colourful birds like magpie, parrot and pheasants including the munals.

Alpine Forests: These forests are divided into the unusually dry and moist sub-types. The sub-Alpine forests occur at the uppermost level. They are composed of fir, spruce and rhododendron. The dry scrub species are xerophytic and junipers, lonicera etc.

The treeless zone is the habitat of the Tibetan sheep, bharal, woolly hare with occasional appearance of snow leopard.

About 16 per cent of the total forest area is inaccessible and 45 per cent of these could yield timber and other forest produce.

Forest is a State subject but the Central Government is responsible for research and education.

EDUCATION AND RESEARCH

Forest research and education are centralised in the Forest Research Institute and Colleges located at Dehra Dun. The Institute is recognised by the F.A.O. as a centre for training in forestry for South-East Asia.

The Forest Research Institute and Colleges are under the administrative control of the Ministry of Agriculture of the Government of India. Its administrative Head is designated the President. It has under its control three Regional Forest Research Centres, one each at Bangalore, Jabalpur and Coimbatore to deal with the special problems pertaining to the area.

The institute was reorganised into four directorates working under the President, viz., (1) The Directorate of Forest Education with 3 forestry colleges under it, two at Dehra Dun and one at Coimbatore, (2) The Directorate of Forestry Research having five branches — the Silviculture branch, the logging branch, the forest genetics branch, the minor forest products branch, and the forest economics branch, (3) the Directorate of Biological Research having four branches — the systematic botany branch, the forest pathology branch, the entomology branch, and the wood anatomy branch, (4) the Directorate of Forest Products Research having eight branches — the wood seasoning branch, the composite wood branch, the cellulose and paper branch, the timber mechanics branch, the timber engineering branch, the chemistry of forest products branch, the wood preservation branch and the wood working, saw milling and finishing branch. Besides the administrative side, the statistical branch dealing with the appropriate methods of collecting, analysing and then interpreting the numerical data in various fields of forestry and forest product research is under the President of the Institute. Similarly service branch dealing with engineering services like the designing of pilot plants, erection of heavy plant and equipment, advice in the selection of equipment, servicing and repair of machinery and apparatus, etc. renders service to all the branches. A publicity and liaison branch entrusted with the responsibility of publicising the results of researches and for maintaining liaison with the State Forest Departments, the forest based industries and the general public exists in the Institute.

Training Schemes: Training courses (under the aegis of the Government of India/F.A.O./United Nation's Development Programme) in basic logging have been started in the Northern Zone (Dehra Dun), Central Zone (Chandrapur) and in the Southern Zone (Coimbatore). Training courses in the operation and maintenance of logging equipment, studies in planning and efficiency of logging operations and land milling and operation in cable ways are run at Dehra Dun, Chandrapur and Kula respectively. During 1971-72, an expenditure of Rs 0·513 million was incurred.

In the year 1971-72, 26 I.F.S. probationers and 49 other forest officers in different courses and 110 Rangers passed out from the 3 colleges to man the forest services of the country.

A new Ranger's college is also proposed to be started in central India, in addition to the existing colleges at Dehra Dun and Coimbatore.

Development Surveys: Out of the five centrally sponsored schemes (1) Forest Resource Survey, (2) Preinvestment survey of forest resources, (3) Logging Training Centres, (4) Delhi Zoological Park and (5) Forest Research Institute, the second and the third were hitherto financed from U.N. Special Fund. The preinvestment survey managed entirely by Indian personnel is for ascertaining the availability of new materials for the development of wood based industries and is being taken up in the Fourth Plan. The logging training centres are for imparting modern technique with modern tools to Indian personnel. The manufacture of such modern logging tools indigenously is also one of the objectives.

FOREST PRODUCE

Forest produce is divided into two main heads — (1) Major produce, i.e., timber and firewood, and (2) Minor produce, comprising all other products, such as bamboos, canes, leaves, fruits, fibres, grasses, gums, resins, essential oils, medicinal and poisonous plants, fatty oils and fats, dyes, tans, animal and mineral products.

The annual output of timber is 83·00 million c.m. and of firewood 213 million c.m. At present annual import of wood and wood products is of the order of 12·19 million c.m.

The bulk of the timber supply is used for railway sleepers, constructional requirements, furniture, plywood (especially for tea chests), matches, etc.; but the country imports timber for specialised uses such as jute and textile mill accessories.

India exports selected rosewood logs to Europe, teak poles to the Middle East and a few other items.

A. N. Islands: From April to December 1970, about 62,700 c. metres of timber was cut and 12,000 c. metres shipped to the mainland. About 607 hectares have been brought under teak, paduk and match-wood plantations.

PLANTATION SCHEMES

Three important schemes, (i) Plantation of quick growing species; (ii) Plantation of economic species (teak, sissoo, semal, etc.); and, (iii) Plantations to be raised under the scheme of rehabilitation of degraded forests will be taken up in the Fourth Plan.

The forests which would have to be cleared to raise the plantations proposed in the Fourth Plan are expected to make available approximately 4·8 million cubic metres.

Wild Life Societies: The following are some of the more important societies concerned with conservation in India: (1) Bombay Natural History Society, Hornbill House, Shahid Bhagat Singh Road, Bombay 1; (2) Wild Life Preservation Society of India, 7, Ashley Hall, Dehra Dun, U.P.; (3) World Wild Life Fund Indian National Appeal, Hornbill House, Shahid Bhagat Singh Road, Bombay 1; (4) Peermade Wild Life Preservation Society, Stagbrook Estate, Peermade P.O., Kerala; (5) Nilgiri Wild Life Association, Ootacamund, Nilgiris, S.I.; (6) Gujarat Natural History Society, 57, Pritamnagar, Ellis Bridge, Ahmedabad 6; (7) Birdwatchers' Field Club of India, 32-A, Juhu Lane, Andheri, Bombay 56; (8) High Range Game Association, Munnar P.O., Kerala.

FISHERIES

WITH an approximate annual catch of 1·8 million tonnes India ranks third in the world list of fishing countries.

Number of Crafts Used : A total of 2 million of all sizes. At the end of March, 1972, there were 10,762 mechanised boats.

Per Capita Availability : Each fisherman on an average catches 1,130 kgs of fish a year. Per capita availability in India as compared to some Asian countries is: India — 1·5 kgs; Ceylon — 7·29 kgs; Burma — 31·75 kgs ; Japan — 40·82 kgs.

Employment: Over one million persons are employed.

Contribution to National Income : Rs. 600 million a year.

Exports : Of Marine products from India during 1972, totalled over 38,200 tonnes valued at Rs. 582 million against 34,000 tonnes valued at Rs. 392 million in 1971, registering an all time record with an increase of 12·5 per cent in quantity and 48·4 per cent in value.

Total Landings : In 1971 about 1·88 million tonnes of fish were caught against the previous year's 1·75 million tonnes. This includes 1·18 million tonnes of marine fish and 700,000 tonnes of inland fish.

Extent of Resources : Theoretical estimates place the mass of fish in the Indian ocean to be about 40 million tonnes, of which only 2·5 million tonnes are being harvested with India contributing 1·2 million tonnes.

Fishing operations would have to be stepped up to about 10 to 11 million tonnes to bring it on par with operations in the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans.

Given below is the present and potential yield from the shelf area of the Indian ocean which is separate from the yield of the ocean itself.

	Demersal	Pelagic	Demersal	Pelagic
West Coast	284,311	587,553	577,000	1,020,000
East Coast	121,584	159,627	143,000	672,000
Laccadives	394	806	7,000	22,000
Andaman & Nicobar	195	374	400	8,000
Total	406,484	748,360	731,000	1,722,000

Surveys conducted reveal the Indian ocean to be full of rich tuna among other fishes which are being harvested by Japan, South Korea and Taiwan.

India's problem is that 72 per cent of its catch is brought in by non-mechanised boats who scour only the coastline to catch shrimps and prawns, which earn the highest amount of foreign exchange.

Besides tuna the offshore stock of oil sardines too is immense.

Growth since Independence : From an estimated catch of 700,000 tonnes in 1947 it has gone upto 1,756,098 tonnes in 1970 of which 1,085,607 tonnes was marine fish.

During the same period the world catch rose from an estimated 18 million tonnes in 1947 to 69·3 million tonnes in 1970.

Preservation and Transport : By the end of December, 1972, one broad gauge and two meter gauge refrigerated rail vans were almost complete. This brought the number of refrigerated rail vans in operation on all routes to 11.

Orders have been placed for 6 more refrigerated vans. One freezing plant with a storage capacity of 50 tonnes, 3 ice plants with daily production capacity of 108 tonnes, 2 cold storages with capacity of 615 tonnes and a frozen storage of 300 tonnes were commissioned during 1971-72.

Work was in progress on the construction of 25 ice plants, 22 cold storages, 6 freezing plants and 6 frozen storages.

Foreign Aid : The FAO, the TCM and the Indo-Norwegian Foundation give technical training to fishermen in the country.

STATE-WISE POSITION

Andhra Pradesh : With a 960 kms. coastline the State has a fishable area of 31,080 square kilometres. There are 350 fishing villages and about 100,000 persons engaged in the industry. Approximately a quarter of these are engaged in marine fishing and the rest in fresh water fishing. There are about 25,000 fishing crafts.

In 1970: 154,394 tonnes of marine fish and 95,651 tonnes of inland fish were landed.

Gujarat : It has a coastline of 1,663 kilometres and a fishable area of 120,000 sq. kms. There are 46 important fishing ports and 149 fishing hamlets. 256,000 people are engaged in the industry with 4,995 crafts of various sizes.

Total landings in 1971-72 amounted to 161,000 tonnes worth Rs. 108·6 million. Of this 34,966 tonnes were consumed in the State and the rest exported to Bombay, Delhi, Calcutta, Ceylon, Burma, Singapore, Mauritius and the U.S.A.

Kerala : With a coastline of only 590 kms. and 264 marine fishing villages the State is prolific in this industry. Of the total fish caught about 55 per cent is consumed fresh; 15 per cent canned, salted and sun-dried; 18 per cent frozen for export; 7 per cent used for preparing fish meal and oil extraction; and 5 per cent for the manufacture of fish manure.

With 10 per cent of the country's coastline the State accounts for 40 per cent of the total marine fish landings and 77 per cent of the foreign exchange earned through exports.

It is estimated that 60 per cent of the fish caught is consumed within the State, 22 per cent sent to other States and 18 per cent exported to foreign countries.

Tamil Nadu : The State has a coastline of 997·47 kms. and 790,000 hectares of inland waterspreads. There are about 400,000 fishermen living in 413 inland and 349 marine fishing villages. The per capita consumption of fish is 9·9 kgs.

Tamil Nadu has great potential for growth because the sea is rich with fish. Last year rich lobster grounds were discovered off the Mandapam coast. The Fisheries Department offers assistance to new enterprises.

The catch during 1970-71 was estimated at 205,000 tonnes of marine fish and 120,000 tonnes of inland fish.

Maharashtra : The State has a coastline of 700 kms. There are about 300,000 members of the fisher community of whom 55,800 are actively engaged in the fishing industry, 35,800 are in marine fishing and about 20,000 in inland fishing. The total number of vessels used is 9,696. Four fish farms and 30 nurseries in various parts of the State demonstrate the scientific methods of pisciculture under controlled conditions. They also produce fish seed. During 1971-72 the catch of marine fish amounted to 255,000 tonnes and that of inland fish to 13,500 tonnes. The total value was Rs. 256 million.

Mysore : The State has 321 kms. of coastline and 2,500 kms. of perennial rivers. It also has 19 major deep reservoirs; 32 major tanks; 2,100 minor tanks; 20,000 seasonal tanks and 2,500 kms. of irrigated canals. Of the 111,016 people in the fishing industry (1969-70), 23,710 are engaged in marine fishing. It has a fleet of 7,953 boats. Average catch per fisherman is 4·34 tonnes a year.

Orissa: There has been a great achievement in Marine, estuarine and inland fisheries. There are 103 inland fish farms and 4 marine fishing bases. In 1971-72 the catch amounted to 11,000 tonnes of marine fish, 19,000 tonnes of inland fish and 10,000 tonnes of estuarine fish.

West Bengal : The total quantity of fish caught in 1970-71 was 235,000 tonnes. The demand for fish in the local market however was 752,000 tonnes.

LIVESTOCK AND DAIRYING

LIVESTOCK plays an important part in the nation's economy. Its contribution is estimated to be over Rs. 30,000 million which does not include an estimated Rs. 4,000 million contributed indirectly through their labour on the agricultural fields.

Census : The last census was taken in 1966, according to which the livestock population (excluding poultry) was 343·7 million registering a 2·2 per cent. rise over the 1961 figure of 336·4 million. At this rate of growth over a period of five years the population in 1971 should be close to 350 million.

The break-up of this figure is : Cattle : 175·99 million ; Sheep : 40 million ; Goats : 64·5 million ; Buffaloes : 52·9 million ; Horses and ponies : 1·1 million ; Pigs : 4·9 million ; Camels : 1 million ; and other livestock 1·1 million. Poultry makes up an additional 115 million.

Meat Production : About 0·9 per cent of the cattle, 36 per cent of the goats and 32·5 per cent of the sheep population are slaughtered.

The annual production of various meats in million tonnes amounts to : 0·15 goats ; 0·11 sheep ; 0·12 beef ; 0·09 buffalo ; 0·02 pork. The total production is 0·46 million tonnes valued at Rs. 1,000 million.

The area cultivated by a pair of working animals is about 3·88 hectares.

CATTLE

They are divided into three broad categories. The milch cattle, the draught cattle and those that serve dual purpose.

Milch : The Sahiwal, the Kankrej and the Ongole are the best milk producers in that order. The Sahiwal yields 1814·4 kgs. a year. The others, including the Sindhi and the cattle from Saurashtra and Rajasthan, yield around 1678·3 kgs. a year.

Draught : The Amritmahal Hallikar of Mysore are good draught cattle but poor milkers.

Dual : The Galo of Madhya Pradesh, the Kangayam of South India, the Kankrej of Gujarat, the Haryana of Punjab, the Tharparkar of Gujarat and Rajasthan and the Ongole of Andhra Pradesh are all good draught animals yielding about 1360·8 kgs. of milk a year.

Cattle Breeding : Up to 1971 more than 50 breeding farms and projects had been established. Prominent foreign breeds like the Jersey, Friesein and Gurnsey have been imported together with frozen semen to cross breed these with the well-known local cattle. The FAO and other foreign agencies have been helping the programme with money and know-how.

BUFFALOES

There are 26 breeds of buffaloes but the best known are the murrah, nili and ravi of Punjab, the jafferabadi of Kathiawad, the mehsana of Gujarat, the nagpuri of Vidarbha and the surti and pandharpuri of Maharashtra. They yield about 1360·8 kgs. of milk for about 300-days of the year.

Average Yield : The average annual yield of a buffalo is 498·9 kgs. as against 187·3 kgs. of the cow. Besides buffalo milk is one and a half times richer in fat content making it more suited for butter and ghee production. A buffalo is far less expensive than a cow.

SHEEP

India produces over 35 million kgs. of wool annually with 40 per cent of this coming from Rajasthan alone.

Besides, sheep supply meat worth Rs. 120 million a year ; 15·3 million pieces of skin for the leather industry and a good deal of manure. One sheep contributes 0·5 to 0·7 tonnes of manure annually.

Breeding : Research to evolve superior strain of sheep for high quality wool is conducted in the three major sheep rearing tracts — temperate Himalayan, North Indian plains and the Deccan Plateau.

Under the Central sector the Government of India has established a large sheep breeding farm at Hissar in Haryana costing Rs. 11 million. The Australian government, under the Colombo Plan, has contributed sheep, equipment and experts at the cost of Rs. 7·35 million.

GOATS

Besides meat goats supply manure, skin, mohair and milk.

The important breeds are the himalayan goats found in Kashmir, Punjab and Uttar Pradesh, and the pashmini of Kashmir.

The himalayan and pashmini goats provide excellent mohair besides their meat. The other goats yield about 275 kgs. of milk in a lactation of 250 days.

POULTRY

The annual contribution by poultry to the country's economy is over Rs. 100 million.

The per capita consumption of eggs however is only 4 per annum compared to 400 in U.K., U.S.A. and Denmark.

A large number of poultry farms have sprung up throughout the country. The average production per day is 10,000 eggs and 300 birds.

Development : An intensive development programme has been undertaken by all State governments and research information, technical know-how and superior genetic stock are made available to anyone interested in poultry farming.

State-owned farms were expanded so that the five regional farms at Bombay, Bangalore, Bhopal, Delhi and Simla could produce 2·574 million eggs and 0·55 million birds and distribute 0·426 million breeding stock to other poultry farms in the country during 1970-71.

Fifteen poultry dressing plants with a capacity of 2,000 birds a day were procured from Australia and supplied to Assam, Andhra Pradesh, Bengal, Bihar, Gujarat, Haryana, Jammu and Kashmir, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Mysore, Orissa, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh.

PIGGERY

The country has seven bacon factories — one each in Andhra Pradesh, West Bengal, Bihar, Kerala, Maharashtra, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh. The eighth bacon factory is being set up in Chandigarh.

A model piggery has been set up at Gannavaram in Andhra Pradesh with the assistance of the Irish Government. About 6,000 foreign pigs (white Yorkshire and Landrace breed) were imported.

DAIRYING

Milk and milk products contribute about Rs. 6,200 million to the national income.

Of the 200 million cattle and buffaloes only 72 million or 36 per cent are milch animals. Besides the milk yield is low. Cows 186 kgs. a year and buffaloes 500 kgs. a year.

Gross production of milk is 20·65 million tonnes of which 13·2 million tonnes is marketed, the balance is used for home consumption or feeding calves.

Per Capita Consumption: The per capita consumption of milk and milk products varies from State to State. The average works out to 5·5 oz.

The per capita availability of milk in 1971 is about 6·25 ozs.

106 dairy plants were in operation during 1970-71 comprising 60 liquid milk plants, 36 pilot milk schemes, 7 milk powder factories and 3 creameries.

The average daily output of all plants was 2·25 million litres.

The average daily production of milk powder and infant food was 40 tonnes.

Cream, butter and ghee production amounts to about 30 tonnes a day.

A milk products plant at Miraj, a milk powder factory at Vijayawada and an infant food plant at Moradabad had been set up during 1970-71.

The Danish government had given credit for two milk powder plants in Uttar Pradesh and the Yugoslav Government for one in Haryana. These were to begin production in 1971-72.

Besides these several medium and small size dairy plants are in operation. During 1970-71 about 3,000 milk producers co-operatives were organised.

Foreign Aid: With aid from the World Food Programme the Government of India has set up the Indian Dairy Corporation at Baroda to stimulate milk marketing and dairy development.

Against an anticipated investment of Rs. 78·1 million during the period July, 1970 to June 1971 the Corporation generated Rs. 37·2 million up to April 1971. For a five year period from 1970-75 the W.F.P. will supply 126,000 tonnes of skimmed milk powder and 42,000 tonnes of butter oil free.

After recombination of milk powder and oil into liquid milk at public sector dairies at Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi and Madras the milk will be sold and the expected sale proceeds of Rs. 954 million will be utilised for increasing milk processing facilities in the country.

ANIMAL DISEASES

Rinderpest causes a mortality of about 60 per cent resulting in an animal loss of 0·4 million heads of cattle, valued at Rs. 300 million. Kerala, Mysore and Tamil Nadu have rid themselves of this disease after an intensive eradication programme. The disease is still prevalent in Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat and Maharashtra where a pilot scheme to brand and vaccinate 12 million cattle has been in operation since October 1954.

The vaccination programme has helped to reduce the number of deaths in these three States from 0·2 million in 1954-55 to about 3,374 in 1969-70. The Centre has agreed to give a 100 per cent grant to most States and Union territories for intensification of the eradication programme.

ARECANUT INDUSTRY

ARECANUT is one of the most important commercial crops of India. It plays an important role in the religious, social and cultural life of our people irrespective of caste, creed or social status. Chewing of arecanut with betel leaves and lime (Thamboolam, Pan Supari) has become a habit with a large number of people and a luxury for many in this country.

Betel-nut (processed arecanut) varieties are numerous in India and can be broadly classified into unboiled, boiled and coloured varieties.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The chief arecanut growing States are Kerala, Mysore and Assam. These States account for nearly 91 per cent of the total area and production. It is also cultivated to a smaller extent in certain areas of West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Goa. The State-wise break-up of the area under arecanut cultivation is given on the next page.

The overall average per capita consumption of betel-nut in India is estimated at 0·33 kg. In Kerala it is 0·67 kg. and in Mysore 0·66 kg. Among the cities, Delhi and Nagpur are two of the most important consuming markets.

EXPORTS

Arecanut is exported in small quantities to countries like Nepal, Kenya, Aden, Saudi Arabia etc. mainly for the use of Indian settlers abroad. The quantity exported during 1968-69 was 338 tonnes valued at Rs. 3·05 million; during 1969-70 it was 226 tonnes valued at Rs. 2·07 million; and during 1970-1971 it was 252 tonnes valued at Rs. 2·40 million.

IMPORTS

Production of arecanut had been short of internal demand and sizable quantities had to be imported to fill the gap, but the shortfall has since been almost covered by intensifying local production. 1968-69 was the last year when there were imports.

GENERAL

Yield per hectare 857 kgs.; cost of cultivation per hectare Rs. 1,420; and gross income earned per hectare Rs. 3,375.

There are 25 arecanut marketing co-operative societies located in Kerala, Mysore, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra and Goa.

Regulated markets established in the important assembling centres in Mysore, Kerala (Malabar region) and Goa under the Agricultural Produce Markets Act, besides checking the malpractices prevailing in the trade, also collect and disseminate market intelligence for the benefit of growers and traders.

The Directorate of Arecanut and Spices Development of the Department of Agriculture, Government of India, is situated at 1/500, Cannanore Road, Calicut-673005, Kerala, and assists the growers and traders with their problems.

FOURTH-FIVE YEAR PLAN

The requirement of arecanut by the end of the Fourth Plan period is estimated to be 150,000 tonnes. It is expected that the production will reach this level by the end of the Fourth Plan without any further expansion of area but merely by adoption of intensive agricultural practices in the existing areas. Developmental programmes have already been drawn up.

CASHEW-NUT INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

The cashew tree (Anacardium Occidentale), a native of South America was introduced into India by the Portuguese settlers who planted the first saplings on western Indian coast during the sixteenth or seventeenth century, primarily to check soil erosion. Finding a congenial home it grew extensively on the western coast where it is known as 'Feringi Mango' (Feringi meaning Portuguese).

Time was when the cashew fruit season, coming about the beginning of the year, was awaiting eagerly only by children, crows and cattle. When a few pioneering farmers in the early twenties collected its nuts and sent it abroad from whence a demand came for its kernels in the raw or roasted form, the prospects of establishing an industry became evident. The tree was then no longer despised as an unwelcome intruder into gardens, but began to be cultivated in a systematic way.

The cashew-nut grows at the bottom end of the cashew "apple". The fruit, when ripe, is juicy and sweet and rich in vitamin C. The juice is used in the preparation of syrup, squash, jam, candy and wine.

The cashew kernel is extracted from the nut by roasting, shelling and peeling. Now it is done mechanically and scientifically so that every drop of cashew-nut shell liquid exuding from the hard outer coat of the nut is drained and collected. This liquid is a dark brown viscous oil, easily soluble in most of the organic solvents. It is an important raw material in the manufacture of insulating varnishes, paints, typewriter rolls, oil and acid proof cold setting cements, industrial flooring tiles, automobile brake-linings and also in the plastic industry.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Out of about 300 processing factories in the country 264 are in Kerala State. The processing areas outside Kerala are in Tamil Nadu, Mysore, Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra.

Public Sector : One factory was started at Kottayam, Kerala by the Kerala State Cashew Development Corporation in June 1970. There is a proposal to start two more, one at Killikolloor outside Quilon and the other at Tellicherry in Malabar area.

The State Corporation is also managing at present 25 processing factories in and around Quilon and other places.

Ranking in the World Market : India accounts for about 65 per cent of the world export of cashew Kernels.

PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION

Production is about 100,000 tonnes of which 60,000 tonnes find its way to processing factories, the remaining 40,000 tonnes are presumably consumed domestically. Out of the 60,000 tonnes processed 98 per cent is exported.

EXPORTS

The demand for Indian cashew kernels in foreign markets began to be felt in the early 1920's. The first shipment of a little over 45 tonnes of cashew kernels was sent to the U.S.A. in 1923. Since then the demand for the product has been increasing with the years. A Cashew Export Promotion Council (at World Trade Centre, M. Gandhi Road, Ernakulam, Cochin 682016, Kerala), was set up in 1955 to help this export oriented industry.

The chief reason why India enjoyed for a long time the supremacy in export of cashew kernels is that processing of the raw nuts has been the monopoly of India. Now Kenya, Mozambique and Tanzania from where India imports the raw nuts, have started their own processing plants. This has hit India's exports considerably.

Cashew industry ranks second to jute in foreign exchange earnings and is regarded as one of the top seven.

Export Duty : There is a one per cent cess on exports.

IMPORTS

The domestic supply of raw nuts is inadequate to meet the total requirements of the processing factories. The shortfall is made-up by importing raw nuts. This is being done by The Cashew Corporation of India Ltd., a subsidiary of State Trading Corporation, which was set up on August 19, 1970. The raw nuts are sold by the Corporation to the processing factories.

Import of raw cashew-nuts from East African countries during 1971-72 amounted to 157,457 tonnes valued at Rs. 253·4 million as against 169,359 tonnes valued at Rs. 294·1 million for 1970-71.

GENERAL

According to the study made by GATT, a good average crop from a mature plantation tree is around 10 kgs. in East Africa and 30 kgs. in India.

In Africa, the average yield of kernels is about 21 to 24 per cent of raw nut weight, while in India it is slightly higher. Indian processors claim to be able to get upto 70 per cent whole kernels, while the mechanical processing plants in Africa record upto 65 per cent.

The cost of processing of raw nuts is Rs. 38 per bag of about 77 kgs. in Kerala, while it is said to be as low as Rs. 14 in Tamil Nadu. The Indian cashew trade has been able to hold its own in the world market because of its competitive price even though some of the African countries have started factories adopting mechanical processes. The poor technology in the cashew industry in Kerala in which the operations are done manually accounts for the investment per worker being as low as about Rs. 300 per worker. Over 90 per cent of the workers are women who perform such delicate operations as shelling, peeling and grading of the nut.

FOURTH-FIVE YEAR PLAN

An estimated production target of 210,000 tonnes of raw cashew-nuts is sought to be achieved by the end of the Fourth Plan against the base level production of 180,000 tonnes at the end of 1968-69 through various development programmes, both in the State and Central sectors. These programmes are estimated to bring in 30,000 tonnes of raw nuts additionally during the end of Fourth Plan.

Under the State sector of the Plan, new areas extending upto 237,962 hectares are proposed to be brought under cashew. This will include 6,673 hectares under departmental plantations and 88,512 hectares under non-departmental plantations. In the Central sector, prime importance has been given to organising a cashew package programme, which will consist of setting up about 1,500 demonstration plots and coverage of 24,768 hectares of non-departmental plantations and 12,328 hectares of departmental plantations by plant protection measures. In addition to this, special schemes for area expansion in 5,000 hectares and package programme also in 5,000 hectares in departmental plantations has been sanctioned by the Government of India.

COFFEE INDUSTRY

THE coffee plant is thought to have originated in the highlands of Abyssinia. About 400 years ago coffee became established as a beverage in Arabia and Turkey from where it eventually came to Europe and to London in 1652.

The coffee plant is supposed to have been introduced in India by a Muslim saint who came from Mecca and made his home in Mysore. Some of the hilly areas of Mysore where coffee plantations abound even today, bear his name Baba Budan.

Although the saint came to India over a hundred years ago the cultivation of the coffee plant on a plantation scale and its status as a commercial crop came only with the efforts of the first British planters around 1850. Now the plantations are spread over vast hilly tracts of Mysore, Tamil Nadu and Kerala.

A small tree with many branches the coffee plant usually reaches heights ranging from 4·57 to 6·09 metres. The fruit is red and contains two interlinked seeds. These separated constitute the commercial coffee berry, and this, roasted and ground, produces the coffee powder for consumption.

Coffee Arabica and Coffee Canephora (Robusta) are the two types of coffee grown on a commercial scale in India. The total area under coffee in the country is 136,453 hectares which is divided between Arabica coffee and Robusta coffee. The Arabica coffee occupies the major portion and accounts for 81,974 hectares as agianst 54,479 hectares under the Robusta coffee.

The south Indian States are the traditional coffee growing tracts. Mysore State having 60 per cent of the total area under coffee in the country comes first followed by Kerala having 22 per cent. Tamil Nadu has 17 per cent of the area and the remaining one per cent is scattered in the States of Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Orissa, Assam and West Bengal besides the Andamans and Nicobar islands.

Of the 50,851 coffee estates in the country, 49,031 estates are small holdings having an area of ten hectares and below, and the remaining 1,820 are large holdings, above ten hectares in area. Mysore State has 17,907 small holdings and 1,297 large holdings.

No. of Persons Employed: 236,295.

EXPORTS

Indian coffee is exported to many countries such as U.S.A., Canada, West Germany, Belgium, Netherlands, France, United Kingdom, Sweden, Norway, East Germany, Yugoslavia, USSR, Poland and Hungary. It is known for its quality and is used in other countries for blending with the coffee of other origins.

Until recently, more than 96 per cent of export was in the shape of raw coffee. Roasted, ground and coffee extracts made up only 2 per cent. The export of coffee extracts like soluble coffee and instant coffee has been increasing lately.

Exports of coffee from India for the fiscal years 1969-70 to 1971-72 based on the data of the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics, Calcutta, is given in the table below :

Fiscal Year	Quantity of Coffee Exported (In Tonnes)	Value Realised (In Rs.)

The International Coffee Organisation approved a redistribution of quarterly export quotas for nine producers of mild Arabica coffee and two Robusta producers in November 1971.

India is a member of International Coffee Organisation. India's quota under this agreement for the year 1971-72 was 24,012 tonnes and the coffee year 1972-73 for the first quarter (October-December 1972) the quota has been fixed at 6,650 tonnes.

Export Targets : The export targets fixed by the Board during the Fourth Plan are as follows :

Fiscal Year	Export targets (In Tonnes)
1971–72	38,700*
1973–74	42,900

* As the production of coffee in 1971–72 was a record 1,10,000 tonnes the target fixed for export in 1971–72 has been achieved. In fact the actual quantity sold for export out of 1971–72 crop was 47,655 tonnes.

Export Duty : An export duty of Rs. 25 per 50 kgs. is levied on exports of coffee from India. The customs cess on export coffee is Rs. 3·75 per 50 kgs.

Export Promotion Council : Coffee Board situated Vidhana Veedhi, Bangalore 560001, is in charge of promoting exports.

IMPORTS

Value of the machinery etc., recommended for import by the Coffee Board to the coffee planters, curing works, dealers and others during the period of 5 years from 1966-67 to 1970-71 is about Rs. 5 million.

GENERAL

The powder of chicory roots is blended with coffee to enhance its taste. India produces about 6,000 to 7,000 tonnes of chicory roots per year which yields about 4,000 to 4,500 tonnes of chicory powder.

Cultivation of chicory is concentrated in Coimbatore and Nilgiri districts of Tamil Nadu, Jamnagar in Gujarat and Munnar and Vattavada in Kerala. In India the consumption of chicory is around 600 to 700 tonnes per annum.

India has been able to make considerable progress because of the Coffee Board, a statutory body under the Ministry of Foreign Trade. The functions of the Coffee Board are: the marketing of coffee through a common pool, promoting the sale and consumption of coffee in India and abroad, promoting agricultural and technological research, giving assistance to coffee growers for development of their estates and providing welfare measures for workers in the coffee plantations.

Training and Research : Facilities both for research in coffee culture and farm supervision and management training are available at the two research stations administered by the Coffee Board research department. The main research station located at Balehonnur, Chikmagalur district, Mysore State has been conducting laboratory research and field investigations on the three main aspects of crop improvement viz., plant-breeding, plant-protection and plant-nutrition. The sub-station at Chethalli, Coorg district, Mysore State is run on a commercial basis for the purpose of large-scale demonstration in economic farm management and is also equipped with requisite staff and facilities for practical training in farm management and field-extension. A soil testing unit is also located in Mysore city.

The main research station maintains a close liaison with institutions all over the world and has been recognised as a centre for advance studies in coffee research.

New Plantation : A coffee plantation on 810 hectares in Paderu forest area of Andhra Pradesh was inaugurated in August 1972 with a view to rehabilitate 600 families of repatriates from Sri Lanka (Ceylon). The Central Ministry of Rehabilitation has given a loan of Rs. 8·1 million to the Andhra Pradesh Forest Department to implement this scheme.

FOURTH-FIVE YEAR PLAN

The area under coffee cultivation in India at the end of the Third Plan period (1965-66) was about 129,905 hectares. On the basis of present rate of annual increase and other factors, the total area is expected to reach 144,675 hectares and an annual average production of 100,000 tonnes by the end of the Fourth Plan period (1973-74).

COIR INDUSTRY

COIR is the natural versatile golden fibre extracted from the husk, the outer covering of the coconut. 'Cocos Fibre' popularly known as coir is classed among the industrial hard fibres which cater to the world market in the form of fibre, spun yarn, floor coverings, curled coir, rubberised coir products and rope.

BRIEF HISTORY

The word 'coir' has an historical background. The fact that it is derived from the Malayalam word 'kayar' meaning cord, shows that this material first became known as a product of the Malabar coast. As early as the 11th Century A.D. Arab writers have mentioned coir and referred to the uses of this material as ship's cables and rigging. During the 13th century, the great traveller Marco Polo mentioned the method of using coir yarn in the building of ships in the Persian Gulf, which is identical to that prevailing on the west coast of India at the present time.

It was not in India, as one would have thought, but in England that coir was first put to practical use. About 125 years ago three partners of a London carpet firm registered their patents for the manufacture of coir fibre into various fabrics suitable for floor coverings.

The development of the coir industry in India began in 1859 when a simple method of coir spinning and weaving on the coast of Malabar was introduced by an enterprising American of Irish origin. Many others soon followed with the increased demand for coir goods in England and on the Continent. Ever since these humble beginnings, coir products have been improving in quality, quantity and variety.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The coir industry is mainly confined to the coastal strip of Kerala. However, in recent years, other coconut producing States have also made a start in this profitable industry.

Statewise location of the industry is as follows:

Public Sector : Hindustan Coir Ltd. at Kalavoor near Alleppey in Kerala is the only factory in the public sector. It is run by the Coir Board, and primarily produces coir floor coverings.

No. of Persons Employed: There are about 500,000 persons employed in this industry which is mainly a cottage industry.

Ranking in the World Market: The total volume of coir entering the world trade either as raw fibre or in the form of spun yarn and manufactured products is about 175,000 tonnes. Raw fibre alone accounts for 95,000 tonnes of this while processed coir goods account for only 80,000 tonnes. India's share in world trade of coir and coir goods are as follows: coir yarn 99 per cent, coir manufactures 75 per cent, coir cordages and ropes 95 per cent.

PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION

The world production of coir is concentrated very largely on the western coastal areas of India and Ceylon. These are the only two countries in which widespread commercial production is undertaken even though coconuts are grown in abundance elsewhere. India accounts for about 56 per cent of the total production of the coir in the world.

Estimated annual output of coir in principal producing countries is as follows:

WORLD PRODUCTION OF COIR

India	160·0
Sri Lanka	100·0
Tanzania	8·5

Thailand	3·0
Philippines	2·5

Total	288·8

The annual production of coir in India is estimated at 160,000 tonnes, of this total 95 per cent is produced in Kerala State and the remaining portion comes chiefly from the States of Tamil Nadu and Mysore.

The All-India estimated annual production and consumption of coir and coir products is as follows :

6. Rubberised products	1,276	11·1	1,176

N.B. : Coir yarn and other products are manufactured from coir fibre and yarn respectively and hence the above figures should not be added up.

In order to expand the home market for coir and coir products, the Coir Board has opened show rooms and sales depots in important cities like Bombay, Calcutta, New Delhi, Madras, Bangalore and Ernakulam. The Board has also appointed 33 accredited dealers throughout the country.

EXPORTS

Coir export from India is directed to more than 90 countries in the world. The following table indicates the quantity and the foreign exchange (in rupees) earned through these exports during the last three years.

Export Duty : Coir yarn exports are subjected to an export duty of 15 per cent.

The Coir Industry Act gives powers to the Union Government to levy a cess on export of coir and coir products. At present the cess levied on coir fibre and yarn is at the rate of 98 paise per quintal. Nearly Rs. 646,000 were collected under this head in 1970-71.

To achieve some sort of stability in price index, floor prices have been fixed for the popular varieties of coir mats and coir yarn exported.

There is a scheme of quality control and pre-shipment inspection to prevent the shipment of inferior goods.

GENERAL

Coir Board (Address: Post Box No. 1752, Ernakulam South, Cochin-682016) having representatives from the industry and Government officials, was established in the year 1953. The function of the Board has been to promote the development of coir industry, to help manufacturers in exporting their finished goods and to carry on propaganda for that purpose and also to assist technological research.

Gross National Product: At the time Coir Board was set up the estimated G.N.P. from coir and coir goods was Rs. 128 million. During 1971-72, the G.N.P. from Coir was estimated at Rs. 325 million, recording an increase of over 150 per cent.

Training and Research facilities : A Central Coir Research Institute was set up in Kalavoor, Alleppey in Kerala to carry on fundamental as well as applied research.

The Board also set up a National Coir Training and Design Centre at Alleppey to impart advanced and systematic training in the techniques of coir production. An extension service covering the various aspects of coir extraction, processing and manufacture especially spinning, dyeing and weaving was also started.

In order to compete with the products manufactured on powerlooms in West European countries, a fully mechanised factory, set up by the Coir Board, has been commissioned for production. The total financial outlay is about Rs. 1·2 million with a foreign exchange component of about Rs. 460,000. Two other factories in the private sector have also commenced commercial production.

Rubberised coir producing units have been commissioned in various parts of the country. Rubberised coir is extensively used in the manufacture of mattresses, pillows, moulded cushions, upholstery parts, etc.

Raw Material : The fibrous husk — the outer covering of the coconut is the primary raw material for the coir industry, and as such, the availability of raw material depends on the production of coconuts. World area under coconut cultivation has been estimated at 6,572 thousand hectares and the annual world production of coconuts is reckoned as 27,379·4 million nuts. Philippines is the largest producer of coconuts in the world. India stands third in the list, second being Indonesia.

India produces 5,779 million nuts annually on 1,022 thousand hectares that are under coconut cultivation.

27,379·4 million husks were available for industry in the world in 1969-70. In most of the coconut producing countries, coconut is produced mainly for copra, the husks being either buried as fertilizer or discarded. In India itself, it is estimated that out of 5,779 million husks available only 40 to 50 per cent is utilised by the industry and the rest is wasted.

As per the recommendations of the Board, the Central Government has issued orders notifying coconut husks (raw and retted) as an essential commodity under the Essential Commodity Act of 1955. In exercise of the powers conferred under section 3 of the Essential Commodity Act, 1955 (10 of 1955) the Central Government has issued orders for the licensing of coir retting places. These rules provide powers to the Government for the control of the price of husks. The State Governments of Kerala and Tamil Nadu were authorised to implement the scheme. Government of Kerala accordingly started the scheme of licensing of retting places with effect from December 1, 1969. Maximum ex-retted prices for retted husks have also been fixed by the Government.

FOURTH FIVE YEAR PLAN

A total outlay of Rs. 50·3 million is envisaged in the Fourth Plan for the development of the coir industry, Rs 15·0 million for Central Schemes and Rs. 35·3 million for State and Union Territory Schemes. The Central Schemes to be implemented by the Coir Board are aimed at :

(1) Diversification of production and product development including research and mechanisation.

(2) Export promotion by stepping up publicity, negotiating with importing countries for removal of tariff non-tariff barriers, maintaining quality and stabilisation of prices and,

(3) Providing a stable domestic market for coir and coir goods.

(4) Ensuring remunerative returns to different sectors in this industry by providing training facilities, working capital loans, machinery etc.
(5) Market surveys.
(6) Economic and statistical research.

Publication : "Coir Quarterly", "Monthly Bulletin of exports of coir and coir products" and Annual Brochure "India's Production, Exports and Internal Consumption of Coir and Coir Goods", all three brought out by the Coir Board.

COTTON AND COTTON TEXTILE INDUSTRY

COTTON

Brief History : India is the accredited home of the cotton plant. There is evidence to show that cotton used to be grown in India as early as 4000 years B.C. Alongside the production of cotton there was a thriving cotton textile industry which not only supplied cloth for internal consumption but produced export varieties of cloth that became the envy of the world. The writings of Marco Polo in the 13th century A.D. and of Tavernier in the 17th century stand testimony to the degree of excellence and perfection achieved by the textile industry in India.

Originally, all cotton cultivated in India grew on the perennial type of plant known as G. Arborium Var Neglectum, which was of Forma Bengalenses in north and western India and of Forma Indicum in central and south India. It is believed that the 'webs of the woven wind'—the world famous Dacca muslin was made from Forma Bengalenses.

Until about the middle of the 18th century Indian textiles reigned supreme in foreign markets. But during the Industrial Revolution in the West, Indian cloth began to lose its oversea's market. Realising the significance of the revolution the East India Company changed its role of an exporter of cloth to an exporter of cotton and encouraged a wider cultivation of cotton in India. Thus began the cultivation of cotton as a commercial crop.

AREA UNDER CULTIVATION

India has the largest area in the world under cotton cultivation, which is more than one fourths of the total world acreage.

The area ('000 hectares) under cotton cultivation during last three years was: 1969-70 : 7,712·3 ; 1970-71 : 7,605·1 ; 1971-72 : 7,783·6.

(Refer to the Chapter on 'Agriculture' for the Statewise break-up of the area during 1971-72).

PRODUCTION

Among the Indian States, Gujarat normally accounts for more than one fourth of the country's production of cotton, closely followed by Maharashtra. These two States together produce over half the country's cotton.

The production ('000 bales of 180 kgs. each) of cotton during last three years was : 1969-70 : 5,233·1 ; 1970-71 : 4,498·8 ; 1971-72 : 6,526·4.

(Refer to the chapter on 'Agriculture' for the Statewise break-up of production in 1971-72).

IMPORTS

Since the home production of cotton has not met the rising demand, imports have become a necessity which forms roughly 10 per cent of the total consumption as seen in the table below :

GENERAL

Yield Per Hectare : Inspite of India having the largest area under cotton cultivation, the production accounts for less than one tenth of the world cotton output. Indian production has been on an average one bale (180 kgs.) per hectare, against 4 bales produced in Egypt.

India is, however, on the verge of a major breakthrough in cotton cultivation with the development of a new strain by crossing the imported type American Nectariless with the indigenous Gujarat-67.

The new variety, Hybrid-4 is credited with a record yield of 8,700 kgs. of kapas per hectare in Bellary district of Mysore. The average yield from this strain is placed at 3,500 to 4,000 kgs. per hectare, while the average yield per hectare of other varieties is 925 kgs. of kapas in irrigated areas and 250 kgs. in non-irrigated areas.

Cotton Corporation of India Ltd. : Refer to the Chapter on 'All India Corporations'.

Research : Established in 1924 the Cotton Technological Research Laboratory at Adenwala Road, Matunga, Bombay-400019, offers facilities for fibre testing and spinning quality evolution of cotton with the result that a large number of improved varieties have been evolved and extended for commercial cultivation.

The laboratory also offers training in cotton technology to sponsored candidates from the textile industry.

Regional Cotton Research Station at Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu of the Indian Agricultural Research Institute does research on the plant breeding aspect of cotton.

Besides this laboratory numerous other agricultural universities conduct research on cotton.

Development Programme : The Centre has approved a three-year programme, costing Rs. 147·4 million to end the country's long dependence on import of cotton.

The plan will bring a return of an aggregate value of Rs. 1,560 million between 1971 and 1974. The increased yield is expected to be about 360,000 bales in 1971-72, 420,000 bales in 1972-73, and 480,000 bales in 1973-74.

The main objective of the new plan is to end the present stagnation in cotton production by adopting promotional measures, suited to both irrigated and rain-fed areas, and make the country self-sufficient in cotton.

The three-year programme would popularise the use of pure seed and new varieties, application of recommended doses of fertilisers, and adoption of plant protection measures.

Under the programme, six districts have been selected in the irrigated zone: Ferozepore and Bhatinda in the Punjab, Hissar in Haryana, Sriganganagar in Rajasthan, Baroda in Gujarat and Coimbatore in Tamil Nadu. In the current year, it is proposed to cover a total of 400,000 hectares of cotton cultivated areas in these districts.

During 1972-73, an additional area of 80,000 hectares will be covered, followed by another 80,000 hectares in 1973-74. This includes 100,000 hectares of cotton growing areas in Baroda district of Gujarat. Another 60,000 hectares will be covered in 1971-72, and additional 20,000 hectares each in the subsequent two years.

Demonstrations of farm holdings in these areas show that cotton production can be stepped up by 40 to 100 per cent.

In non-irrigated areas, it is proposed to initiate a programme on a pilot basis in approximately 140,000 hectares spread over seven districts in different States. These are Kurnool in Andhra Pradesh, Surendranagar in Gujarat, Khargone in Madhya Pradesh, Akola and Yeotmal in Maharashtra, Dharwar in Mysore and Tirunelveli in Tamil Nadu.

In each selected district, 2,000 hectares will be covered under the "intensive programme" and another 18,000 hectares under the "expanded programme". The programme recommends reimbursement of cost of inputs up to a prescribed limit per hectare.

COTTON TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Brief History : The cotton textile industry was the first of Indian modern industries: the base on which the pyramid of Indian industrialisation was built up a trainng ground for Indian entrepreneurs and managerial personnel, who later promoted a large number of other industries.

More than a century old the industry was started largely as a spinning enterprise and gradually developed into a full-fledged composite one. The first power-mill was set up in Bombay by a Parsi pioneer, Mr. Kavasji Nanabhai Davar, in 1854. From then on the industry has held a vital place in the Indian economy.

No. of Persons Employed : It provides direct employment to about 900,000 (20 per cent of all factory labour totalling 4·6 million). Indirect employment runs into several millions.

Capital Investment : Estimated at Rs. 2,700 million and the annual value of the output amounts to Rs. 12,000 million.

Ranking in the World : India occupies second position in terms of spindles (after the U.S.A.), third as exporter of cotton textiles (after Japan and Hongkong), fourth in terms of cotton consumption (after China, U.S.A. and Russia.)

Cotton Textile Export Promotion Council: (Address: Engineering Centre, Mathew Road, Bombay-400004). It is an autonomous body and a non-profit making organisation and was set up in 1954 for the promotion of exports of mill-made cotton yarn and piece-goods, cotton manufactures and all hosiery and readymade garments.

GENERAL

The textile industry is composed of three distinct groups in the organised sector. These are (i) spinning mills, (ii) coarse and medium composite mills and (iii) fine and superfine composite mills.

The spinning mills are generally small in size and their domestic market is confined to powerlooms, handlooms and hosiery industry. Of late, they have contributed encouragingly towards exports. Raw materials constitute 75-80 per cent of their cost of production. They have now also begun using synthetic fibres.

The coarse and medium mills produce cloth mainly in controlled categories and for export. They consume Indian cotton, the prices of which have fluctuated widely in the last few years. Further they are subject to strict stock limitation of raw materials enforced by the Textile Commissioner. It is these coarse and medium mills which immediately suffer the impact of uneconomic working conditions and run into difficulties and ultimately into huge losses.

The fine and superfine mills consume mainly foreign cotton, the price of which is relatively stable. Foreign cotton is generally subject to no stock restriction. The mills are therefore able to run stable production programmes for an essentially domestic market.

Readymade Garments: Exports worth Rs. 90 million in 1960–70 rose to Rs. 202·50 million in 1971–72.

National Textile Corporation Ltd. (details in the Chapter on All India Corporations) A public sector undertaking, it was set up in 1968 to take over and run 'sick' textile mills in the country. Similar corporations are also set up in the State sector of Gujarat, Kerala, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh.

Indian Cotton Mills' Federation: (ICMF): (Address: 10 Veer Nariman Road, Bombay-400001) Established in March 1958, it is the apex body representing the cotton mill industry of India. The object of ICMF is to watch over, protect and promote the interests of the industry.

Research: Extensive research on cotton textiles is carried out by the following organisations: (1) Ahmedabad Textile Industry's Research Association (ATIRA), P.O. Polytechnic, Ahmedabad-380015, Gujarat. It also has several regional research stations in Gujarat doing research on cotton. (2) Bombay Textile Research Association, Ghatkopar, Bombay-400077. (3) Shri Ram Institute for Industrial Research, 19, University Road, New Delhi-110007. (4) South India Textile Research Association, Coimbatore-641014, Tamil Nadu. (5) Textile and Allied Industries Research Organisation, Kala Bhavan, Baroda-390001, Gujarat.

JUTE INDUSTRY

THE Indian jute mill industry, born in 1855 at Rishra on the Hooghly, 21 kms. upstream from Calcutta, was a natural evolution of the centuries old cottage industry of Lower Bengal based on hand spinning and weaving of jute. The banks of the Hooghly offered the best facilities in the world for manufacture of jute. By 1885 the Indian industry, with its supremacy in the international markets firmly established, had 6,700 looms in production. Loomage shot up to 30,685 in 1909, to 50,354 in 1927 and to 65,762 in 1949. For a decade or so the industry produced the simplest constructions of sacking cloth. A new line of production—hessian—was introduced in 1970, and the product diversification continued with webbings, cotton bagging, linoleum hessian, jute carpets and rugs, carpet backing cloth, and decorative jute fabrics gradually added to the range. The industry has already modernised up to the spinning stages of manufacture. This, coupled with the improved technology and other rationalisation measures adopted by the industry, has helped it to increase production without increasing loomage. Since 1967 the mills have been producing goods rigidly to ISI standards under the Government's compulsory quality control and preshipment inspection scheme. The industry has been engaged since World War II in research and product development for an answer to the problem of substitution.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Figures given are those of mills in operation on July 31, 1972. Within brackets are the number of factories that had closed down during the last one year. West Bengal 54; Andhra Pradesh 5; Bihar 3; Madhya Pradesh 1; Uttar Pradesh 3; Assam 1; All India 66 (8).

FOURTH FIVE YEAR PLAN

The Planning Commission has approved an incentive jute growing programme in six districts in four Eastern States, aimed at adding 840,000 bales to the country's jute production by 1973-74.

The two-year programme, which has been approved as a Centrally-sponsored scheme is estimated to cost Rs. 60 million and will be implemented from 1972-73.

The area proposed to be covered under the scheme is 300,000 hectares under improved package practices, and another 30,000 hectares under an extension programme.

An additional quantity of 380,000 bales of jute is likely to be produced during 1972-73 and the full potential of 840,000 bales of jute under the Scheme is expected to be realised in 1973-74. The aggregate value of this production is estimated to be Rs. 270 million.

LAC INDUSTRY

LAC is a resinous substance secreted as a protective coating by the lac insect known in scientific terms as " kerria lacca ". It is a unique natural resin, being the only one of animal origin. The insect, about 0·5 mm. long, belonging to the family of scale insects and mealy-bugs, is a parasite which lives and thrives on the sap of certain trees, bushes, shrubs and creepers which are called the 'lac hosts'.

BRIEF HISTORY

The word lac or lakh is derived from the Sanskrit word Laksha, meaning a hundred thousand, believed to be the number of crimson-red insects which play their role in producing a seer of lac. In Vedic times lac was prized for its supposed medicinal properties. Classical Sanskrit literature is full of references to the use of the red lac dye for cosmetic purposes. By the time of Akbar the use of lac for preparing varnishes and lacquer for wood had been well developed. Wood turnery lacquering, ornamental enamelling of brassware, and the making of bangles out of lac have continued to the present day as handicrafts.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The lac factories are located in the following five States with the number of units in brackets: Bihar (37), West Bengal (33), Madhya Pradesh (20), Maharashtra (7) and Uttar Pradesh (4). (Total 101 units.)

No. of Persons Employed: Bihar: 1,143, West Bengal : 2,332, Madhya Pradesh : 304, Maharashtra : 210, Uttar Pradesh : 83. (Total 4,072).

The lac industry provides side occupation and a valuable source of subsidiary income to the poor adivasis and backward people who employ themselves in its cultivation. The number of such cultivators is between 3 to 4 million.

PRODUCTION

The lac insect is found in most of the near and far eastern countries but is commercially exploited on a large-scale only by India and Thailand. India's share in world production of lac which was about 90 per cent before the Second World War has declined to about 50 per cent and Thailand now contributes more than one fourth of the total world supplies.

The all-India production of lac over the last three years in tonnes was as follows: 1969-70: 5,742; 1970-71: 24,560; 1971-72 : 27,211.

The final report issued by the Directorate of Lac Development, Ranchi, puts the total yield of 'Baisakhi' lac crop in 1971-72 at 18,400·8 tonnes, of 'Jethwi' lac at 370 tonnes, of 'Katki' lac at 7,200 tonnes and of 'Kusmi' lac at 1,241 tonnes.

Bihar has the highest production, 16,208 tonnes in 1971-72, followed by Madhya Pradesh 6,308 tonnes, West Bengal 2,148 tonnes and Uttar Pradesh 1,344 tonnes.

CONSUMPTION

India consumes only about 10 per cent of its annual production. The consumption in tonnes over the last three years was as follows: 1969-70 : 1,053; 1970-71 : 1,529; 1971-72 : 1,519.

EXPORTS

Very early in history, lac dye appears to have reached Greece and Rome. Regular exports to Europe began early in the 19th century for use as a substitute for the more expensive cochineal imported from Mexico. Exports were further accelerated when more uses were found for the resin, such as in the manufacture of phonograph records and French polish.

Indian lac being indisputably the best in quality is sold to over a hundred countries. Over 90 per cent of the total production is exported.

The largest buyers of Indian lac are U.S.A., U.S.S.R., and U.K.

The table below gives export of lac to important countries during the last three years.

Export Target: The Fourth Plan target for lac export has been put at 20,000 tonnes of shellac/seedlac.

Shellac Export Promotion Council with headquarters at 14/1B, Ezra Street, Calcutta-700001, assists the exporters in their various problems and does propaganda abroad for the promotion of lac trade.

The major functions of the Indian Lac Exporters Association, (6, Netaji Subhas Road, Calcutta-700001) formed with Government support, are to assist the Government in the fixation of minimum prices of all grades, maintenance of quality and administration of the minimum export price.

IMPORTS

Imports of lac over the last three years are given below: (there were no imports in 1968-69.)

Year	Quantity in quintals	Value in Rupees

GENERAL

For looking after the development and marketing of lac and also for guiding and co-ordinating lac development work in the States, a Directorate of Lac Development has been created under the Department of Agriculture of Government of India with headquarters at Circular Road, Ranchi, Bihar with effect from 1st April, 1966. The Government of India has also constituted the Indian Lac Development Council on which various interests connected with lac are represented. The primary function of the Council is to advise the Government on all matters relating to development of lac cultivation, trade and industry.

The Bihar Co-operative Lac Marketing Federation has been formed in Bihar with the object of giving a price support to the cultivator at the time when the market price falls below certain levels. Similar organisations in other States are in the offing.

Research: To improve upon the technique of lac cultivation and to find out new uses of lac are the responsibilities of the Indian Lac Research Institute at Namkum, Ranchi, Bihar. This Institute is under the control of the Indian Council of Agricultural Research and provides training facilities.

Important Uses: Lac is used in the manufacture of French polish, gramophone records, electrical insulating materials, shellac moulded articles, micanite, hats, grinding wheels, adhesives, cements, wood turning, metal enamelling, printing ink etc.

Crops: There are four crops of lac named after the Hindu months in which the collection of each crop commences. These are 'Baisakhi' and 'Katki' from one strain of the insect (Rangeeni) and 'Jethwi' and 'Aghani' from another strain (Kusmi). Each Rangeeni female produces 0·03 g. of somewhat dark lac, while each Kusmi female makes about 0·07 g. of a more valuable light-coloured lac.

When the matured crop is cut, a portion is kept apart to serve as broodlac for the next crop. The rest, scraped off from the twigs, is sticklac. The first processed product after the crushing and washing of sticklac is known as 'seedlac'. Shellac is manufactured either by melting seedlac mainly in cloth bags held near a fire or by the mechanised process of extraction with suitable solvents.

FOURTH FIVE YEAR PLAN

Keeping in view the fact that the world consumption of lac is around 30,000 tonnes of seedlac and shellac annually (which will be equivalent to over 60,000 tonnes of sticklac) and an export target of 20,000 tonnes of seedlac and shellac, a production target of 45,000 tonnes of sticklac has been fixed for 1973-74 the last year of the Fourth Plan.

For achieving this target the following two schemes have been incorporated:

Scheme No. I: 27 broodlac-cum-demonstration centres will be established in different States at a cost of Rs. 917,000. These farms will supply healthy and good quality broodlac at subsidised rates to poor cultivators. This scheme is under the State sector and only a few States have taken up the scheme with very much reduced investment.

Scheme No. II: Adoption of improved method of cultivation and production of superior quality lac in selected areas at a total cost of Rs. 875,000.

The second scheme is centrally sponsored. Extensive measures for improved method of cultivation will be undertaken in 48 blocks in 5 lac growing States.

GROUNDNUT

Groundnut, in terms of weight, is the world's third most important oil-seed, ranking after soyabean and cottonseed; because it has a relatively high oil content, it is the second most important source of edible oil, and provides about a fifth of all edible oil supplies. India has the largest area and production of groundnut, and the Indian crop significantly influences the trend of world production and supplies.

Groundnut accounts for 70 per cent of the total oilseed output in the country.

The estimated world production of groundnuts was 17·02 million tonnes for the crop year 1970–71 which is 7 per cent higher than the previous year. This is largely attributed to a record production of 6 million tonnes of Indian groundnuts.

Exports of groundnut extractions form a lion's share of the total exports of oilseed meals from India, and constitute approximately 50 per cent of the total world exports. India exported 603,763 tonnes of groundnut meal and 26,783 tonnes of groundnut during 1971–72.

Per Hectare Yield in kg. of groundnut for the last three years has been as follows: 1969-70: 712·4; 1970-71: 831·5; 1971–72: 788·9.

The Vanaspati Manufacturers' Association of India (Address: Harilela House, Mint Road, Bombay-400001) has about 4,046 hectares under experimental cultivation of groundnuts, and produces 30 to 50 per cent more per hectare than the rest of the country. The association achieved a yield of 969 kgs. per hectare in 1970-71.

COTTONSEED

Until about the beginning of the sixties cottonseed was used almost entirely as a cattlefeed, and even now only 40 per cent of the total production is available for crushing.

The yearly production of cottonseed is nearly 2 million tonnes, and the production of cottonseed oil is around 95,000 to 98,000 tonnes. Vanaspati industry consumes about 90 per cent of the oil produced.

Cottonseed production is expected to go up to 2·5 million tonnes by the end of the Fourth Plan. If the entire quantity, after providing for sowing requirements, were to become available for crushing through the modern methods, the industry could produce annually 320,000 tonnes of cottonseed oil, 400,000 tonnes of hulls, 75,000 tonnes of linters and a huge quantity of cake. This will help to save substantial amount of foreign exchange. In spite of the huge increase in the production of cottonseed oil, still there is plenty of scope to raise it further. According to the cotton crop estimates, the availability of cottonseed oil can increase upto 250,000 tonnes to 300,000 tonnes. The production of oilseeds is still lagging far behind the demand.

Exports: Almost the entire amount of decorticated Cottonseed extractions produced in 1971 and 1972 were exported as there is virtually no internal market for it. The quantity exported in the same period was 63,550 tonnes and 124,530 tonnes respectively.

The crushing of cottonseed is done both by organised and unorganised sectors. In the organised sector there are about 80 units, mostly situated in Maharashtra (26) and Gujarat (45).

The following table gives the record of production achieved by the crushing industry.

	Oil in tonnes	Decorticated Cake Extractions in tonnes	Linters in tonnes

SOYABEAN

The Central Government has a 25 per cent incentive scheme which subsidises the soyabean growers' purchase of pesticides and other inputs to the extent of one fourth of his purchase price. This is in pursuance of the Government's policy to encourage soyabean cultivation for its protein rich content and its use as an additional source of edible oil.

An area of 20,000 hectares has been brought under soyabean crop in 1970-71. The Government has decided to bring 400,000 hectares of land under soyabean by the end of Fourth Plan mainly in Maharashtra, Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat and Madhya Pradesh.

The Food Corporation of India has decided to set up a soyabean processing plant by 1973-74.

India imports soyabean oil from U.S.A. under PL 480. It is being used in the manufacture of Vanaspati to control the prices of hydrogenated oil. It also helps to some extent in checking the prices of domestic oils. Since March 1965 to December 31, 1970, import of U.S. Soyabean oil totalled approximately 425,000 tonnes. In 1971–72 the quantity imported was 101,505 tonnes.

SUNFLOWER

The Central Government has launched a Rs. 9·2 million crash programme for development of sunflower in Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Mysore as a step towards achieving self-reliance in oilseeds production. The programme envisages bringing of 350,000 hectares under sunflower cultivation by 1973-74 end and 620,000 hectares by 1975-76 end.

About 350,000 tonnes of sunflower is expected to be produced by 1974. This would yield 122,000 tonnes of oil valued at Rs. 368 million. The oil would be used for the manufacture of vanaspati and the oil cake as cattlefeed.

GENERAL

India occupies a leading position both in regard to area and production on the oilseed map of the world.

Oilseeds are cultivated on about 15 million hectares which is about 10 per cent of the total cultivated area. The most important crop is groundnut which covers 7·2 million hectares followed by rapeseed and mustard with 3 million hectares. Next in order of importance are Sesamum, linseed and castor.

In spite of the area and production being more than other countries the yield of oilseeds in India is the lowest in the world at 736 kgs. per hectare against 1,615·38 kgs. per hectare in Nigeria, 1,474·58 kgs. in U.S., 1,153·49 kgs. in Argentina and 1,148·55 kgs. in China.

The per capita consumption of edible oil in India is about 2·8 kgs. The combined per capita consumption of oils and fats is 4 kgs. as against the world average of 18 kgs.

INDUSTRIAL OIL

The requirement of industrial oil is 540,000 tonnes for manufacturing 900,000 tonnes of soap annually, for which nearly 100,000 tonnes of fallow is imported every year. The balance of the requirement is being met from rice bran oil, mowrah oil, linseed oil, castor oil and solvent oil of groundnuts and copra.

MISCELLANEOUS OILS

Lemongrass Oil : It is chiefly grown in Kerala. India exports more than Rs. 10 million worth of lemongrass oil annually. It is mainly used as a base for some perfumes for the soap-making industry.

Palm Oil : The Plantation Corporation of Kerala proposes to raise palm oil plantations on a 2,000 hectares area at Bharathipuram near Anchal (Quilon District) under a phased programme extending over five years. Palm oil cultivation is a new venture not only to the Plantation Corporation but to India as a whole.

Saplings germinated from the Malaysian red palm oil seeds have been planted initially in an area of 100 hectares. The object of the scheme is to augment the supply of vegetable oils which are being imported at present. A subsidiary company is being formed for raising oil palm plantation. When the targetted 2,000 hectares are planted with oil palm, the yield will be of the following order, (i) Red palm oil 4,446 tonnes, (ii) Kernel oil 616 tonnes, (iii) Oil cake 616 tonnes.

A similar project has also been sanctioned by the Central Government for Andaman and Nicobar islands on an area of 2,400 hectares.

Palmarosa Oil : India ranks first among nations producing Palmarosa oil, and is the chief supplier of this important raw material for perfumery manufacture, earning foreign exchange worth Rs. 3 million annually by way of its export alone.

To ensure quality control, Government has established a special laboratory at Bombay for AGMARK grading and has banned the export of ungraded Palmarosa oil.

Pine Oil : The first pine oil factory in the country has been started at Hoshiarpur in the Punjab. It produces pine oil, dipentine and pine tar. This factory is claimed to have resulted in the saving of foreign exchange to the tune of Rs. 3 to 4 million annually.

RESEARCH

The Central Government has sanctioned Rs. 15 million for the all-India co-ordinated research project on oilseeds during the Fourth Plan period ; to be conducted under the Indian Council of Agricultural Research. It will cover all important oilseeds crops like groundnut, castor, sesamum, rapeseed, mustard, and linseed.

The technical programme of the project is to include work on breeding and genetics, establishment of germ plasma banks, research in disease and insect resistance etc.

The centres for conducting the research for different oilseeds are as follows :

Groundnut : The main centres are at Ludhiana in Punjab for northern region, Tindivanam in Tamil Nadu for south-eastern region, and Rajendranagar in Andhra Pradesh for southern region. The sub-centres are located at Mainpuri, Uttar Pradesh ; Pollachi, Tamil Nadu ; Kadria and Sambalpur in Madhya Pradesh, and Raichur and Dharwar in Mysore.

Castor : Rajendranagar in Andhra Pradesh, is the main centre and Salem, Tamil Nadu, and Raichur, Mysore, are the sub-centres.

Sesamum : The main centres are at Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu for southern region ; Jubbalpur, Madhya Pradesh for central region and Sumerpur, Rajasthan for northern region. The sub-centres are at Karimnagar and Visakhapatnam in Andhra Pradesh ; Bhubaneshwar, Orissa ; Urmala, Maharashtra, and Jhansi, Madhya Pradesh.

Linseed : Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh is the main centre and Patna, Bihar, and Jhansi and Jabalpur in Madhya Pradesh are the sub-centres.

Rapeseed and Mustard : The main centres are at Berhampore, West Bengal ; Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh and Hissar, Haryana. The sub-centres are at Purnea, Bihar, Pantnagar, Uttar Pradesh and Gurgaon, Haryana.

FOURTH FIVE YEAR PLAN

The estimated demand for oilseeds by the end of the Fourth Plan is 12·1 million tonnes. A growth rate of four per cent compound per annum is called for to achieve the target.

VANASPATI

In 1930 there were only two units manufacturing 330 tonnes of vanaspati. In 1972 there were 77 units.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The State-wise break-up of the industry is as follows : Maharashtra 12 ; Gujarat 10 ; Andhra Pradesh 6 ; Uttar Pradesh 10 ; West Bengal 6 ; Mysore 5 ; Rajasthan 5 ; Delhi 2 ; Punjab 7 ; Tamil Nadu 5 ; Madhya Pradesh 2 ; Bihar 1 ; Haryana 4 and Kerala 2.

New Units : Anticipating a shortage in the near future 22 more licences with a total additional capacity of 830 tonnes per day were issued in December 1971. However, the Central Government has stopped further licensing of vanaspati units since February 1973.

Anticipating a shortage in the near future 17 more licences with a total additional capacity of 705 tonnes per day have been issued in December 1971. All proposed units are to be located in northern India.

Public Sector : Government Hydrogenation Factory at Kozhikode, Kerala, is the only factory in the public sector. It has an installed capacity of 3,000 tonnes per annum.

No. of Persons Employed : Between 25,000 and 30,000 employed directly and about 60,000 indirectly.

	Installed capacity	Production	Consumption
1970 ..	1,100	521	518
1972 ..	1,803	602	602

The production was expected to reach 570,000 tonnes in 1971 against the licensed capacity of 1·6 million tonnes and installed capacity of one million tonnes with an increase in the number of units from 63 to 76.

EXPORTS

In 1971 the government announced an export incentive which is expected to boost Vanaspati exports from the present 500 tonnes.

GENERAL

Prices : Under the Vegetable Oil Products Control Order of 1947 the price of Vanaspati is fixed seperately in the four geographical zones. For the sake of stability the prices are reviewed only about once every two months unless there has been a drastic change in the price of raw oil which alone constitutes 80 per cent of the cost of production. The industry has arrived at an average working cost requirement of Rs. 760 per tonne.

Soyabean oil had to be imported over the last few years to meet the requirements of the industry. However, adequate production of edible oils in 1971 will substantially reduce dependence on imports.

RUBBER INDUSTRY

Rubber is obtained from the milky juice or latex of various plants of the tropics. Of the numerous plants yielding rubber only a few like castila, manihoglaziovii ficus elastica, parthenium argentatum and hevea brasiliensis are of commercial importance. Of these hevea brasiliensis (known as para rubber tree) accounts for 90 to 95 per cent of the world production of natural rubber.

BRIEF HISTORY

Columbus is credited with the discovery of rubber during his second voyage to America towards the end of the fifteenth century. He reported the existence of a gum which was used by the natives of America as balls for games. An Englishman used the term 'rubber' in 1770 when he found that the substance could be used for removing pencil marks. With the discovery of the process known as vulcanisation in 1839 by Goodyear, rubber came to be commercially used.

In India rubber was first planted in Travancore and Malabar in the early eighties of the last century. Plantation on a commercial scale commenced in 1902.

During the first three decades of the present century there was little domestic utilisation of indigenous rubber and the bulk of raw rubber produced had to be exported, till the big overseas manufacturers of rubber footwear, tyres and tubes set up factories in the late thirties. With the outbreak of the Second World War a number of small factories manufacturing other rubber goods also came up and the area under rubber plantation too was increased considerably.

No. of Persons Employed : About 60,000 in the rubber goods manufacturing industry.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The rubber plantation industry is concentrated mainly in Kerala which accounts for more than 93 per cent of the total area under rubber, the Kanyakumari district in Tamil Nadu for a little over 4 per cent and there is a small area of 3,160 hectares in Mysore. Planting has recently been extended to the Andamans.

India and Brazil are the only countries in the world producing both natural and synthetic rubber and consuming the entire production.

Per Capita Consumption : The per capita consumption of rubber (natural and synthetic) in India is one of the lowest in the world. In 1972, the estimated per capita consumption in U.S.A. was 13·8 kgs., followed by Canada (10·1 kgs.), West Germany (9·2 kgs.), France (8·7 kgs.) and U.K. (8·6 kgs.). India has been at the bottom with a per capita consumption of only 0·24 kg., though compared with 1954 (when the per capita consumption was only a bare 0·07 kg.), consumption of rubber has risen by more than 200 per cent.

There are about 100 large and medium scale factories and about 700 small-scale units manufacturing various other rubber goods including the ones mentioned in the table above.

EXPORTS

There has been a continuous increase in the exports of rubber goods in recent years. Exports of automobile tyres and tubes rose from Rs. 33 million in 1968-69 to Rs. 41 million in 1969-70 and it touched Rs. 55 million against a target of Rs. 60 million in 1970–71. In 1971–72 the exports have been of Rs. 66·8 million and the target set for 1972–73 is of Rs. 85·8 million.

Exports of other rubber goods after declining from Rs. 40 million in 1968–69 to Rs. 38 million in 1969–70, went up to Rs. 41·5 million in 1970–71, and to Rs. 43·5 in 1971–72. The target set for 1972–73 is of Rs. 46·2 million.

In July 1971, the Government discontinued the issue of licences for the import of rubber in view of the record internal production and accumulation of stocks with the growers. The import of special-purpose rubber is done through the State Trading Corporation.

Synthetic Rubber : Only Synthetics & Chemicals Ltd. at Bareilly, Uttar Pradesh produce synthetic rubber in the country. Built with an initial rated capacity of 30,000 tonnes per annum, it started production in 1963 with a modest output of 8,511 tonnes. It increased to 30,337 tonnes in 1970 which is slightly in excess of the installed capacity. It is now seeking permission to increase its installed capacity to 50,000 tonnes.

The consumption of synthetic rubber at present is about 26 per cent of the total rubber consumption and the tyre industry uses about 55 per cent of the total synthetic rubber output.

GENERAL

In India the average yield per hectare is 851 kgs. in the case of large plantation holdings and 435 kgs. on small holdings. This works out to an aggregate average yield per hectare in 1969-70 to 618 kgs. which is among the poorest in the world. In Malaysia the average yield is around 950 kgs. per hectare.

Special concessions are made to growers whose holdings are less than six hectares. Subsidised fertilisers, exemption from labour laws and from certain taxes are some of them.

In order to stabilise the rubber prices and to ensure that the grower gets the Government-notified price, the State Trading Corporation has entered into the field of rubber purchase and buys mainly from the small growers.

Rubber Board : Situated at Kottayam 686009, Kerala, it is made up of the representatives of the industry and the Government and it assists the industry in its problems and decides major issues pertaining to it.

Research : Central Rubber Research Farm at Chethackal near Kottayam in Kerala conducts research in all the complex facets of rubber production from planting to the processing stages.

There is one research centre in Bombay set up by the Indian Rubber Manufacturers Research Association at B/88 Wagle Estate, Thana, 400604.

Training : Institute of Technology at Kharagpur, West Bengal and University of Cochin, Kerala conduct courses in rubber technology.

Institution of the Rubber Industries at Delhi, Madras, Bombay and Calcutta (H.Q. Lesley House, 19 J. Nehru Road, Calcutta 700013) conduct lectures for the diploma awarded by the London Institution of the Rubber Industries, England.

The Central Government has sanctioned the setting up of a factory in Bihar, for the production of automobile tyres and tubes at an estimated cost of Rs. 100 million.

Demands : The current demand for synthetic rubber is 28,000 tonnes which is likely to go up to 54,000 tonnes by 1973-74 against a total demand for natural and synthetic rubber of 179,000 tonnes. It is assessed that the total demand for rubber at about 188,000 tonnes in 1974 and a production of 135,000 tonnes of natural rubber and 33,000 tonnes of synthetic rubber, there will still be a gap of about 20,000 tonnes, which will increase to about 117,600 tonnes by 1983.

Nearly 11 million tyres would be required at the end of the present decade i.e. average requirements will go up by 10 per cent. The total capacity of the existing tyre units would not exceed 6·72 million tyres. Fifteen other companies have been licensed to manufacture tyres and tubes. The total production would therefore come up to 11·16 million pieces.

SILK INDUSTRY

Sericulture in India falls into two distinct sectors (1) mulberry and (2) non-mulberry. Mulberry silk industry is better organised and accounts for nearly two-thirds of the total natural silk production in the country. The non-mulberry sector comprises of tasar, eri and muga silk. India is thus, the only country in the World which produces all the four commercially known varieties of natural silk viz., mulberry silk, tasar silk, eri silk and muga silk. India holds world monopoly in the production of muga silk — the rare golden yellow silk of Assam. It is the second biggest producer of tasar silk in the world next only to the Peoples' Republic of China.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Although it is spread over in all the States it is concentrated mostly in few of them.

Andhra Pradesh: Three varieties of silk viz., mulberry, tasar and eri are produced. Mulberry is confined to Anantapur and Chittoor districts, eri culture to Mahbubnagar and Kurnool while tasar to the forest regions along the banks of the river Godavari in Karimnagar, Warangal and Adilabad districts. About 13,000 persons are employed by the industry in the State.

Assam: The State produces muga, eri and mulberry raw silk mostly in Goalpara, Kamrup and Nowgong districts. Sibsagar is prominent for mulberry production. It is estimated that about 350,000 people derive their livelihood from silk cultivation.

Due to the formation of an autonomous State, Meghalaya, most of the sericultural centres were bifurcated.

Bihar : Bihar is the second largest producer of tasar silk at present accounting for nearly 35 to 40 per cent of local production.

The industry is based in the districts of Hazaribagh, Ranchi, Singhbhum, Manbhum, Palamau, and Santhal Parganas. About 120,000 people derive their livelihood from silk cultivation.

Jammu & Kashmir: The univoltine silk industry is mainly located in Anantnag, Baramulla, Doda, Jammu, Reasi and Udhampur districts. It provides employment to about 380,500 persons.

Madhya Pradesh : Is the single largest producer of tasar silk in the country. It is largely based in the districts of Balaghat, Bastar, Bilaspur, Raigarh, and Surguja. Mulberry is also cultivated to a small extent in Surguja, Chindwara, Indore, and Sehore districts. The industry provides subsidiary occupation to nearly 39,000 families belonging to backward classes in the State.

Maharashtra : In Bhandara and Chandrapur districts in Vidarbha region have traditional tasar culture and there is one tasar farm at Armori ; the State has also taken up eri cultivation on experimental basis. 3,000 families are estimated to be employed by the industry.

Mysore : It is the biggest polyvoltine mulberry silk producing State in India contributing over three-fourths of the total production. The industry is concentrated in the districts of Bangalore, Kolar, Mandya, Mysore and Tumkur and to a small extent in Belgaum and Coorg. About 2 million persons derive livelihood from silk cultivation.

Orissa: Tasar and eri silk industry is concentrated in Mayurbhanj and Keonghar districts where about 10,000 people are employed.

Punjab : Sericulture is practised mainly in the districts of Amritsar, Gurdaspur, Hoshiarpur and to some extent in Ferozepur.

Tamil Nadu: The sericultural industry is confined to the districts of Coimbatore, Nilgiris, Salem, Tirunelveli and Dharampuri. It provides employment to about 63,000 people.

Uttar Pradesh : Mulberry silk industry is practised in six districts of Dehra Dun, Etawah, Garhwal, Gorakhpur, Nainital and Saharanpur. Ericulture is carried on in two districts of Rampur and Deoria and tasar culture is found in Mirzapur district. About 2,300 persons are employed by the industry.

West Bengal : Is the second largest mulberry silk producing State in the country, accounting for over 20 per cent of the country's total output. Tasar and eri silk industry is also practised in the State. Mulberry culture is practised in the districts of Bankura, Birbhum, Darjeeling, Malda and Murshidabad. It is estimated the 400,000 persons are employed by the industry.

Himachal Pradesh : Rears univoltine mulberry silkworms in Kangra district. The other regions where sericulture is practised are Sirmur and Mandi districts. 2,000 families are estimated to earn their livelihood through the industry.

Manipur: Has both mulberry and eri silk cultivation and potential for muga and tasar culture. About 3,000 persons are employed by the industry.

Tripura : Sericulture has been recently introduced. Some 2,650 persons have taken up silk cultivation as source of their livelihood

No. of Persons Employed : Sericulture is a typical agro industry providing gainful subsidiary employment to more than 3·2 million people all over India.

It is expected that during the Fourth Plan this industry would provide additional employment opportunities to 400,000 people.

Capital Investment : The following table indicates the outlays in 1969-70, 1970-71 and 1971-72.

Ranking in the World Market : With a production of 2,046 tonnes of mulberry silk and 554 tonnes of wild silk in 1971-72 India continued to rank fourth among the silk producing countries of the world accounting for slightly over 5 per cent of the world production. However, India is the only country in the world where the fabulously famed golden "Muga Silk" is raised.

SPUN SILK INDUSTRY

Apart from the production of raw silk, India also produces silkwaste — by-product of reeling sector, which constitutes the basic raw material for the spun silk industry. The total production of silkwaste during 1971 was 848,000 kgs. mulberry and 248,000 kgs. non-mulberry.

There are two spun silk mills, located at Channapatna in Mysore and Jagi Road in Assam, having installed spindleage of 7,500 and 3,000 respectively.

A third spun silk mill is under installation at Bhagalpur which, when completed, would have 3,000 spindles.

The two public sector spun silk mills consume about one-third of country's total silkwaste production. On an average about two-thirds of the country's output of silkwaste is exported annually.

Tariff Protection : Sericulture industry has been under tariff protection since 1934. The Government of India has accepted the recommendation of the Tariff Commission in 1969 to extend the period of protection upto December 31, 1974. The current rate of protective duty on raw silk is 30 per cent ad valorem plus 2½ per cent additional duty.

EXPORTS

In 1969 and 1970 the Indian silk industry exhibited excellent export performance. Following are the figures in million rupees for the last three years. 1969 — 148·148 ; 1970 — 142·317 ; 1971 — 75·498.

IMPORTS

Between 1955 and 1964, Central Silk Board was importing raw silk on behalf of the State Trading Corporation and distributing it to actual users and exporters. However, this item was decanalised in July 1964. Under the import trade control policy for the year 1970–71 import of raw silk has been canalised through the Board with effect from 1–4–1970.

Imports of Raw Silk over the last three years (in million Rs.) : 1969 — 6·77 ; 1970 — 4·83 ; 1971 — 3·93.

GENERAL

A new silk worm seed of bivoltine race which will revolutionise silk production has been developed at the Central Sericulture Research Institute, Mysore. The cocoon from this seed will have a filament length of nearly 900 metres.

The normal length of filament in the State was about 500 metres as the Mysore race was multivoltine with poor quality. For a kg. of silk, as much as 14 to 20 kgs. of cocoons were necessary now against five kgs. of cocoons yielding one kg. of silk in Japan.

Central Silk Board : In 1945, the Silk Panel, appointed by the Government of India to advise on the development of sericulture, recommended the construction of Central Silk Board. Accordingly the Central Silk Board Act, 1948 (Act. LXI of 1948) was enacted and the Board was set up in April 1949.

The Headquarters of the Board are located in Bombay. The Board has set up 4 Liaison Offices in the different regions for purposes of ensuring close co-ordination of Central and State efforts to develop the sericulture industry. The location of these offices are — Head Office : Central Silk Board, 'Meghdoot', 95-B, Marine Drive, Bombay-400002. Tele. Add. : ' SILKBOARD', BOMBAY.

FOURTH FIVE-YEAR PLAN

The following table shows production of silk in 1969 and the expected increase at the end of the Fourth Plan.

(In tonnes)

Variety	1969	At the end of IV Plan 1974
(a) Mulberry silk	1,758	2,300
(b) Non-mulberry silk
(i) Tasar (Antheraea mylitta)	252	350
(ii) Eri (Attacus ricini) ..	216	250
(iii) Muga (Antheraea assamensis)	72	100
Total	2,298	3,000

The current Plan seeks to attain self-sufficiency in raw silk through increased productivity rather than through expansion of area under food plants. The expansion of the industry is likely to open new employment avenues for another 0·4 million people.

A sample survey recently undertaken in Mysore State has revealed that production of raw silk in the rain-fed areas could be increased 5-fold by providing irrigational facilities. Accordingly, a Rs. 1,020 million scheme is being separately thrashed out.

The total target for exports of silk fabrics during the entire Fourth Plan period (1969 to 1974) has been fixed at Rs. 585 million.

SPICES

INDIA has always been the traditional home of spices and has throughout history been associated with their trade. It was for spices that men from strange lands came to the shores of India and bartered, their wares. Since then, spices figure in the country's exports.

Indian spices are of the finest quality and today the demand for them has considerably increased in all countries.

PEPPER

Pepper, known as the "King of Spices", is the most important foreign exchange earner among the spice crops. The Indian black pepper is considered to be superior in quality by the importing countries and fetches a better price than other varieties of black pepper.

Pepper production in the country accounts for 25 to 30 per cent of the total world production of about 100,000 tonnes; from the point of view of international trade, more than 80 per cent of the country's produce is exported.

The State-wise break-up of area and production for the year 1971-72 are given below.

State	Area ('000 hectares)	Production ('000 tonnes)
Kerala	116·34	25·10
Tamil Nadu	0·23	0·05
Others	0·03	0·01

Export of pepper during 1971-72 totalled 19,247 tonnes valued at Rs. 148·25 million.

Per hectare yield of pepper is about 220 kgs. The internal consumption of pepper in 1970-71 was 8,190 tonnes.

CARDAMOM

Cardamom, known as the "Queen of Spices", is another most valued spice. Among spices it earns the second highest amount of foreign exchange. India is the dominant supplier of cardamom to the world market, accounting for about 90 per cent of the world output.

The state-wise break-up of area and production for the year 1970–71 are given below. However, in 1971–72 the area increased to 77,400 hectares and production to 3,500 tonnes.

Tamil Nadu	4·88	0·50
Total ..	75·48	3·10

Exports of cardamom during 1970–71 amounted to 1,765 tonnes valued at Rs. 113·35 million and in 1971–72 to 2,225 tonnes valued at Rs. 81·97 million.

Per hectare yield of cardamom is about 41 kgs.

GINGER

India is the leading ginger producing country and accounts for about 50 per cent of dry ginger output in the world. Indian ginger has always found ready demand in foreign countries despite stiff competition from Jamaica, Sierra Leone and Nigeria.

Area and Production of Ginger during 1971-72.

By exporting 6,746 tonnes of ginger, India earned foreign exchange worth Rs. 27·53 million during 1971-72.

Per hectare yield of ginger is about 1,328 kgs. The internal consumption of ginger in 1970-71 was 25,450 tonnes which included the imports of 156 tonnes.

CHILLIES

The cultivation of chillies is widely scattered throughout the country. Its annual consumption varies from region to region, ranging from about 3·5 kgs. per adult in Andhra Pradesh to around 5 kgs. per adult in Maharashtra. In Punjab, Bihar, U.P. and Orissa consumption is lower. The state-wise break-up of area and production is shown in the following table for the year 1971-72.

State	Area ('000 hectares)	Production ('000 tonnes)
Andhra Pradesh	191·6	94·5

Uttar Pradesh	19·3	5·3
West Bengal	8·5	7·4
Total	733·8	439·3

Through exports of 4,510 tonnes of chillies the country earned foreign exchange worth Rs. 19·22 million during 1971–72.

Per hectare yield of chillies is about 580 kgs. The internal consumption of chillies in 1970–71 was 411,229 tonnes including the imports of 2 tonnes.

TURMERIC

The major turmeric growing States in India are Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Bihar, Tamil Nadu and Orissa. The state-wise break-up of area and production of turmeric during 1971-72 is given in the table below:

Andhra Pradesh	21·6	47·0
Assam	4·7	2·8
Bihar	8·5	15·2

Orissa	13·2	13·0
Tamil Nadu	10·6	39·8
West Bengal	1·2	3·3
Others	1·9	2·1
Total	79·3	143·9

Turmeric has outclassed chillies in the spices trade by becoming the third largest foreign exchange earner.

The exports of turmeric during 1971-72 amounted to 14,172 tonnes and fetched Rs. 29·04 million by way of foreign exchange.

Per hectare yield of turmeric is about 1,915 kgs. The internal consumption of turmeric in 1970-71 was 133,097 tonnes which included the imports of 6 tonnes.

Other items of spices which are exported from India are coriander seed, celery seed, fenugreek, ani seed, cassia, cumin, curry powder, fennel seed, garlic and bay leaf.

EXPORTS

Even though spices are regarded as indispensable in everyday life, their contribution to India's foreign trade as also to the total world trade is negligible. But from the point of view of India spices exports have more than doubled from Rs. 166 million in 1960-61 to Rs. 361·75 million in 1971-72.

Spices Export Promotion Council, World Trade Centre, Ernakulam, Cochin-682016, Kerala.

IMPORTS

Spices worth Rs. 8·75 million were imported into India during 1971–72 as against Rs. 4·73 million during 1970–71.

GENERAL

Grading of spice commodities according to Agmark specifications has been made compulsory under the Sea Customs Act for export trade.

Regulated Markets: With a view to preventing exploitation of producers and getting better prices for their produce, regulated markets have been established in many of the important assembling centres. About 829 regulated markets were functioning in the different states at the close of the year 1970-71.

Research : The Indian Council of Agricultural Research decided in April 1971 to establish a National Spices Research Centre at Chathamangalam near Calicut, Kerala. A sum of Rs. 5 million has been provided for its establishment.

Development: The Central Government has constituted an Indian Spices Development Council consisting of Government officials and non-officials representing the growers and the traders. It reviews the work of development already in progress and recommends further development programmes. These programmes are implemented through the Directorate of Arecanut & Spices Development functioning at 1/500, Cannanore Road, Calicut 673001, Kerala.

FOURTH FIVE YEAR PLAN

Adoption of intensive cultivation practices such as proper manuring, plant protection, irrigation etc., increase in area and adoption of high yielding improved varieties of seed material are some of the measures proposed for the development of spices. These measures would achieve an additional production of 14,000 tonnes of pepper, 5,000 tonnes of ginger and 15,000 tonnes of turmeric by the end of the Fourth Five Year Plan period (1969–74). For the development of tree spices (clove, nutmeg and cinnamon) in which the country is not self-sufficient schemes for production and distribution of seedlings have been proposed with a view to increase the area under these crops. A programme for production of nutmeg grafts, which are early bearers, has also been envisaged during the Fourth Plan period.

SUGAR INDUSTRY

SUGAR manufacture in India got a spurt after the Government granted it protection in 1932. From dependence on imports the country became self-sufficient within four years thereafter.

In 1931-32 there were an estimated 32 working units. By 1935-36 the number rose to 130. The volume of sugar production which was 162,000 tonnes in 1931-32 increased to 947,000 tonnes by 1935-36.

During all the Plan periods the industry exceeded the targets fixed. There was a seasonal setback, however, in 1966-67 when production dropped sharply because large tracts of cane had withered in the drought conditions that hit most sugar producing States.

The Government had introduced partial decontrol of sugar in 1967-68.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Area under sugarcane cultivation in major producing states in 1971-72 is as follows : (in '000 hectares) Andhra Pradesh : 125·5 ; Bihar : 141·9 ; Haryana : 114·0 ; Maharashtra : 181·8 ; Mysore 106·8 ; Punjab : 104·0 ; Tamil Nadu : 120·7 ; Uttar Pradesh : 1,274·1 ; Total All India : 2,418·0.

State-wise break-up of the sugar factories in 1971-72 given in brackets :

Andhra Pradesh (18) ; Assam (1) ; Bihar (25) ; Gujarat (7) ; Haryana (3) ; Kerala (3) ; Madhya Pradesh (5) ; Maharashtra (42) ; Mysore (13) ; Orissa (2) ; Pondicherry (1) ; Punjab (6) ; Rajasthan (3) ; Tamil Nadu (16) ; Uttar Pradesh (73) ; West Bengal (1) ; Total (219).

The installed capacity in 1971-72 season was 3·95 million tonnes.

Public Sector : Up to the end of 1970 there were no factories in the public sector. The Government of Uttar Pradesh had been considering the nationalisation of the Industry in that State but no further action had been taken in the matter till the end of 1971. The U.P. Vidhan Sabha had on August 16, 1971, passed the Sugar Undertakings Acquisition Bill under which the State government acquired 12 "sick" mills.

No. of Persons Employed : The Industry employs about 235,000 workers and about 25 million agriculturists are connected with it. The annual wage bill works out to Rs. 450 million.

Capital Investment : A total of about Rs. 600 million is invested in this industry.

Comparative figures of production and consumption of sugar for the last three years are :

(In million tonnes)

Production	4·26	3·74	3·10

* Estimated.

There was a marginal fall in sugar production from 4·26 million tonnes in 1969-70 to 3·77 million tonnes in 1970-71 and 3·10 million tonnes in 1971-72 because of drought and flood conditions and also partly due to decline in cane average in many sugar producing States.

State-wise Production : Of sugar for the year 1970-71 and estimates for 1971-72 is as follows : (figures in tonnes).

EXPORTS

India first entered the world market as an exporter in 1957. Since then the industry has become a major foreign exchange earner. In the year 1970-71 Government decided to export the full quota of 325,000 tonnes under the International Sugar Agreement and NPC quota.

The figures for exports over the last four years are as follows :

1967-68 : 125,000 tonnes; 1968-69 : 84,000 tonnes; 1969-70 : 212,000 tonnes and 1970-71 : 325,000 tonnes.

GENERAL

On 25th May, 1971 Government decontrolled movement of sugar and fixed its price. However, a partial control was reimposed with effect from 1st July, 1972.

The volume of sugar production in 1971-72 season in the country is of the order of Rs. 5,500 million. The cane growers alone received from the Sugar Industry more than Rs. 3,800 million during that season. Its contribution to the exchequers of both the Central and State Governments in the shape of excise duty, cane cess, income tax, surtax etc. is about Rs. 2,000 million.

Training : The Sugar Industry gives practical training facilities to students of sugar technology and also trains a number of apprentices, as required under the Apprentices Act.

National Sugar Institute : at Grand Trunk Road, Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh conducts courses in sugar technology, besides many other agricultural universities which have this as a subsidiary subject.

Research : It is done at the Sugar-cane Research Institute at Anakapalle, Andhra Pradesh and at the Institute of Sugar-cane Research, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh.

National Federation of Co-operative Sugar Factories Ltd. L-8, South Extension Part II, New Delhi 110049 was set up in December 1960, with the object of co-ordinating and facilitating the working of co-operative sugar factories, State and zonal federations and to assist in the promotion of new co-operative sugar factories.

So far, licences/letters of intent have been issued for establishment of 126 co-operative sugar factories. Of these 80 sugar factories are in operation. Others are in various stages of establishment. In the year 1970-71, the co-operative sugar factories produced 1·26 million tonnes of sugar which was nearly 34 per cent of the total production in the country in that year. The co-operative sector was also the major producer and supplier of raw sugar for export in 1970-71. In the total export of sugar (raw & white) the co-operative sector's contribution was nearly 64 per cent of the quantity exported.

FOURTH-FIVE YEAR PLAN

For the Fourth Plan the Government has set up a sugar production target of 5·20 million tonnes and licenses have already been issued for 5·30 million tonnes capacity.

TEA INDUSTRY

CHINA is believed to be the original home of the tea plant where it was first introduced as a medicine and the infusion taken to cure diseases.

In 1823 the tea plant was discovered growing wild in Assam. It was then that China lost its monopoly of tea trade. The East India Company entered the trade with the first shipment of eight chests of Assam tea which were sold in London in May, 1834.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The two main tea-growing regions in India are North-East India and South India the break up of which is given below:

EXPORTS

Tea is the second largest foreign exchange earner of the country. India exports tea to over twenty different countries of the world of which United Kingdom buys almost half of the total exports. U.S.S.R., U.A.R., and Afghanistan are some of the other big buyers of Indian tea.

Auction Centres: Indian tea is sold through auction centres at Calcutta and Cochin, which are also the major ports for export of tea where nearly 160 m. kgs. and 60 m. kgs. of tea respectively is sold annually. Tea is sold at these two auctions under competitive conditions and buyers from all countries of the world participate either directly or through their agents.

A new auction centre was started at Gauhati, Assam, from September, 1970.

About 70 to 75 m. kgs. of Indian tea is sold through the London auction centre, major portion of which is meant for consumption in the U. K.

The Central Government earns about Rs. 320 million annually on tea through the customs and central excise.

Instant Tea: The production of instant tea in India is from green leaf rather than from manufactured black tea, as is the practice in the U.S.A. It is manufactured in India by Tata Finlay Ltd. and Food Specialities Ltd. exclusively for exports.

Research : The Toklai Experimental station in Assam is the major source of technical know-how on tea culture and manufacture and it is considered to be one of the largest research establishments in the world dedicated entirely to tea. The United Planters' Association of Southern India (address : Coonoor, Tamil Nadu) has its own tea experimental station in Nilgiri Hills. Facilities for tea research in south India are at the Central Laboratory and Field Station in the Anamallis and a sub-station in Kerala. The scientific problems of the tea industry in the Kangra Valley are looked into by a Tea Experimental Farm located at Palampur. All these tea research establishments in India receive substantial financial assistance from the Government through the Tea Board of India (address : 14, Brabourne Road, Calcutta-700001) which also maintains a close liaison with these institutions. The Tea Board also sponsors and finances independent research projects at different Universities and technical institutions to supplement the work of the various tea research establishment in the country.

TOBACCO INDUSTRY

ALTHOUGH the official and accepted history of the development of tobacco on any appreciable scale in this country dates back to the advent of the Portuguese here in the beginning of the 17th century, the very large number of references to tobacco in the Puranic tales and references to the preparation of certain medicines according to the Ayurvedic system show that tobacco was known to India from time immemorial.

The black porous soil in certain parts of east India, throughout the Coromandel coast, particularly Guntur and East and West Godavari districts of Andhra are considered to be favourable to the growth of quality grades of tobacco. Appreciating the agricultural excellence of this country, the Portuguese and the British organised the cultivation of this golden commercial crop.

The table below gives the area under tobacco cultivation in the important tobacco growing States for the last three years.

The main tobacco industries are cigarette, bidi, cigar and cheroot manufacture. The present total number of cigarette factories in the private sector is 13, of which 6 are in Maharashtra, 2 each in West Bengal and Uttar Pradesh and 1 each in Mysore, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu. Recently letters of intent have been issued to set up 6 new cigarette factories. The cigar industry is concentrated in Tamil Nadu. The cheroot factories are, however, spread out all over India. The production of bidis is a cottage industry on a country-wide basis.

There are about 19 zerda manufacturing factories (chewing tobacco) and 3 snuff factories in the country situated mostly in Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh.

Public Sector : The State Industrial Development Corporations of Assam, Haryana, Jammu and Kashmir, Kerala and Tamil Nadu have each been issued a letter of intent to set up a cigarette manufacturing unit. Each unit will have a capacity of 4,500 million cigarettes annually, except the unit in Assam which will have a capacity to produce 3,000 million pieces per year. An application from the Madhya Pradesh Industrial Development Corporation is reported to be under consideration.

No. of Persons Employed : It is estimated that about 700,000 growers and 500,000 curers are engaged in tobacco cultivation. In the manufacturing sector, the total number of persons employed is estimated at 3 million of which, 2 million are in the bidi industry. About 14,000 are employed in the cigarette industry.

Ranking in the World Market : India is the third most important tobacco producing country next only to U.S.A. and Mainland China and accounts for about 8 per cent of the total world tobacco production.

Following is the estimated area in thousand hectares and production in million kgs. respectively, of tobacco producing countries of the world for the year 1971.

Nearly 80 per cent of the tobacco produced is locally consumed and the rest is exported.

Per Capita Consumption: The total monthly consumption of cigarettes is estimated at approximately 5,306·5 million pieces. Yet the per capita consumption rate per month in India is about 10, as against 217 in US., 176 in UK, 170 in Japan, 168 in Singapore, 70 in Malaysia 24 in Pakistan, 20 in Ceylon and 13 in Nepal.

Consumption of cigarettes in India is expected to reach 85,000 million by 1974. In 1971 it was estimated the number of smokers in India was 20 million.

Tobacco in Each Cigarette: A regular ordinary cigarette of 7 m.m. length contains 1·05 gm. to 1·12 gm. of tobacco.

EXPORTS

India is the fourth biggest exporter of tobacco in the world next only to U.S.A., Turkey and Greece. Tobacco is one of the important cash crops of the country and ranks ninth in India's export trade.

Indian tobacco, mostly unmanufactured, is exported to over 60 countries of them U.K. and U.S.S.R. are the biggest buyers.

Export Duty: With the devaluation of rupee in June, 1966, an export duty of 75 paise per kg. or 20 per cent ad valorem which ever is lower was levied on unmanufactured tobacco.

Export Incentive: Incentives for exports of tobacco and tobacco products are provided by way of import entitlements/replenishments. The registered exporters get import replenishments against which they are allowed to import certain permitted items like equipment for tobacco processing, manufacturing, packing operations and also essential oils used for tobacco manufacture. In addition cigar exporters are allowed to import cigar wrapper and filler tobacco.

Export Promotion Council: The main objective of the Tobacco Export Promotion Council (a Government agency), situated at 123, Mount Road, Madras 600006, is to support, protect, maintain and promote exports of unmanufactured and manufactured tobacco.

Statutory grades for all the varieties of unmanufactured tobacco entering the export trade have been prescribed by the Government for strict quality control.

IMPORTS

The quantity and value of tobacco (manufactured, unmanufactured and cigarettes) imported into India during the past four years are given in the table below:

Year	Quantity (in thousand Kg.)	Value (Rupees in Million)
1968-69	336	4·53

GENERAL

The nicotine content in virginia flue-cured tobacco grown in India ranges between 0·6 per cent to 3 per cent. Nicotine content is lower in Virginia tobacco grown in light soil areas and high in tobacco grown in heavy black soil.

Tobacco is an excisable commodity and its movements, processing and manufacture from the stage of harvesting till it is consumed or exported are controlled by the Central Board of Excise and Customs of the Ministry of Finance.

Different rates of duties are levied for different types and modes of consumption. The excise revenue collected during 1970-71 was Rs. 2,284 million. Customs duties totalled about Rs. 35 million.

Research: Research programmes on tobacco are implemented by the Indian Council of Agricultural Research. The Council has initiated an All India Coordinated Research Project on tobacco with its headquarters at Anand (Gujarat) with a view to conduct research for all round improvement of Indian tobacco. The Central Tobacco Research Institute at Rajahmundry in Andhra Pradesh is mainly devoted to the investigation of fundamental problems connected with various aspects of tobacco. It also coordinates the work of other tobacco experimental farms and research stations (listed below), spread all over the country, which are carrying out research on different types of tobacco grown in the concerned regions.

1. Cigarette Tobacco Research Substation, Guntur, Andhra Pradesh.
2. Tobacco Research Station, Hunsur, Mysore.
3. Cigar & Cheroot Tobacco Research Station, Vedasandur, Tamil Nadu.
4. Hookah and Chewing Tobacco Research Station, Pusa, Bihar.
5. Hookah Tobacco Research Station, Ferozpur, Punjab.
6. Wrapper and Hookah Tobacco Research Station, Dinhata, West Bengal.
7. Bidi Tobacco Research Scheme, Anand, Gujarat.
8. Bidi Tobacco Research Station, Nipani, Mysore.

A well organised extension service operates in the tobacco growing areas under the control of Agricultural Departments of the State Governments for educating and training the farmers in the improved methods of harvesting, handling and curing of tobacco.

The Indian Tobacco Development Council of the Government, formulates the tobacco development programmes, reviews the progress and considers the problems of marketing, trade and price policy.

The Tambaku Vikas Nideshalaya (Directorate of Tobacco Development) in the Ministry of Agriculture, with its headquarters at 3-A, Eldams Road, Teynampet, Madras 600018, implements the development schemes, channels Government finances and also looks after the marketing activities.

The average Per Hectare Yield of tobacco in India during the last few years is given in the table below:—

Year	All tobacco HA/KG	Virginia tobacco
1967-68	871	729
1969-70	779	607

According to the information compiled by the Tobacco Research Station, the cost of cultivation of V.F.C. tobacco which is the main exportable variety, is estimated to range between Rs. 1,750 to Rs. 1,875 per hectare which does not include cost on account of land rent, depreciation, interest on capital etc.

FOURTH FIVE YEAR PLAN

Under the Fourth Plan, the production target for tobacco has been fixed at 450 million kgs. for 1973-74 as against the base level production 350 million kgs. in 1968-69. The taget includes a production level of 168 million kgs. of Virginia tobacco. Under the Plan, a Centrally Sponsored Scheme for exportable types of tobacco has been sanctioned by the Government. The scheme aims at extension of cultivation of virginia flue-cured tobacco in new light soil areas. As against the Plan target of 28,000 hectares, an area of 22,300 hectares was already covered by 1971-72.

A sum of Rs. 2·5 million has been set apart for coordinated research on tobacco during the Fourth Plan.

SUBJECTS OF STUDY

(Derived with permission from 'Directory to Subjects of Study at Indian Universities' published in the annual Commonwealth Universities Yearbook by the Association of Commonwealth Universities, London and University Grants Commission, New Delhi.)

This directory contains a list of selected subjects which may be studied at universities in India, some in the departments or constituent colleges of universities themselves, some in colleges affiliated to universities, and others in both. The list is not exhaustive but it does cover most of the main subjects in which facilities for study or research are available. Many of the universities which provide courses for bachelor's or master's degrees in a subject also provide facilities for research in aspects of it which may lead to a doctorate.

Subjects marked† may, depending on the university, either (a) form a greater or lesser part of the course for a bachelor's degree, or (b) be studied for a master's degree, or (c) both.

Universities marked * in the article provide instructions upto the post-graduate level; 'm' and 'd' under the Medicine list indicate Master's Degree (including MD) and Government Diploma.

RESEARCH

THOUGH comprehensive data on the amounts spent on research and development is not readily available, a survey conducted by the Industrial Credit and Investment Corporation of India, shows the expenditure to be around 0·2 per cent of the gross national product in Latin America; between 0·1 and 0·5 per cent in Asia; and less than 0·1 per cent in Africa.

India is estimated to be spending a little more than 0·4 per cent on research and development.

Comparable figures for developed countries are: Soviet Union 4·2 per cent; United States 30·2 per cent and most of the European countries between 1 and 2 per cent of the G.N.P.

India is among the few developing countries with relatively long experience in indigenous research. In the post-independence period (1947), an elaborate organisational structure, supported by the State, has been created.

Many private industrial firms have become research conscious, and are together spending millions of rupees in research. A report of the Committee on Science and Technology says the total expenditure for scientific research and development under Central, State and private sectors in the country increased from Rs. 270 million in 1958-59 to about Rs. 1,690 million in 1970-71. Of the estimated total expenditure of Rs. 2,150 million on industrial R and D in 1971–72, the private sector's contribution is about Rs. 175 million. The National Committee on Science and Technology has proposed a levy of a R and D cess which is likely to generate resources of about Rs. 3,000 million in the Fifth Plan period. The money will be disbursed to companies in the public and the private sectors for R and D projects.

In terms of G.N.P. it has increased from 0·21 per cent to 0·43 per cent and is expected to rise to about 0·5 per cent at the end of the Fourth Plan.

In the overall financial expenditure the contribution of the private sector is quite small. It is estimated to have spent Rs. 80 million in 1969–70 and State undertakings Rs. 50 million. The brunt of the burden is borne by the Central Government.

Viewed against the background of annual production amounting to Rs. 60,000 million the expenditure of Rs. 130 million on Research and Development constitutes about 0·2 per cent.

ESTIMATED R & D EXPENDITURE IN CENTRAL, STATE AND PRIVATE SECTORS

(Rs. in million)

(a) Central Sector (including universities)	1,096·0	1,234·0	1,448·9
(b) State Sector ..	119·9	122·2	125·8
(c) Private Sector ..	98·5	106·3	112·2

Note: Out of 520 R & D Institutions/Units under the State Governments, who were asked to supply data, only 232 (i.e. about 45 per cent have furnished the information). The figures for 1968-69, 1969-70 and 1970-71 have been estimated, proportionately.

Data for the private sector is incomplete. This also includes 50 per cent of the expenditure of Cooperative Research Associations under CSIR, the remaining 50 per cent being grant from the CSIR, which is covered in CSIR expenditure.

ATOMIC ENERGY

HISTORY AND DEVELOPMENT

An Atomic Energy Commission was set up on August 10, 1948, under the terms of Atomic Energy Act passed in 1948, with Dr. H. J. Bhabha as its Chairman. The Commission's main aims were :

(a) Prospecting for atomic minerals ;

(b) Development of such minerals on an industrial scale ;

(c) Research work connected with the release of atomic energy for peaceful purposes ;

(d) Training of technical personnel to this end ;

(e) And to foster fundamental research in nuclear sciences in its own laboratories, universities, and other institutions in India.

However, it was not until August 3, 1954 that the Government of India launched a full-fledged atomic energy programme and the Department of Atomic Energy was created.

Rare minerals section, which formed the nucleus of the present Atomic Minerals Division, was taken over from the geological survey of India in 1949. The Indian Rare Earths Limited was registered as a company on August 18, 1950 and its rare earths plant at Alwaye, Kerala, went into production in August, 1952.

AEC decided to build India's first research reactor (of the swimming pool type) APSARA, in March 1955 and it reached criticality on August 4, 1956. APSARA and the Atomic Energy Establishment at Trombay, near Bombay were formally inaugurated by the Prime Minister on January 20, 1957. In the meantime efforts were made to build the CANADA-INDIA REACTOR with Canadian assistance under the Colombo Plan. CIRUS attained criticality on July 10, 1960 and was first operated at full power on October 16, 1963. India's third research reactor, ZERLINA, was designed, engineered and built entirely by Indian personnel. It reached criticality on January 14, 1961.

A Radio Isotopes Division was started at Trombay in April 1957, and produced first samples of radio isotopes in February 1958. A decision to set up a Uranium Metal Plant and a Fuel Element Fabrication Facility also at Trombay was taken, in May 1956 and the first ingot of nuclear pure uranium metal was produced on January 30, 1959. Plans to build India's first atomic power station at Tarapur were announced in 1960 and by 1961 the construction of a Plutonium Plant at Trombay had started.

The responsibility for expansion of medical facilities and Research in cancer and several other diseases with the help of radio isotopes etc. at Tata Memorial Hospital and Indian Cancer Research Centre was taken over by the Department, in February 1962. On August 9 in the same year, the Nangal Heavy Water Plant went into production. A new Atomic Energy Act came into force in September 1962. The decision to build a second atomic power station at Rana Pratap Sagar (Kota), and the third one at Kalpakkam, Tamil Nadu was also taken during this year. In December 1963, an agreement was signed with Canada regarding the Rajasthan Atomic Power Station. In August 1964 the Plutonium plant was completed and in May of the same year, a contract was signed with the International General Electric Company of United States regarding Tarapur Station. The year 1964 marked the end of phase II (extending between 1956-1964) which saw the development of know-how and technology for the country's nuclear Power Programme.

The Indian Rare Earths Limited took over the operations of the atomic minerals sand industry in January 1965 and in June of the same year the Atomic Energy Commission decided to set up a Nuclear Fuel Complex at Hyderabad to make the country self-sufficient in fuel elements required for future power reactors. In April 1966, the construction of a Food Irradiation and Processing Laboratory commenced at Trombay with a view to use atomic energy for the preservation of foods of economic importance. The Atomic Energy Establishment at Trombay was renamed as 'Bhabha Atomic Research Centre' (BARC) in memory of the late Dr. Bhabha on January 12, 1967. The Electronics Corporation of India Ltd., was established at Hyderabad in April of the same year. Another industrial unit under the Department, the Uranium Corporation of India Limited, was formed in October 1967 with the responsibility for the development of the uranium mine and mill at Jaduguda, Bihar. Both the mine and the mill were commissioned during the next year. In November 1968, the Atomic Energy Commission decided to set up the second heavy water plant at Kota in Rajasthan.

It was decided that research and development regarding plutonium-based reactors will be conducted at the Reactor Research Centre to be set up at Kalpakkam in Tamil Nadu. An agreement between the Department of Atomic Energy and the Commissariat AL' Energie Atomique (CEA), France regarding the 15 MWe Fast Breeder Test Reactor which will form a part of the Reactor Research Centre was signed on April 11, 1969. Both the reactors of the Tarapur Atomic Power Station reached criticality by the end of February, 1969 and the plant commenced commercial production of nuclear power on October 3, 1969. The Tarapur Atomic Power Station was dedicated to the nation by the Prime Minister on January 19, 1970. Contracts were signed with the French Consortium GELPRA in September 1969 and April 1971 for the setting up of two further heavy water plants at Baroda in Gujarat and Tuticorin in Tamil Nadu respectively. Some of the units of the Nuclear Fuel Complex at Hyderabad were also commissioned during 1971. With an aim to develop the application of atomic energy in agriculture, a Nuclear Agricultural Laboratory was inaugurated by the Prime Minister in New Delhi on November 29, 1971. The Zero Energy Fast Reactor Purnima entirely designed, engineered and constructed by BARC scientists attained criticality on May 22, 1972. The first unit of the Rajasthan Atomic Power Station reached criticality in August of the same year. The decision to set up the country's fourth nuclear power station at Narora in Uttar Pradesh was also announced in 1972.

Future Programme : Commissioning by 1985 of 2700 MWe nuclear power ; design and construction of prototype and commercial fast breeder reactors ; augmentation of heavy water production ; development of gas centrifuge and other technologies for uranium enrichment ; and all round strengthening of support facilities. This includes development of the Narwapahar uranium mines and facilities for extraction of uranium from low-grade ores, creation of adequate facilities for reprocessing irradiated fuel and for recovery of valuable by-products, and widespread application of isotopes in industry, for food preservation, medicine, agriculture and research.

Administrative set-up : The development and control of atomic energy in India is regulated by the Atomic Energy Act (Act No. 33 of 1962) and the Department of Atomic Energy handles all business of the Government of India relating to atomic energy and functions of the Central Government under the Act.

The Atomic Energy Commission is responsible for (a) formulating the policy of the Department of Atomic Energy, (b) preparing the budget of the Department for each financial year and getting it approved by the Government, and (c) implementing Government's policy in all matters concerning atomic energy.

The scientific and technical work of the Department is carried out by the Atomic Minerals Division and the Bhabha Atomic Research Centre at Trombay near Bombay and the Reactor Research Centre, Kalpakkam, Tamil Nadu.

Atomic Minerals Division : The Atomic Minerals Division of the Department of Atomic Energy has been carrying out exploration for minerals prescribed under the Atomic Energy Act in different parts of India. One of the results of this effort has been the discovery of a number of uranium deposits in the Thrust Belt in Singhbhum district, Bihar. Of these the uranium deposit at Jaduguda is already being mined by the Uranium Corporation of India Limited, a public sector undertaking of the Department of Atomic Energy. The mill attached to the mine treats 1,000 tonnes of ore per day. The other important deposits being developed underground are those of Narwapahar and Bhatin, while a third deposit which promises to be a large-sized one and which has been recently discovered and is currently under investigation is that at Turamdih. A number of comparatively smaller deposits occur at Bagjata and Kanyaluka. The occurrences of uranium in the mountainous terrain of Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh as well as indication of uranium in Madhya Pradesh are under investigation. A few deposits are also known in Rajasthan but they are comparatively small. Significant uranium values have also been found in certain parts of the phosphorite deposit at Mussoorie.

The present overall indicated and inferred reserves of uranium are estimated at about 63,500 short tons (57,727 tonnes) of uranium oxide in addition to about 12,600 short tons (11,455 tonnes) of uranium oxide estimated to be present in monazite in coastal and inland placer sand deposits in India.

Some of the beach sand deposits of Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Orissa as well as inland placer deposits of Bihar and West Bengal contain monazite, ilmenite, leucoxene, rutile, sillimanite, kyanite etc. Thorium oxide in Indian monazites ranges between 8 to 10·5%, uranium oxide 0·3 to 0·4%, rare-earth oxides of 55 to 65%, and phosphate 26 to 28%. The reasonably assured resources of monazite are of the order of 3·8 million tonnes estimated to contain about 0·343 million tonnes of thorium oxide.

The estimated reserves of ilmenite in the country are placed at 133·76 million tonnes. Some of the important beach deposits in Kerala and Tamil Nadu are being exploited for ilmenite and other associated minerals. The production of ilmenite during the year 1970 was 76,770 tonnes.

Bhabha Atomic Research Centre, Trombay : The Bhabha Atomic Research Centre (BARC), is India's principal centre for research in and development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

The centre with a staff of nearly 9,660, composed of 2,130 Scientific, 4,030 technical, 1,770 administrative and 1,730 general maintenance and auxiliary staff is the largest single scientific establishment in the country.

Every year about 150 science graduates and engineers are recruited and given intensive training at the centre for one year prior to being absorbed in the various projects of the Atomic Energy Department.

RESEARCH REACTORS

Apsara : The first nuclear research reactor in Asia, outside the USSR, attained criticality on August 4, 1956. It is an enriched uranium light water moderated and cooled pool type reactor. The reactor is designed for a maximum power level of 1 mw.

A number of experimental facilities have been provided in the reactor which has proved to be extremely useful for fundamental and applied research in basic sciences and engineering, radioisotope production and training of personnel.

Cirus : (formerly known as CIR) is India's second research reactor, built as a joint Indo-Canadian project under the Colombo Plan. The reactor attained criticality on July 10, 1960.

Cirus is a natural uranium heavy water moderated and light water cooled high flux research reactor with a terminal power of 40,000 kw. The reactor is used for basic and applied research in physics, chemistry, biology, metallurgy, reactor technology and for the production of large quantities of high activity radioisotopes. It is also used for the training of personnel for future reactor programmes.

Zerlina : is India's third research reactor. It is a zero energy reactor for lattice investigations and new assembly studies. The reactor attained criticality on January 14, 1961 with a natural uranium — heavy water loading. The reactor is being extensively used for physics experiments and studies of uranium — heavy water lattices.

Purnima: is the country's first experimental fast reactor. It uses plutonium oxide as fuel and attained criticality on May 22, 1972.

Besides being used for the training of personnel in the operation of plutonium fuelled fast reactors, experiments will be carried out with this facility to measure certain nuclear parameters which will enable scientists to design and develop the core of the pulsed Fast Reactor to be constructed near Kalpakkam, Tamil Nadu, as a part of the Reactor Research Centre.

The natural uranium fuel elements for Cirus and Zerlina and the plutonium oxide fuel elements for Purnima are fabricated in Trombay.

Fuel Element Fabrication Facility : This facility went into operation in June 1959. It now fully meets the fuel element requirements of both Cirus and Zerlina. The present capacity of this plant is about 30 to 40 tonnes of fuel elements per year. The nuclear grade uranium is produced in the uranium metal plant at Trombay.

A good deal of development work has been carried out in the existing facility for the fabrication of power reactor fuel elements, which consist of sintered uranium oxide pellets clad in zircaloy.

A beginning has also been made in the development and production of thorium oxide and thorium metal fuel elements in the facilities at BARC.

Plutonium Plant : The plutonium plant went into operation at Trombay in 1964, for processing the fuel elements irradiated at Cirus. The plant basically meant for the separation and recovery of plutonium and fission products from irradiated uranium, has given the necessary data and experience on the basis of which a bigger fuel reprocessing plant is being built at Tarapur. This is expected to be completed by the end of 1973.

A pilot-plant has also been designed, built and successfully operated at Trombay for reprocessing thorium oxide and metal fuel elements irradiated at Cirus to recover uranium-233, the future nuclear fuel.

Electronic Instruments and Components : Electronics is vital to the development of nuclear energy. Reliable instrumentation is essential for the safe operation of reactors, remote sensing and assessment of highly radioactive materials, and identification of isotopes. The Electronics Division of BARC is designing and fabricating nuclear and other instrumentation required for the Indian atomic energy programme. The control systems for the research reactors Apsara and Zerlina were fabricated by this group. It has designed equipment for contamination and area monitoring, and health equipment for Cirus, fuel reprocessing plant and the radiological laboratories at Trombay. The Division has also fabricated and supplied instruments for the environmental laboratory at Tarapur. Besides, it has supplied a number of nuclear instruments for universities, and other institutions using radiation sources, and radioisotopes.

Isotope Laboratory : A large number of radiopharmaceuticals, biochemicals and labelled organic and inorganic compounds are being produced in this laboratory. Iridium-192 radiography units and gamma irradiators containing cobalt-60 are now being manufactured and supplied to various hospitals and industrial units. At present some 350 radioactive products are made available for a wide variety of uses in India, and some are exported abroad. The sale value of radioisotopes, equipment and services rendered totalled Rs. 3·772 million including Rs. 0·506 million in exports during the year 1971-72.

Food Technology : Radiation provides an effective means for food preservation through control of food-borne spoilage organisms, eradication of pests in stored grains and by retarding physiological processes such as ripening and sprouting. The programmes of research at Trombay in this field are aimed at developing procedures for preservation of foods of economic importance using gamma radiation. Promising observations relate to (i) radiation disinfestation of stored grains, (ii) inhibition of sprouting in onions and potatoes, (iii) delayed ripening of mangoes and bananas, and (iv) extension of shelf-life of sea foods.

Radiation has also been used to induce mutations. Several mutants of economic importance have been obtained in rice and groundnut, and these have been tried in various parts of the country and have given excellent results.

For carrying out research in food technology, Trombay has a 5.66 hectares cultivable area for experimental crops, a 2.42 hectare field with the gamma source, controlled growth chambers and a glass house.

Health and Safety : The Department of Atomic Energy is responsible for country-wide radiation safety. The work on health and safety aspects of all installations carrying out atomic energy operations is managed by BARC in accordance with the requirements of the Atomic Energy Act, 1962. This is achieved by posting safety staff for supervision and advice, along with operational staff to cover both radiation and industrial aspects of safety at all installations. Through a country-wide net work of stations, measurements of fall-outs from nuclear tests are also being made. Samples of milk, food, rain water etc. collected from all over the country are being analysed for their radioactivity.

The Directorate of Radiation Protection is conducting a country-wide film badge service for persons working with radiation sources. The service now covers nearly 1,600 institutions and some 24,000 radiation workers. The Directorate also conducts a one year post-graduate course in radiological physics. It does research and development in fields such as hospital physics, radiation dosimetry and instrumentation, radiation applications and radiation bio physics. The Directorate is responsible for the formulation and promulgation under the Atomic Energy Act of various rules and regulations relating to radiation safety.

Central Workshops : A manufacturing facility for the production of specialised equipments and apparatus for the country's atomic energy programme, which cannot be readily undertaken by the commercial under-takings in India, have been set up at Trombay. The workshops are fabricating equipment for the Rajasthan Atomic Power Project and other projects, resulting in savings in cost and foreign exchange. The workshop also undertakes the fabrication of the two-stage "Centaure" rockets for the Indian Space Research Organisation.

Other Facilities : The facilities at BARC include a 400 channel analyser for the analysis of nuclear data, a 5·5 Mev. Van de Graaf accelerator, and a H-400 Honeywell computer system, A 224 cm Variable Energy Cyclotron is being set up near Calcutta by BARC as a national facility. This machine is expected to go into operation by the middle of 1973. The Technical Physics Division at BARC designs and fabricates vacuum equipment, mass spectrometers, electron beam and sintering furnaces for handling nuclear materials and different types of solid state radiation detectors. A Seismic Station has also been set up at Gauribidanur, near Bangalore to record earthquakes and to detect nuclear explosions in the atmosphere as well as underground.

INDUSTRIAL OPERATIONS

Electronics Corporation of India Ltd., Hyderabad : Formed in April 1967, the corporation took over the activities of the Electronics Production Unit of the Bhabha Atomic Research Centre with a view to producing on a commercial scale a variety of nuclear instruments, control equipment, electronic components etc. developed at BARC. The company has successfully developed a fully transistorised closed circuit TV system and is marketing a commercial TV set developed by it. The company earned a profit of Rs. 6·2 million in 1971-72.

Rare Earths Plant, Alwaye and Thorium Plant, Trombay : See under "Government Industrial Undertakings".

Uranium Corporation of India Ltd. : This company formed in October, 1967, has its registered office in Jaduguda, Bihar. It is responsible for developing the uranium mine and for the operation of the uranium mill at Jaduguda. The mill at present treats about 1,000 tonnes of ore per day. Uranium concentrates worth approximately Rs. 37·5 million were produced during 1971-72.

Mineral Sand Industry : Indian Rare Earths Ltd. is currently operating two plants, one at Manavalakurichi, Tamil Nadu and another at Chavara, Kerala for the separation of ilmenite, monazite, rutile, zircon, leucoxene, garnet and sillimanite.

Heavy Water Plants : The first heavy water plant at Nangal is producing 14·1 tonnes per annum of nuclear grade heavy water since August, 1962. It has been decided to set up at Kota a second plant with a capacity of 100 tonnes of heavy water per year to meet the needs of the atomic power stations in Rajasthan and Tamil Nadu. Two other plants, one at Baroda with a capacity of 67 tonnes per year, and another at Tuticorin with a capacity of 71 tonnes per year are now being set up. The fifth heavy Water Plant with a capacity of 63 tonnes per year will be constructed at Talcher in Orissa.

Nuclear Fuel Complex, Hyderabad : Based on the development work carried out at BARC, a nuclear fuel complex has been set up at Hyderabad for the fabrication of fuel elements for nuclear power reactors under construction and being planned. This facility covers the entire range of operations from raw material concentrates to finished fuel element assemblies and other reactor fuel components. The complex consists of a uranium oxide plant, a zirconium plant, a ceramic fuel fabrication plant and a special materials plant.

NUCLEAR POWER

The 420 MWe nuclear power station at Tarapur is being operated as a commercial undertaking since November 1, 1969. The station consists of two reactors of the boiling water type, and was built by the General Electric Company of the U.S.A. under a turn-key contract. Nuclear power began to flow from the station when it became operational at 8-15 p.m. on April 1, 1969. By the end of March, 1972, the station had generated over 4,590 million units of electricity. During the year 1970-71, it generated over 2,400 million units of which Maharashtra utilised 1,153 million units while Gujarat absorbed 1,092 million units.

Two other atomic power stations are under construction in the country. The Rajasthan Atomic Power station (being built with Canadian assistance) at Rana Pratap Sagar near Kota will have a capacity of 430 MWe. The first unit of this station attained criticality on August 11, 1972, while the second unit is expected to reach this stage by early 1975.

The other station being built at Kalpakkam near Madras will have a capacity of 470 MWe. The Kalpakkam station is being built entirely by Indians with about 80 per cent indigenous content. A Reactor Research Centre is being set up near the Madras Atomic Power Station. It will carry out studies in fast reactor technology. It will also have as an experimental facility a pulsed fast reactor. It has been decided to construct the country's fourth nuclear power station at Narora in Uttar Pradesh.

The Department of Atomic Energy envisages the commissioning by 1985 of 2,700 MWe of nuclear power in the country. The Department's total earnings from sale of goods (including nuclear power) during the year 1970-71, amounted to Rs. 220 million.

Nuclear Research Establishments : The Tata Institute of Fundamental Research is the National Centre for advanced study and fundamental research in nuclear science and mathematics and consists of a school of physics and a school of mathematics.

The Institute is the largest centre for cosmic ray research in India. Its school of mathematics is internationally reputed and recognised. Its areas of research activity include molecular biology, microwave engineering, solid state electronics and computer technology, besides fundamental research in nuclear physics, geophysics, chemical physics and solid state physics. It houses, as a national facility, an advanced and modern computer CDC 3600-160A. It also has a one MeV Cascade Generator. A large radiotelescope is also in operation at Ootacamund for lunar occultation studies of radio sources.

Two other important institutions conducting research in nuclear physics are the Saha Institute of Nuclear Physics, Calcutta and the Physical Research Laboratory, Ahmedabad.

A high altitude research laboratory is functioning at an altitude of 2,700 metres at Gulmarg in Kashmir.

Two other units under the administrative control of the Department are the Radiation Medicine Centre and the Tata Memorial Centre in Bombay.

Considerable fundamental research in nuclear sciences is also being conducted at various universities and research institutions all over India with financial assistance from the Department of Atomic Energy.

Practical Benefits of Atomic Energy : The anticipated revenue from industrial projects in a full year is expected to be Rs. 1,700 million. Rs. 1,260 million from sale of power, Rs. 200 million from heavy water, Rs. 200 million from fuel production and Rs. 40 million from plutonium.

The Departments total earnings from sale of goods (including nuclear power) during the year 1970-71 amounted to Rs. 220 million.

Cost of the Atomic Energy Programme : The total amount of funds required for the atomic energy programme during 1970-80 are estimated to be Rs. 12,500 million — Rs. 3,650 million during 1970-75, and Rs. 8,850 million during 1975-80. Rs. 2,539 million have been made available during the Fourth Plan (1969-74) period for atomic energy.

BUDGET PROVISION

The total provision in the budget for Department of Atomic Energy for 1973-74 is Rs. 1,101·8 million against Rs. 1,086·7 million in 1972-73. Out of this Rs. 563·6 million will be spent on atomic energy research and development and over Rs. 532·9 million on nuclear power schemes.

The Plan expenditure on these two heads will be 273·6 million and Rs. 289·9 million respectively.

SOCIAL WELFARE IN INDIA

Among Tribes: To study the problems that affect tribals and to train personnel to work among them the Government of India has set up nine research institutes. These are:

Tribal Cultural Research & Training Institute, Hyderabad, Andhra Pradesh ; Tribal Research Institute, Shillong, Assam ; Tribal Research Institute, Ranchi, Bihar ; Tribal Research & Training Centre, Gujarat Vidyapeeth, Ahmedabad, Gujarat ; Tribal Research & Development Institute, Bhopal, Madhya Pradesh ; The Tribal Research Institute, Pune, Maharashtra ; Tribal Research Bureau, Bhubaneswar, Orissa ; The Tribal Research & Training Institute, Udaipur, Rajasthan ; Cultural Research Institute, Calcutta, West Bengal.

The Central Social Welfare Board (Jeevan Deep Bldg., Parliament St., New Delhi-110001) : Was set up by the Government of India in August, 1953, and converted into a registered company on 1st April, 1969.

The Board consists of 39 members, including the Chairman, who evaluate and sponsor welfare programmes of the Central Government. At State level the Board has State Social Welfare Advisory Boards.

During 1971–72 the Government of India provided Rs. 1·27 million for general grants-in-aid to voluntary institutions and Rs. 1·40 million for Family and Child Welfare Projects.

The Central Bureau of Correctional Services (Block 1, Wing 7, Ground Floor, R. K. Puram, New Delhi-110022): Co-ordinates the policies and programmes in the field of social defence. (i) Collects and collates all India crime statistics; (ii) formulates policies for crime prevention; (iii) promotes research studies, surveys, experiments and training.

The Association of Moral & Social Hygiene in India (4-Deendayal Upadhyaya Marg, New Delhi-110001); This was set up to eradicate prostitution and other evils related to it. To establish, maintain and assist protective homes, and other institutions for the shelter, training and rehabilitation of women and children in moral danger.

Social Welfare and Rehabilitation Directorate (Jamnagar House Hutments, New Delhi-110011): Originally set up to tackle the problems of destitute women and children displaced from West Pakistan the activities have since been expanded to cover destitute and deserted women of Delhi and now also the war widows.

Widows : There are 83,340,000 women in the age group 20–24. As many as 300,000 of them become widows each year according to government of India estimates. The government expects to spend Rs. 300 million during the Fourth Plan period to give them relief and assistance.

Destitute Children : According to the 1961 census there were 171,095,000 children in the age group 0–14. By 1974 this figure is expected to become 231,639,000. Planning Commission estimates show 0·5 per cent of these children to be destitutes. This means there are 1·15 million destitute children in the country of whom only 192,000 will be covered for State assistance and relief during the Fifth Plan.

Funds for Research: Funds for research in social work are available from the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, the Dept. of Social Security and the University Grants Commission, as well as other foreign bodies such as the Social Rehabilitation Service of the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, U.S.A.

SPACE RESEARCH

THE Government of India has set up a Space Commission and a Department of Space in June, 1972, with full executive and financial powers modelled on the lines of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Atomic Energy in order to promote rapid development of activities connected with the Space Science, Space Technology, and Space Applications. The Space Commission and the Department of Space have their headquarters in Bangalore. Prof. S. Dhawan is Chairman of the Space Commission.

A complex of establishments of the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) of the Department of Space has grown near Trivandrum, almost at the southern tip of the Indian peninsula. Named after late Dr. Vikram Sarabhai, the Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre (VSSC) includes the Space Science and Technology Centre (SSTC), propellant manufacturing and rocket fabrication facilities, and the Thumba Equatorial Rocket Launching Station — a United Nations sponsored sounding rocket range. The Space Science and Technology Centre has developed a number of sounding rockets. The Centaure two-stage rocket reaching 150 km. is produced under licence from France. More advanced rockets are under development. These are not only for developing capability to study the region above 150 km. but also to lead the country to a capability for operating satellites for diverse national needs.

The satellite launching station is being built up at the Sriharikota Island in Nellore District of Andhra Pradesh. In the Sriharikota Island in addition to a launch complex all supporting establishments for a satellite launching station are being set up. These are test and evaluation facilities, and a plant for the production of Solid propellants.

The Space Applications Centre, Ahmedabad is engaged in various areas of work in Space Applications. The Centre has undertaken work on such areas as Satellite Communications, Remote Sensing, Meteorological applications and development of software for television programmes. The Centre will also be responsible for the Satellite Instructional Television Experiment to be undertaken in 1975

Work on the building of an Indian Scientific Satellite has commenced at Bangalore.

FAMILY PLANNING IN INDIA

INDIA was the first country to adopt an official policy favouring family planning in 1951. During the period of the first two Plans (1951-61), the emphasis in India was mainly on research in the field of motivation, communication, demography, physiology of reproduction, and on the extension of Central and State organisations for providing clinic services. There was, therefore, very little progress in the adoption of family planning. In 1962-63 the programme was reorganised and a new approach called the "Extension Approach" was adopted. The programme is, at present, treated as a vital part of overall socio-economic development and welfare activity and not merely as an isolated birth control scheme.

Administration : Since 1965, the Indian family planning programme has moved into a stronger level of effort, with greater financing, improved administration and an intensified campaign to reach various sections of the people. A full-fledged Department of Family Planning was treated in April, 1966, in the Minister of Health, Family Planning and Urban Development. The department is headed by the Secretary of the Ministry and has administrative and technical wings headed by a Joint Secretary and a Commissioner respectively. There is a Family Planning Cabinet Committee presided over by the Prime Minister and the State Family Planning Cabinet Committees headed by the Chief Ministers to ensure expeditious policy clearance and better coordination among different administrative wings. The Central Family Planning Council is the supreme policy-making body. The Union Minister of Health presides over the Council, while all State Health Ministers and Secretaries are members. Family Planning Councils also function at the State level.

Allocation of Funds and Actual Expenditure During the Plan Periods

Period		Allocation of funds (in million Rs.)	Actual Expenditure (in million Rs.)
First Plan (1951–56)	..	6·5	1·45
Second Plan (1956–61)	..	49·7	21·56
Third Plan (1961–66)	..	270·0	248·60
1966–67	..	150·0	133·80
1967–68	..	310·0	255·35
1968–69	..	370·0	305·15
1970–71	..	520·0	472·3

Services and Supplies : The programme is centrally sponsored and assisted to the extent of 96 to 97 per cent, while the States are responsible for its implementation. Family planning facilities and staff have considerably increased in recent years, and the family planning services have been integrated with maternal and child health services.

IUCD and sterilisation services are offered both through mobile and static units as well as through camps. The written consent of the husband before providing tubectomy services is not insisted upon. Just as in the case of vasectomy, the statement of the person undergoing the operation that the consent of the spouse has been obtained is taken as being sufficient. The number of beds specially established for female sterilisation is 3,457. At least 30 tubectomies are expected to be performed per bed per year. Facilities for recanalisation operation after vasectomy are available in 107 hospitals and institutions all over the country. The factory at Kanpur for producing IUCD has a daily production capacity of 30,550 loops.

Any woman accepting the IUCD is given a compensation of Rs. 15. The compensation for vasectomy and tubectomy is Rs. 35 and Rs. 45 respectively, since July 1972.

Camps : Mass vasectomy camps with a higher level of expenditure per case are a regular feature of the family planning programme and will continue to be so far some years. The choice of the model of the camp, whether a welfare package model like the Thanjavur camp or a massive organisation-cum-high incentive model like camps organised in Andhra Pradesh, Kerala, Gujarat etc., is left to the discretion of the State Government concerned. The acceptors are now required to be kept in the camp for a period of 48 hours after vasectomy, after which time, the compensation money is paid to them. The amount paid to the acceptor both in cash and/or kind does not exceed Rs. 60 according to the new pattern. Attempts are made to carry out immunisation of th children of the persons vasectomised at such camps. The total number of sterilisations performed in the mass camps during 1971-72 was about 8 lakhs.

Condom Distribution : Nirodh (condom) distribution is organised through three channels. Free distribution is made through all the family planning centres and subcentres. Under the second scheme called the 'Depot Holders Scheme' a nominal price of 5 paise for three pieces is charged and the proceeds are retained by the depot holders, who are honorary workers. Through the Depot Holder Scheme, 'Nirodhs' are also sold at selected post offices in the rural areas. The third scheme is for the distribution of 'Nirodh' through commercial channels which was launched in October 1968. Under the scheme, six of India's largest and most experienced private consumer goods marketing organisations are involved in marketing 'Nirodh' through their regular networks of salesmen, wholesalers, and retailers. The condoms are sold at a subsidised retail price of 15 paise for three pieces. It is estimated that there are at present over 200,000 retail outlets selling 'Nirodh' in the country. Hindustan Latex Ltd., a corporation in the public sector, has been set up at Trivandrum to produce condoms for both the commercial and the free distribution schemes. The production in 1969-70 and 1970-71 was 42·75 million pieces and 77·42 million pieces respectively. The estimated production in 1971-72 is 110 million pieces.

Infrastructure of the Family Planning Programme

Facilities	Requirement	In Position (March 1972)
Family Planning Centres
(a) Urban Family Centres	1,856	1,906
(b) Rural Primary Family Planning Centres	5,427	5,204
(c) Rural Subcentres	42,142	32,157
(d) Other Institutions providing planning services
(i) Urban	—	2,333
(ii) Rural	—	5,780

Education and Motivation : The family planning symbol adopted by India is the inverted equilateral red triangle and it is widely displayed in the urban as well as in the rural areas.

Use of mass media is being made for disseminating knowledge about family planning and for creating awareness among the masses. Family planning cells have been created at 36 stations of All India Radio. Whereas in 1968-69, a total of 11,340 family planning items were broadcast, the corresponding figures for 1969-70 and 1970-71 were 15,377 and 18,107 respectively. Besides, billboards, hoardings, wall posters and paintings, matchbox covers, stamps, records, films, dramas, puppet shows, comic books, newspaper advertisements, and television, wherever available, are the other mass media utilised for family planning publicity. The person-to-person approach is also utilised with emphasis on group meetings. The involvement of the community is sought through the participation of local leaders and voluntary workers. Of the 192 mobile publicity units of the Directorate of Field Publicity, 30 are devoted exclusively to family planning work and for the remaining 162, family planning publicity is a major activity.

A working group has recently been formed under the chairmanship of the Director, Directorate of Field Publicity, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, to improve the efforts made by the extension workers.

Another working group has been set up to review the requirements of the extension workers regarding educational aids. More effective utilisation of films and television and the introduction of super 8 mm. film projectors is proposed.

Some Associations : Voluntary organisations have been recognised to be important in the field of family planning. Some of these are: the Family Planning Association of India, Indian Medical Association of India, Central Bharat Sevak Samaj, Indian Red Cross Society, Trained Nurses Association of India, Bharatiya Gramin Mahila Sangh, Indian Council of Social Welfare, the Christian Medical Association, the Rotary Clubs, the Lions Clubs, and the Junior Chambers of Commerce etc. Many of these voluntary organisations are represented on the Central as well as on the State family planning councils.

In December 1969, the Indian Population Council was set up. As a non-governmental co-ordinating institution, the Council expects to develop service projects in areas not fully covered by Government programmes, take up the family planning training of welfare workers, and to support financing of buildings for voluntary agencies and for pre- and post-partum medical care.

The private industrial sector and the organised public sector have also been active in the field of motivation-education as well as the provision of services. The Government encourages such participation in the family planning programme not only by providing grants-in-aid, but also by allowing deduction of expenditures incurred by business houses on family planning work for their employees from computation of taxable income for income-tax purposes. The family planning programme of the organised public sector covers employees of the railways, the defence forces, mines, tea plantations, post and telegraphs and of other industrial establishments.

Population Education : A Population Education Cell was established in the Department of Social Sciences and Humanities of the National Council of Educational Research and Training in May 1970. It has initiated a programme of developing a curriculum for the entire school stage, both for the students and the teachers. The Central Health Education Bureau, New Delhi, has also undertaken the preparation of model lessons and guidelines for secondary school teachers. The Family Planning Department in collaboration with the University Grants Commission organises essay competitions and debates for the university students.

In addition to programmes for the student youth, population education programmes are also being planned for the Non-student Youth and proposals are being examined by the National Youth Advisory Board.

For the adult population, population education will be provided through Adult Literacy Classes, by integrating population education with functional literacy programmes. Educational material is being prepared for illiterates and neo-literates.

Research : Research in demography, bio-medicine and communication is supported by the Government through suitable grants.

The International Institute for Population Studies, Bombay : (till recently known as Demographic Training and Research Centre) is a regional centre for the training of demographers and population experts from India and from the countries of the ECAFE region. It is supported by the United Nations, and the Government of India. Apart from teaching responsibilities, the Institute has undertaken meaningful researches having a direct bearing on family planning policies.

Demographic Centres : The National Institute of Family Planning, New Delhi, is responsible for undertaking family planning researches. In addition, there are at present eight demographic research centres located at : Institute of Economic Research, Dharwar ; Department of Economics, Lucknow University, Lucknow ; Department of Statistics, Government of Kerala, Trivandrum ; Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, Poona ; Department of Statistics, M. S. University, Vadodara ; Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta ; Institute of Economic Growth, Delhi ; and Department of Statistics, University of Patna, Patna. Recently, a centre has started functioning at the Institute of Social and Economic Change, Bangalore.

Family Planning Communication Action Research is undertaken at the International Institute for Population Studies, Bombay ; the Institute of Rural Health and Family Planning, Gandhigram ; Planning Research and Action Institute, Lucknow ; the Department of Statistics, Kerala University, Trivandrum ; and the Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta.

All these centres have been regularly receiving grants-in-aid from the Department of Family Planning on the recommendations of the erstwhile Demographic and Communication Action Research Committee, set up by the Government of India. Recently, a new Committee on Socio-Economic Aspects of Family Planning has been constituted by the Government of India to advise on research and allied matters concerning population and family planning.

Recently, Demographic and Evaluation Cells have been created in all the States. In addition to the processing of statistical programme data, these cells are also responsible for carrying out field studies in their States.

Research in Reproductive Biology and Fertility Control is carried out at the Central Drug Research Institute, Lucknow ; All India Institue of Medical Sciences, New Delhi ; Delhi University ; Rajasthan University ; National Institute of Family Planning, New Delhi ; the Indian Institute of Sciences, Bangalore ; Institute for Research in Reproduction, Bombay. The Indian Council of Medical Research provides technical advice and co-ordination of the work in the field of medical and bio-medical research.

Training : Training is considered an important aspect of the programme. The training of family planning instructors and key staff is undertaken by five training institutes, the National Institute of Family Planning, New Delhi ; the Institute of Rural Health and Family Planning, Gandhigram ; the All India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health, Calcutta ; the Family Planning Training and Research Centre, Bombay ; and the Central Health Education Bureau, New Delhi. Forty-six Regional Family Planning Training Centres at the State level have been sanctioned, out of which 44 are functioning at present. Each State has a Central Family Planning Field Unit which undertakes ad hoc training programmes. The National Institute of Health Administration and Education, New Delhi, conducts periodic staff courses for the orientation of administrators holding key posts. In order to overcome the acute shortage of Auxiliary Nurse Midwives in some States, the Family Planning Department has made provision to open 25 new schools in 1970-71, ten in Bihar, ten in Uttar Pradesh and five in Orissa. Except for the schools in Uttar Pradesh all the schools have been opened. Provision has also been made to open ten more schools in Uttar Pradesh and nine in Bihar in 1972-73 with UNICEF assistance.

The Indian Medical Council has prepared the medical curriculum for the integration of family planning in the professional preparation of doctors. Additional staff and teaching equipment has been sanctioned for medical colleges for strengthening the teaching of family planning to medical students.

Special Schemes:

Intensive Districts Scheme: Seventeen districts have been selected for this scheme under which additional inputs are provided in terms of staff, mobile service units, vehicles, primary health centres, urban family welfare centres, buildings and audio-visual equipment. These districts are as follows : Guntur, Andhra Pradesh ; Kamrup, Assam ; Darbhanga and Muzaffarpur, Bihar ; Mehsana, Gujarat ; Hissar, Haryana ; Ernakulam, Kerala ; Raipur, Madhya Pradesh ; Poona, Maharashtra ; Dharwar, Mysore ; Cuttack, Orissa ; Julundar, Punjab ; Udaipur, Rajasthan ; Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu ; Kanpur and Gorakhpur, Uttar Pradesh ; and Murshidabad, West Bengal.

Selected Area Scheme : For the implementation of this scheme, the Varanasi Division of Uttar Pradesh has been selected. This division consists of the districts of Balia, Ghazipur, Jaunpur, Mirzapur and Varanasi. Additional inputs are provided in terms of staff, buildings and commodities.

With these additional inputs these districts under the Intensive Districts Scheme and the Selected Area Scheme are expected to achieve 150 per cent performance as compared to the targets in the non-intensive districts. The main problem in implementing these schemes is the appointment of technical staff. So far in none of the districts covered by these schemes the entire technical staff is in position.

Post-partum Programme : In order to maximise the extent of effective contraception among those who take advantage of large hospitals and institutions, educational and contraceptive services are provided under this scheme to obstetrical and abortion cases. Non-puerperal women and their husbands who request contraceptive services as an indirect result of this programme are also provided with the required supplies and services. At present this scheme covers 122 institutions in 16 States and 5 Union Territories. Normally, the criterion for the selection of a hospital for this programme is that a minimum of 3,000 confinements and abortions must be performed annually. Considering the success of the programme it has now been decided to extend this programme to all the districts and other hospitals providing maternity services for better coverage of the rural areas.

Maternal and Child Health Programme : An outlay of Rs. 26,500,000 has been provided in the Fourth Five Year Plan for the following four schemes under the M.C.H. programme : (1) immunisation of infants and pre-school age children against diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus ; (2) immunisation of expectant mothers against tetanus ; (3) immunisation against nutritional anaemia for mothers and children ; and (4) prophylaxis against blindness in children caused by vitamin A deficiency. The UNICEF has been giving assistance to pediatric units in District Hospitals in the form of supplies, equipment and vehicles. The UNICEF have also agreed to supply hospital and clinical equipments to urban institutions like Maternity Homes, M.C.H. Centres, and Family Welfare Planning Centres which give both MCH and family planning services.

Oral Contraceptives : The Technical Committee on Family Planning recommended in June 1971, that oral contraceptives may be tried both in urban and rural areas under some restricted conditions as an adjunct to the IUCD programme. Out of the 456 projects approved so far, 317 have been commissioned. Nine preparations for use as oral contraceptive pills have been approved by the Indian Council of Medical Research. The details of the offtake of oral contraceptives are as follows :

Year	Number of cycles
1969–70..	151,736

Targets : In 1965, the Indian family planning programme was made time-bound and target oriented. The objective of the programme is to reduce the birth rate from 41 per 1,000 to 25 per 1,000 by 1980–81. The more immediate goal is to reduce the birth rate to 32 per 1,000 population by 1973–74. Targets in terms of the number of sterilisations, IUCD insertions and users of conventional contraceptives have been worked out. The targets since 1966–67 are as follows :

Targets for Sterilisation, IUCD and Conventionals

Period	Sterilisation		IUCD		Conventionals (users)
	Per 1,000	In million	Per 1,000	In million	Per 1,000	In million
1966–67	2·5	1·23	3·0	1·5	Urban 8 Rural 4	0·8 1·6 } 2·4
1967–68	4·0	2·1	8·0	4·1	2·0	1·0
1968–69	6·0	3·16	4·0	2·1	6·0	3·16
1969–70	4·5	2·43	1·5	0·81	6·0	3·24
1970–71	5·0	2·77	1·8	1·00	9·2	5·09
1971–72	3·80	2·08	1·52	0·83	7·0	3·83

Progress : Upto the end of September 1972, 4·5 million IUCDs were inserted, and 11·5 million sterilisations were performed. The rate of IUCD insertions per 1,000 population was 7·9 and that of sterilization was 20. Over 9 million condoms are at present being distributed every month through the commercial and free distribution channels. It has been estimated that about 13·14 million couples are currently being protected as a result of the family planning programme and that 13 per cent of the couples, with the wife in the reproductive age group, have been thus protected. Corresponding percentages for sterilizations, IUCD and conventional contraceptives are 9·4, 1·5 and 2·1 respectively.

The impact of the family planning programme on the birth rate has been to reduce it from 41·7 in 1961 to 37·1 in 1971–72. This reduction has been estimated on the basis of the calculation of the number of births averted by the family planning performance. The birth rate thus estimated compares very well with the estimate of the birth rate of 37 per thousand population in 1970 from the Sample Registration Scheme of the Registrar General of India.

District-wise Performance : A district-wise study of family planning performance in India for the period 1967-70 undertaken at International Institute for Population Studies, Bombay indicated that though the progress of family planning had not been uniform in all the stages and though some States like Punjab, Haryana, Maharashtra, Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Orissa had done better than the other States, all the districts in the better performing States had not done well, nor had all the districts in poor performing States done poorly. The thirteen districts which exceeded the sterilisation target were East Godavari, Guntur, Krishna, West Godavari, Srikakulam and Vishakhapatnam in Andhra Pradesh ; Vadodara and Surat in Gujarat ; Barwani, Bastar, Khandwa, Rajgarh and Sarguja in Madhya Pradesh ; Greater Bombay, Thana, Poona, Sholapur, Sangli, Aurangabad, Parbhani, Bhir, Osmanabad, Akola, Amravati, Nagpur, Bhandara, Chanda, Nasik, Dhulia and Jalgaon in Maharashtra ; Chitradurga in Mysore ; Koraput in Orissa ; Nilgiris and Kanyakumari in Tamil Nadu ; and Nadia, Birbhum and Purulia in West Bangal. The eight districts which exceeded the IUCD target were Ferozepur, Gurdaspur, Patiala and Kapurthala in Punjab ; Rohtak, Mohindergarh and Ambala in Haryana ; and Simla in Himachal Pradesh. Thirty-seven districts were found to have done badly both in sterilisation and IUCD and had not been able to achieve even 25 per cent of either target. Fifteen of these districts were from Uttar Pradesh, 9 from Rajasthan, 6 from Bihar, 3 from Jammu & Kashmir, and 2 each from Himachal Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh.

Religion and Family Planning : The religion-wise distribution of sterilisation and IUCD insertions based on a 10 per cent sample of studies conducted during July 1967 — June 1968 indicates that the proportion of Muslim acceptors of sterilization and IUCD are more or less the same as the proportion of Muslims in the general population. The details are as follows :

Hindu ..	87·0	84·6	82·7
Sikhs	1·0	2·7	1·9
Total	100·0	100·0	100·0
Number of cases	37,553	18,904	(N. A.)

Urban-Rural Acceptance : Following are the details of the acceptance of different methods of family planning in urban and rural areas for the period 1966-1970 :

Year	No. of sterilisations	Percentage of rural to total	No. of IUCD insertions	Percentage of rural to total
1966–67	887,368	57·7	909,726	59·6

Evaluation : In 1965, a team of experts from the United Nations reviewed the Indian family planning programme at the request of the Government. The second team of United Nations experts visited the country in 1969 to make an evaluation of the Indian family planning programme within the context of the Third Five Year Plan and subsequent Plans, with a view to make recommendations. In 1968, an evaluation of the family planning programme was carried out by the Planning and Evaluation Organisation of the Planning Commission. At the national level, periodic review of the performance is made by the office of the Director of Planning on the basis of routine statistics received from the States. At the State level, the Demographic and Evaluation Cell is responsible for evaluation activities.

PUBLIC HEALTH

HEALTH programmes are primarily the responsibility of the State Governments. The Centre is, however, directly responsible even for the State subjects in the Union Territories. Certain schemes for improving the standard of health of the nation under the Five Year Plans have also been sponsored by the Union Government.

The outlays on Public Health and Medical Programmes proposed for the Fourth Plan and the expenditure during the Third Plan, 1966-69, 1969-70 and 1970-71 are indicated below :

Over the years, there has been a steady improvement in the general health of the Indian population. This improvement is reflected in such measures as expectation of life at birth and death rates.

The Central Health Service covers all medical and public health posts under the Central Government and the Union Territories other than those under the Ministries of Railways and Defence, and is governed by the Central Health Service Rules, 1963 (as amended by the Central Health Service (Amendment) Rules, 1966). This service came into being with effect from January 1, 1965.

Cancer : About 425,000 people die every year from cancer in India. There are 50 general hospitals in the country where facilities for cancer treatment are available in the form of surgery, radium etc. The State-wise break-up is : Andhra Pradesh 2, Assam 4, Bihar 1, Delhi 2, Gujarat 3, Kerala 3, Maharashtra 3, Mysore 4, Orissa 2, Punjab (including Haryana) 5, Rajasthan 4, Tamil Nadu 8, Uttar Pradesh 4, and West Bengal 4.

Field research stations for clinical facilities have also been established at Chandernagore, Hooghly, West Bengal and Madras.

Cholera : Because of the continued incidence and epidemic outbursts of this disease, India has acquired the name of "the home of Cholera". The endemic areas are in the seven States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Maharashtra, Mysore, Orissa, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal.

An outlay of Rs. 20 million has been allocated under the Fourth Plan. Priority is being given for provision of safe water supply and proper drainage under the National Water Supply and Sanitation Programme to the endemic areas. Preventive and surveillance measures are also being carried out.

Research studies on the various aspects of cholera are being carried out at the Cholera Research Centre, Calcutta in collaboration with the WHO ; the School of Tropical Medicine, Calcutta in collaboration with the Johns Hopkins University, U.S.A. ; the Central Drug Institute, Lucknow ; the Haffkine Institute, Bombay ; the Central Research Institute, Kasauli, Himachal Pradesh and at the National Institute of Communicable Diseases, Delhi.

Filaria : The National Filaria Control Programme has been in operation since 1955-56. A total provision of Rs. 48·8 million has been allocated in the Fourth Plan.

The programme consists of (i) anti-mosquito and anti-larval measures, (ii) establishment of filaria clinics for the detection and treatment of positive micro-filaria cases (iii) provision of underground drainage in hyper-endemic cities and towns and (vi) establishment of Bureaux of Filaria at State level for prevention of filarious conditions. But, the present activities of the programme are confined only to recurrent anti-larval measures with mosquito larvicidal oil, undertaken by the Filaria Control Units.

At present 85 Filaria Control Units are functioning in 15 States/Union Territories endemic for filariasis. These units are protecting a population of over 8 million. Besides these control units, specialised units—6 State headquarters bureaux and 4 Rural Research-cum-Training Centres—are also functioning in various States. By the end of 1971-72, 133 Filaria Control Units and 12 headquarters units will be operative protecting a population of approximately 13 million.

Besides the headquarters of the programme located at the National Institute of Communicable Diseases, Delhi, there are 3 branch organisations known as Filariasis Training Centres located each at Calicut (Kerala), Rajamundry (Andhra Pradesh) and Varanasi (Uttar Pradesh) which are responsible for the field evaluation of the programme, training of personnel and researches on various aspects of filariasis.

To review the progress of the National Filaria Control Programme an Assessment Committee under the auspicious of Indian Council of Medical Research, Delhi, was formed during 1971-72. The Committee submitted a report which is under consideration of the Government of India.

Goitre : Endemic goitre is a nutritional deficiency disease and is prevalent in the southern slopes of the Himalayas covering a distance of 2,414 kms. About 40 million people live on this goitre belt which consists of northern parts of Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Bihar, West Bengal, Nagaland, Arunachal Pradesh and Manipur. The persons affected with goitre are estimated to be about 8 to 10 million.

The National Goitre Control Programme was initiated in the Second Plan and has been continued in the Third and Fourth Plans. Under the Plans, iodised salt is manufactured at three iodisation units—one each at Sambhar Lake, in Rajasthan ; Kharaghoda in Gujarat and Calcutta, and supplied to the public at the same rate at which ordinary salt is sold. Till the end of 1969, 198,889·3 tonnes of iodised salt had been distributed to the affected population leading to marked decline in the prevalence rates of goitre in different areas. A total provision of Rs. 550,000 has been proposed for 1970-71 as central assistance to the three Iodisation Plants, which were supplied free by the UNICEF.

Leprosy : It has been estimated that 300 million people in India are exposed to leprosy. Estimate of the actual cases of leprosy is about 2·5 million of which only 20 per cent cases are of the infectious type. Out of the 300 million people at risk, about 85 million have been covered and out of 2·5 million cases about 945,000 cases have been recorded and put on treatment.

Under the National Leprosy Control Programme 204 Leprosy Control Units and 1,307 Survey, Eradication and Treatment Centres have been established in the country for provision of medical facilities to leprosy patients on the domiciliary ambulatory method upto the end of 1970.

The Central Leprosy Teaching and Research Institute, Chingleput (Tamil Nadu) undertakes research in the various problems concerning leprosy and promotes field studies for the application of the results of the research to control the spread of leprosy. Five control centres are run by international organisations. Thirty-seven voluntary organisations receive grants-in-aid from the Government of India. It also functions as a centre for offering technical advice and guidance for the promotion of anti-leprosy work on sound lines. This Institute makes available its services for the investigation of special problems in all parts of the country. Training courses for medical officers, para-medical workers, physiotherapy technicians, laboratory technicians etc. are conducted in this Institute.

Assistance to the programme is received from the WHO and the UNICEF in the form of personnel, fellowships, transport, equipment, drugs, teaching aids and stipends for trainees.

Private organisations also take active part in controlling leprosy. These include the Leprosy Mission, Hind Kushta Nivaran Sangh (the Indian Leprosy Association), Gandhi Memorial Leprosy Foundation (for addresses refer to the chapter on 'Institutions for the Handicapped') and 3 R'Society C/o Tata Dept. of Plastic Surgery, Balaram Bldg., J. J. Group of Hospitals, Bombay 400008.

The Reconstructive Surgery Programme is receiving increasing attention of the Government of India and leprosy patients with deformities of hands, feet and face get facilities of corrective surgery now in about 30 hospitals in India.

Malaria : India with 1,091,561 malaria cases (1972) is the worst affected country according to World Health Organisation. The National Malaria Eradication Programme which was started in 1958-59 has entered the 14th year of its operation during 1971-72. There are at present 393·25 NMEP units functioning in the country covering a population of 535 million. The remaining 15 million population is residing in areas which were never malaria endemic.

At present 59 per cent of the areas of the country are in maintenance phase from where malaria has been eradicated, 17 per cent is in consolidation or advanced stage of eradication and only 24 per cent population of the country is in attack phase where spray is continuing.

The incidence of the disease which used to be 75 million cases per year in 1952 i.e., 200,000 cases in a million population has been reduced to about 0·6 million cases in 1971 i.e., about 1,300 cases in a million population. The malaria mortality which was estimated in 1952 to be 0·75 million deaths or 2,000 deaths in a million population has become an extreme rarity.

The programme is being implemented by the Union Government with the active participation of the State Governments as well as with the assistance of United States Agency for International Development and the World Health Organisation. The National Institute for Communicable Diseases is responsible for research and field investigations and for the training of unit medical officers and district health officers in methods of malaria eradication. Other categories of health personnel are trained by the regional co-ordinating organisations established at Bangalore, Vadodara, Bhubaneswar, Hyderabad, Lucknow and Shillong.

A total amount of Rs. 177·1 million for this programme is proposed in the Fourth Five Year Plan.

Mental Diseases : At present there are 41 mental hospitals with accommodation for about 25,000 patients. About 1 million Indians suffer from mental sickness (1971). The following is a list of mental hospitals in India :

Andhra Pradesh : Government Mental Hospital, Waltair ; Hospital for Mental Diseases, Hyderabad. Assam : Mental Hospital, Tezpur. Bihar : Hospital for Mental

There are at present 51 institutions (25 Government and 26 private) for the Mentally retarded and the Mentally handicapped. The major centres are in: Chandigarh (1), Uttar Pradesh (5), Mysore (2), Maharashtra (19) Tamil Nadu (1), Madhya Pradesh (1), Kerala (1), Gujarat (3), Delhi (7), Bihar (2) and Andhra Pradesh (2).

The All-India Institute of Mental Health, Bangalore was established in September, 1954, for imparting post-graduate training and research in mental health and other disciplines of neuro-sciences.

This is an autonomous organisation financed by the Government of India and conducts the following post-graduate courses: (i) M.D. degree in Psychological Medicine; (ii) M.Ch. degree in Neurosurgery; (iii) D.M. degree in Neurology; (iv) Diploma in Psychological Medicine (DPM); (v) Diploma in Medical and Social Psychology (DM & SP); (vi) Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology; and (vii) Diploma in Psychiatric Social Work (DPSW). The Institute is affiliated to the Bangalore University for post-graduate courses. Post-certificate course in Psychiatric Nursing (DPN) is also conducted at the Institute. This diploma is recognised by the Government of India and the Indian Nursing Council.

Smallpox : Under the National Smallpox Eradication Programme started in 1962, more than 167·30 million primary and 701·82 million revaccinations had been done upto the end of June, 1971.

As a result of the intense campaign, the number of smallpox cases and deaths have declined considerably over the years. But, for the past 12 months, the number of smallpox cases notified by India has consistently exceeded levels of the previous year. 27,309 cases have been recorded in 1972, an increase of 68 per cent over the total in 1971.

For many States, the increase reflects more effective surveillance activities and the discovery of many cases which previously would not have been reported. In addition, since April the reporting system itself has been steadily improved. Smallpox is now principally confined to 66 of India's 358 districts. About 76 per cent cases have been reported from these districts which are located in five States. The principal foci are in north-central and north-east India in the States of West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Madhya Pradesh. A separate focus is present in Jammu and Kashmir where major epidemics are now occurring following introduction of the disease in spring of 1972 from other parts of India. The maximum cases of smallpox have been registered in the months April and May followed by March, February, January and December. Minimum cases have been registered in the month of October followed by September, August, July and June.

Trachoma : Trachoma infection is highly endemic in the States of Punjab including Haryana (79·1 per cent), Rajasthan (74·3 per cent), Uttar Pradesh (68·1 per cent), and Gujarat (56·0 per cent). The States of Madhya Pradesh (41·3 per cent), Bihar (35·0 per cent), Assam (25·2 per cent) and Mysore (22·6 per cent) are considered to be moderately endemic areas where the prevalence is more than 20 per cent but less than 50 per cent. The low endemic areas where the prevalence is noted to be under 20 per cent are the States of Jammu and Kashmir (16·8 per cent), Maharashtra (11·3 per cent), Kerala (8·7 per cent), Andhra Pradesh (5·3 per cent), Tamil Nadu (4·6 per cent), Orissa (2·7 per cent) and West Bengal (0·5 per cent).

About 4·5 million persons are estimated to be blind in India in comparison to the total world estimate of about 15 million. Trachoma and associated infections constitute the most important cause of preventible blindness.

The National Trachoma Control Programme was undertaken in 1963. The programme is being implemented in Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and Gujarat and on a limited scale in Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, Mysore and Jammu & Kashmir.

As of March 1971, control activities were in operation in 448 Community Development Blocks/Primary Health Centres. This brings the total population under the Control Programme to 36 million out of 229·80 million at risk. During the Fourth Plan period, it is proposed to bring an additional population of about 105 million under the control operation. It is planned that during 1970-71, 90 more Community Development Blocks will come under the Programme.

Influenza : An Influenza Centre was opened in 1950 at the Pasteur Institute, Coonoor, Tamil Nadu, to undertake study of and research in problems relating to influenza. The centre co-operates with the World Influenza Centre, London and other influenza centres organized by the WHO in different parts of the world.

Diabetes : The urban population in the country is more prone to diabetes than its counterparts in rural areas. On a rough estimate at the end of 1972 about 5·5 million people were suffering from diabetes in India. Of them, urban area's share was 3·3 million.

Tuberculosis : There are at present 525 TB clinics in the country. Sixteen districts are, however, still without a single T.B. clinic. There are 15 TB Demonstration and Training Centres.

According to World Health Organisation about two million infectious cases of tuberculosis (1972) have been reported in India. About 3,000 towns and urban areas and 600,000 villages are affected by tuberculosis. The Government of India proposes to have one BCG team in every district before the end of the Fourth Plan. The 276 BCG teams currently functioning in various States and Union Territories have vaccinated some 155 million people upto the end of August 1972.

The National Tuberculosis Institute of India, established by the Government of India in 1959 is responsible for formulating and continuous evaluation of India's National Tuberculosis Programme. It carries out applied research in Tuberculosis Epidemiology, Bacteriology and BCG Vaccination, Sociological Studies as well as operation Research. This institute also arranges for the training of tuberculosis programme workers. There are two more research institutions at Madanapalle, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu. Training is also imparted at other institutions, such as Vallabhbhai Patel Chest Institute, Delhi.

Anti-TB drugs are being procured and supplied by the Government of India to voluntary organisations which operate TB clinics and supply such drugs free of charge to TB patients under their care.

Venereal Diseases : India has an estimated 20 million people suffering from V.D. ; which comes to nearly 20 per cent of the reproductive age group population. About 5 per cent of the total population suffers from syphilis and an equal percentage from gonorrhoea. Yaws is prevalent in a few districts of Andhra Pradesh, Orissa, Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra.

V. D. control schemes are sponsored by the Union Government, which gives all the money needed to the States and Union Territories. In India, only about 300 clinics are there. Other than these clinics, few hospitals are having special wards for V. D. patients. A provision of Rs. 8·30 million has been made for the V. D. control programme in Fourth Plan.

Training facilities are available in the V. D. Training Centre, Safdarganj Hospital, New Delhi and the Institute of Venereology, Government General Hospital, Madras. Apart from these institutions, few colleges have a venereological department.

Air Pollution : The atmospheric pollution in cities like Delhi, Calcutta, Bombay and Kanpur has increased between 50 and 100 per cent since 1957. This affects the health condition of the people. The Central Public Health Engineering Research Institute, Nagpur is studying the effects of air pollution in Bombay. A national network of sampling for air quality has been set up in nine cities (Viz. Delhi, Calcutta, Madras, Kanpur, Bombay, Ahmedabad, Hyderabad, Jaipur and Nagpur).

The Union Government has set up an expert committee to study the general problem of air pollution in the country and to suggest ways and means including a draft legislation to control them. Government of India has decided to set up many stations to measure air pollution in all major cities. A beginning would be made with 10 of them being located in schools or colleges of Delhi with the help of teachers. Some other research institutions like International Institute for Population Studies, Bombay have taken up projects to study the quantum of air pollution in different big cities of India.

National Water Supply and Sanitation Programme: This programme was launched in 1954. During the three plan periods and three annual Plans, about 418,700 new wells were constructed and 304,000 new hand-operated tube wells were bored. In addition about 554,000 old wells were renovated.

The Fourth Plan outlay for the national water supply and sanitation programme is placed at Rs. 3,862·0 million for the States and Union Territories, who are to allocate the funds for the different schemes. The Plan envisages the following priorities for execution of water supply and sanitation programme ;

(ii) Schemes for controling water borne and filth borne diseases in endemic areas ;
(iii) Schemes in draught and scarcity areas and
(iv) Schemes to push up economic prosperity.

The programme also provides for the training of public health engineering personnels. The training programme is being implemented at the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute, Matunga, Bombay 400019, the All India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health, Calcutta, the Engineering College, Guindy, Tamil Nadu and the Engineering College, Roorkee, Uttar Pradesh. The Central Public Health Engineering Organisation (C/o Min. of Health and Fly. Plng.) has been set up for helping State Governments in the preparation and execution of their schemes and for giving technical advice and guidance. Similar organisations have also been established in most of the States. A sum of Rs. 25 million has been provided in the Fourth Plan for these training programmes.

DRUGS CONTROL :

Under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, the Central Drugs Standard Control Organisation is responsible for (i) controlling the quality of imported drugs moving in inter-State commerce ; (ii) co-ordinating the activities of the States ; (iii) laying regulatory measures and standards of drugs ; and (iv) granting approval to "new drugs" proposed to be imported or manufactured in the country. The State Drug Control Authorities, through an elaborate system of licensing of manufacturing and sales premises, exercise control over the quality of drugs manufactured, sold or distributed.

The prices of drugs are regulated under the provisions of the Drugs (Prices Control) Order of 1971, issued under the Essential Commodities Act of 1955 and is an amendment of the Drug Prices (Display and Control) Order of 1966. The order stipulates that the Union Government has powers to revise the price of any drug formulation unilaterally and that no drug manufacturer can increase the prices of drugs, once fixed, without the prior approval of the Government.

HEALTH EDUCATION

The Central Health Education Bureau at Temple Lane, Kotla Road, New Delhi 110001, established in November 1956, co-ordinates and promotes health education in the country through Health Education Bureau established in 15 States and 5 Union Territories.

The Bureau conducts one-year diploma course in Health Education under the auspices of the University of Delhi and conducts in-service training programmes for health and family planning education personnel. It conducts behavioural research on health aspects and develops health education curricula for different age-groups and teacher training. The Bureau organises exhibitions, maintains a film library and produces education and publicity materials for National Health Programmes.

Publications : The Central Health Education Bureau publishes monthly journals Swasth Hindi (English) and Arogya Sandesh (Hindi) for general readers and Director General of Health Services Chronicle for medical personnel. It also produces health education material — folders, pamphlets, posters, filmstrips, etc.

FOOD AND NUTRITION :

Several measures are being taken to meet the nutritional deficiency of certain vulnerable groups such as industrial workers, expectant and nursing mothers and school children. Skim milk powder supplied by the UNICEF and other organisations is distributed to children and expectant and nursing mothers. Mid-day meals are provided to about 13·1 million primary school children. Other schemes being implemented are protein supplement to the diet of the vulnerable groups, opening of canteens in industrial concerns and offices and manufacture and popularisation of cheap and nutritious food.

Following table shows the average per capita availability of food items in grams per day in relation to nutritional requirements of India for 1969 :

* All vegetables only. † Fruits only.

The programmes for 1970-71 include : (i) feasibility test of vitamins and minerals-fortification of staple food ; (ii) control of blindness among children caused by vitamin A deficiency ; (iii) prophylaxis against nutritional anaemia for mothers and children.

The Nutrition Advisory Committee of the Indian Council of Medical Research, appointed in June 1960, sponsors schemes for nutrition research, besides advising the Government of India on nutrition matters.

INDIGENOUS SYSTEMS OF MEDICINE

The Central Council for Research in Indian Medicine and Homoeopathy at E25, Defence Colony, New Delhi 110003, constituted in the year 1969-70 is responsible for initiating, guiding and co-ordinating scientific research in the different aspects, fundamental and applied, of Ayurveda, Sidha and Homoeopathy systems of Medicine and also for Yoga.

MEDICAL EDUCATION

At the commencement of the Fourth Plan there were 93 medical colleges in the country. During the Fourth Plan, ten new medical colleges will be opened. The doctor : population ratio has improved from 1 : 6,100 in 1961 to 1 : 4,730 in 1972 and is expected to improve to 1 : 4,300 by 1974.

(Refer to the Education chapter for a list of medical colleges.)

Training of Nurses : In the year 1960-61 there were about 27,000 trained nurses in the country. In 1970-71 this figure stood at about 77, 824. It is expected that by the end of the Fourth Plan there will be 88,000 nurses in the country.

The number of training institutions for nursing personnel and of students under training at the end of 1970-71 were as follows :

The figures within brackets indicate the number of students : Nurses 248 (19,815) ; Midwives 230 (5,159) ; Auxiliary Nurse-Midwives 312 (10,906) ; Health Visitors 17 (1,299).

Dental Education : There are now 15 Dental Institutions all affiliated to Universities, training students for the degree of Bachelor of Dental Surgery (B.D.S.), having facilities for about 600 admissions. (Refer to the chapter on Education for the list of dental institutions.)

Pharmacy : The Pharmacy Council of India, constituted under the Pharmacy Act of 1948 prescribes and regulates the minimum educational standards of studies in pharmacy. It has approved 281 institutions having a training capacity of 1,279 student pharmacists for practical training purposes.

There are also 47 institutions which offer pharmacy as a subject on their curricula, a list of which is given in the chapter on Education.

By the end of December 1971 there were 87,000 pharmacists registered in India.

STATUTORY COUNCILS

Census : Most of the population data in India are available from the Indian Censuses. The first synchronous Census of India was taken in 1881, and since then a census has been taken every tenth year. The last of the series is the Census of 1971 which gives the population count as of the sunrise of 1st April 1971. The previous censuses gave the population count as of the sunrise of 1st March, but the mid-term General Election of 1971 made it necessary to shift the census date by one month. The enumeration, therefore, started from 10th March and ended on 31st March, 1971. The households were revisited by the enumerators between 1st April to 3rd April 1971 to bring the picture up-to-date as on the sunrise of 1st April, 1971.

Size: The 1971 Census of India enumerated 547,949,809 persons comprising 283,936,614 males and 264,013,195 females. The present census count fell short by about 13 million from the projected population of 560 million (1st March 1971). Compared to the world's population, India's population constitutes nearly 15 per cent.

Growth : India's population which was 238 million in 1901 increased to 279 million in 1931 and to 548 million in 1971.

The rate of growth of India's population was slow till 1921 and since then it has tended to increase at a faster rate. During the 1911-21 decade the population decreased due to natural calamities and epidemics. In 1931 the population increased by 11·0 per cent from the previous Census. During the decade 1961-71 the population increased by 24·8 per cent which is the highest increase observed so far.

Growth of Population from 1901-1971

Year	Persons	Per cent Decade Variation
1901	238,396,327
1911	252,093,390	5·75
1921	251,321,213	(—) 0·31
1941	318,660,580	14·22
1951	361,088,090	13·31
1971	547,949,809	24·80

Future Growth : The recent increase in India's growth rate is due to a fall in death rate and not due to any increase in birth rate. Death rate has declined by nearly fifty per cent during the past 70 years. Reliable figures of birth and death rates are not available in India because of the deficiency of the registration data. Efforts are being made by the Registrar-General of India to improve the quality of the registration data and a scheme called the Sample Registration System has been launched in different parts of India. The object of the scheme is to have sample areas, both urban and rural, in different States and to obtain reliable birth and death data in those areas. Most reliable estimates, however, point out that the birth rate in India in 1961 was around 43 and death rate around 21 per 1,000 population. It is estimated that the death rate might decline still further and reach the low level of 10 per 1,000 population by 1980 or so. Birth rate would, therefore, be the crucial factor in determining the future growth of India's population.

State-wise Growth Rate: The decennial growth rate of 1961-71 shows that the highest rate was observed in the Union Territory of Chandigarh followed by Andaman and Nicobar Islands and Delhi. In case of States the highest rate was observed in Nagaland followed by Assam and Haryana. The differential growth rate is due to differential birth and death rates and internal migration.

Age Structure: One of the consequences of high birth rate is that India has a very 'young' population. Nearly 42 per cent of India's population is below the age of 15 years and only 12 per cent of the population are aged 50 years and over.

Rural-Urban : A very large proportion of India's population lives in rural areas, and urban population has grown from about 9 per cent in 1881 to about 20 per cent in 1971. Leaving aside the Union Territories, the most urbanised State in India is Maharashtra, in which about 31 per cent of the population lives in urban areas. Assam, Himachal Pradesh, Nagaland and Orissa States have less than 10 per cent urban population.

A little more than 52 per cent of the urban population of India lives in towns having a population of 100,000 and more. The corresponding figure for 1961 was 48·37 per cent. The growth of population in towns of large size is generally greater than in medium and small towns. In case of Class V towns (population size between 5,000 to 9,999), however, the population decreased during the decade 1961-71. As per 1971 Census, there are only 9 cities which have population of one million and above and they are Calcutta, Greater Bombay, Delhi, Madras, Hyderabad, Ahmedabad, Bangalore, Kanpur and Pune.

Sex Ratio : There are more males than females in India. In 1961 the sex ratio was 941 females per 1,000 males and in 1971 it decreased to 930 females per 1,000 males. Differential mortality by sex may be attributed to this disparity in sex ratio. Only in Kerala and Dadra & Nagar Haveli the sex ratio is favourable to females and in other places it is favourable to males. In West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir, Haryana, Punjab, Nagaland, Assam, Delhi, Chandigarh, Himachal Pradesh and Andaman & Nicobar Islands the sex ratio is very lower less than 900 females per 1,000 males.

Literacy : Literacy which is defined as capacity to read and write with understanding in any language was as low as 6 per cent in 1891 and only 8 per cent in 1931. In 1971 it had increased to 29 per cent. Male literacy was found to be nearly 39 per cent and female literacy was found to be about 19 per cent. Rural areas have lower literacy rate than urban areas.

Religion : According to 1971 Census 82·7 per cent of India's population belonged to Hindu religion and about 11·2 per cent to the Muslim religion. The percentage of Christians and Sikhs was 2·6 and 1·9 respectively. (Table at the end of chapter.)

Household Size: The average number of persons per household in India is around five, and this average has not changed much over the past 70 years.

Age at Marriage : India is one of the few countries where child marriages are still prevalent. Although, it is not legal to marry a girl before the age of 16 years, yet it was found in 1961 that in a number of States, the average age of female marriage was below the prescribed legal minimum. The average age of marriage for males in India in 1961 was 21·6 years and of females 15·8 years. While the average marriage age for males has increased only by 2 years over the last 70 years, in case of females it has increased by 3·5 years.

The average marriage age for males and females in 1971 works out to 22·5 and 17·1 years respectively. These figures are based on one per cent sample.

There are significant regional differences in the mean age at marriage of females. Mysore, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Punjab and Assam have higher marriage age than Andhra Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Orissa and Madhya Pradesh.

Important urban-rural caste and religious differences are found in the mean age at marriage. Broadly speaking the mean marriage age is higher in the urban areas by 2·3 years than in the rural areas. The Christians tend to marry late followed by Sikhs, Jains, Muslims and Hindus.

Among the Hindus, the scheduled caste have the lowest marriage age.

Age at Widowhood: It was found in the 1911 Census that 17 per cent of the females were widows. This percentage declined to 15·5 in 1931 and to 11 in 1961. The mean age at widowhood of those who are widowed by age 45 was found to be 34 years in the 1951–61 decade and 34·8 years in the 1961–71 decade.

Fertility : The fertility of Indian women is high and between 6 and 7 children are born to a couple who remain married throughout the reproductive period. This average number is, however, reduced to 4 or 5 when all ever-married women, that is, those who are widowed, divorced or separated are also considered.

The pattern of age-specific fertility among females between the ages 15-44 shows that highest fertility exists among females in the ages between 25 to 29 years. The fertility curve shows a low but significant rate in the ages 15-19 years, a sharp rise in the age group 20-24 years with the peak being reached between 25-29 years. The rate then tends to decline and the decline is very sharp after age 35.

Of the children born in 1969, about 55 per cent are of first-three order births and 45 per cent are of the fourth and higher orders. About 20·5 per cent are first order births, 18·1 per cent second order, 16·4 per cent third order, 14·5 per cent fourth order, 11·6 per cent fifth order and 18·9 per cent sixth and higher order births.

There is some evidence to indicate that fertility of those women who are educated above Matriculation and also of those who marry after the age of 19 is lower than of those who are less educated or marry earlier.

Occupational Category : According to 1971 Census, roughly 34 per cent of the population of India is in the working force. About 53 per cent of the males and 13 per cent of the females are workers. Slightly larger proportion of the rural population is in working force. The work participation rate by residence shows that 34·53 per cent of the rural population (53·55 per cent male and 14·55 per cent female) is in working force whereas 29·56 per cent of the urban population (48·62 per cent male and 7·37 per cent female) is in working force.

The work participation rate of 1971 cannot be compared with that of any of the earlier censuses because of change in definition. In the 1961 Census 43 per cent of the total population was recorded as workers. According to the Registrar-General of India, the concept of worker at the 1961 Census tended to inflate workers as persons who were basically non-workers like housewives, students, etc., were included in the category of workers even though their participation was very marginal.

Among the workers as given in the 1971 Census, nearly 43 per cent are cultivators, nearly 26 per cent are agricultural labourers and nearly 31 per cent are engaged in other occupations. In the rural areas nearly 51 per cent of the workers are cultivators, 30 per cent are agricultural labourers and 19 per cent are engaged in other occupations. In urban areas nearly 5 per cent of the workers are cultivators, 6 per cent agricultural labourers and 89 per cent are engaged in other occupations.

MIGRANTS AND REFUGEES

BANGLA DESH :

FOLLOWING the exodus which started in January, 1964, 854,000 refugees had crossed over to India by the end of 1969. By the end of 1970 this figure rose to 1·11 million.

Reception Centres were opened at Petrapole, Hasnabad and Basirhat in West Bengal and defunct relief camps were reactivised and several new camps opened to rehabilitate them.

By the end of 1969 there were only 5,121 families to be rehabilitated but with the fresh influx of 259,436 by 1971 the number went up to 51,332 families. The astronomical figure of almost 9·89 million refugees who had come into India in 1971 after the revolution in East Pakistan had made the rehabilitation problem a truly gigantic one.

Rehabilitation of migrants is treated as a national problem. Resettlement is undertaken mainly in agriculture, small trade and industries. Efforts are also made to secure employment in Government departments and public sector undertakings.

Upto 31st December, 1971, 38,820 families had been rehabilitated in agriculture, small trade and industry in various States including Dandakaranya Project, especially undertaken for refugees.

Besides, 5,733 families had settled down in Tripura, on exchange of their properties in erstwhile East Pakistan, thus making a total of 44,533.

New migrant families are being rehabilitated in agricultural projects taken up in Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Assam, Andhra Pradesh and Arunachal Pradesh etc. They are also being rehabilitated in Dandakaranya and in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands. Efforts are continuing to locate more agricultural lands for the resettlement of migrants who came during 1970.

OLD MIGRANTS FROM ERSTWHILE EAST PAKISTAN

The refugees from erstwhile East Pakistan who had come over to India upto the 31st March, 1958, are known as 'old migrants'. They number about 4·12 million and a bulk of them viz., over 3·1 million constituting three fourths of the total migrant population have stayed on in West Bengal.

Expenditure on Old Migrants : The residuary problem of rehabilitation of old migrants in West Bengal was assessed and it was estimated that a sum of Rs. 218·8 million would be required for the liquidation of the refugee problem. A sum of Rs. 180 million had so far been sanctioned. The implementation of the various schemes covered by the residuary assessment rests with the West Bengal Government. As on 31st December 1971 the total expenditure incurred on the relief and rehabilitation of old migrants in West Bengal was estimated to be about Rs. 1,660 million.

D. P.s FROM WEST PAKISTAN

As a result of the partition of India in August, 1947, about 4·74 million non-Muslims came to India from West Pakistan. Most of them were in destitute condition and needed immediate relief and facilities for rehabilitation. The immediate problem tackled by the Government at the time was that of provision of relief and accommodation. After this phase was over, the scheme for payment of compensation to the displaced persons who had left their properties in West Pakistan was undertaken. As a result 507,034 applications were received for payment of compensation and rehabilitation grants upto 30th November, 1971. The Government of India had created a 'Compensation Pool' which consisted of the evacuee properties left by Muslims who migrated to Pakistan and Central Government contribution to the extent expenditure was incurred by them on housing schemes and loans to State Governments and D.P.s for rehabilitation purposes. The compensation payable to the displaced persons in respect of their verified claims was paid in cash and also in the form of adjustment of cost of properties and towards the liquidation of the loans etc. due from them. As on November, 1971, almost all applications for compensation were settled except 34 cases, involving a payment of Rs. 1,911·6 million out of which Rs. 614·2 million were in cash.

OLD WEST PAKISTAN MINORITIES

Migration of minority communities from West Pakistan was more or less complete by 1949. About 4·74 million displaced persons had come over to India. The work relating to their rehabilitation was practically over by the year 1962.

Urban Properties : The total number of evacuee properties left by the Muslims was 302,000 while 200,000 properties were constructed, either directly by the Government of India or indirectly through the State Governments etc. Of the foregoing, over 300,000 evacuee properties and almost all the Government built properties had been disposed of by 31st December, 1970, leaving a balance of only 5,000 undisposed properties.

Rural Resettlement : About 2·42 million hectares of agricultural land was abandoned by Muslims who had migrated to Pakistan. These lands were also utilised for payment of compensation to the displaced persons migrating from the rural areas of West Pakistan.

EXPENDITURE ON D.P.s

Upto the end of 1971–72, an estimated sum of Rs.9,730·00 million will have been spent on displaced persons etc., as per details on next page.

ENCLAVES & REHABILITATION

Rehabilitation of Persons Affected by the Transfer of Indian Enclaves to Pakistan : The Nehru-Noon Agreement of 1958 envisaged the exchange of 123 Indian Enclaves in Pakistan for 74 Pakistani Enclaves in the Indian Union. The Constitution Amendment Act, 1960, and the Acquired Territories Merger Act, 1960, provide for the exchange of enclaves after demarcation. No exchange of the areas has so far actually taken place owing to Pakistan's insistence that demarcation of erstwhile East Pakistan/West Pakistan borders should take place simultaneously with the demarcation of Beru Bari which is sub judice.

As regards the families from Indian Enclaves, who have already come over to the mainland or who might come later, it has been decided to give them rehabilitation assistance as admissible to the new migrants.

Schemes Sanctioned for Rehabilitation of 1,168 Families : A sum of Rs. 12·2 million has so far been sanctioned for the rehabilitation of 1,168 families (1,147 agriculturists and 21 non-agriculturists) who have come over from these enclaves to Jalpaiguri, Cooch Behar, and West Dinajpur districts in north Bengal.

A provision of Rs. 3 million has been made for the rehabilitation of these families in Budget Estimates for 1971–72.

Relief and Resettlement Operations in Jammu & Kashmir and other Border Areas : The Indo-Pak conflict of August-September, 1965, posed the problem of providing relief to nearly 364,900 persons affected in the States of Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab and Rajasthan. 300,000 of these persons belonged to Jammu and Kashmir, 52,000 to Punjab and 8,400 to Rajasthan apart from 4,500 persons of the "minority" community who had migrated from West Pakistan to Rajasthan.

These people were persuaded to go back to their original sites, and, in deserving cases, given grants for reconstruction or repairs of houses, shops and maintenance grants and trade loans. In some cases, alternative sites were developed for resettling these families.

The work in respect of relief and rehabilitation of people affected by the Indo-Pak conflict is now almost over.

DANDAKARANYA PROJECT

The Dandakaranya Development Authority, was constituted in the year 1958, for the resettlement of displaced persons from East Pakistan and for the development of the area. 19,906 families had been rehabilitated by the end of October 1971. The programme for opening up of the area by development of infrastructure, such as roads, culverts, irrigation projects, schools, hospitals, etc., progressed satisfactorily. Most of them have been provided work and have been lodged in work site camps.

Area of Operations: The Project area is spread over the districts of Bastar in Madhya Pradesh and Koraput in Orissa. The actual area of operation is confined to the four resettlement zones, namely, Umerkote and Malkangiri in Koraput district of Orissa and Paralkote and Kondagaon zones in Bastar district of Madhya Pradesh. The headquaters of the Project are located at Koraput while the offices of the various organisations of the Project are located at convenient places like Jagdalpur, Kondagaon and Ambaguda.

AGRICULTURAL PROJECTS

An agreement was concluded with the Government of Japan in August, 1970, for the agricultural development of the Paralkote zone in the Dandakaranya Project. Six Japanese experts have already arrived in the project area. The Government of Japan would also provide, at its own expense, machinery, vehicles and tools required for the implementation of the development programme. Model blocks are proposed to be taken up for intensive agricultural and community development in the area.

Agriculture : All the 14,579 agriculturist families in position at village sites have been allotted land for agriculture. The cultivated area during the last Khariff (1971) was 30,922·15 hectares and under Rabi it was 121·40 hectares. The crops grown were paddy, hybrid maize, mesta, til, arhar, urad, moong, ragi and lobia.

Irrigation : In order to provide irrigation facilities, two dams, namely, Bhaskal (Umerkote) and Pakhanjore had already been completed with an irrigated area of 4,856·23 hectares of which about 4,046·86 hectares would benefit the local Adivasis. Two other dams, viz., the Paralkote and the Satiguda (Malkangiri) were under construction. These dams would irrigate about 25,292·87 hectares. Apart from this 32 minor irrigation schemes and 24 lift irrigation schemes had been completed. 5 minor schemes were under execution.

Soil Conservation : Till November, 1971, 41,371·56 hectares had been contour surveyed. 35,776·89 hectares had been contour bunded by machine and 4,094·14 hectares had been contour bunded by manual labour.

Water Supply : 1,192 tubewells had been completed. In addition, 221 masonry wells, and 197 village tanks had been completed. 61 masonry wells, 13 village tanks and 28 headwater tanks were under construction.

Education : 219 primary schools, 22 middle schools and 2 high schools and one Industrial Training Institute are established.

Release of land : The resettlement of families in Dandakaranya is dependent upon the release of suitable lands by the State Governments. The State Governments of Madhya Pradesh and Orissa had upto November, 1971, released to the Project authorities 38,827·35 hectares and 57,552·52 hectares of land in Bastar district of Madhya Pradesh and Koraput district of Orissa respectively, making up a total of 96,379·87 hectares.

Reclamation : An area of 57,040.89 hectares had been found suitable for cultivation after soil survey. Out of this, 54,278·1 hectares had been fully reclaimed. Reclamation of the remaining 2,762·79 hectares was in progress.

Resettlement : 19,906 families of displaced persons had been moved to village sites upto the end of October, 1971. After excluding those who deserted of their own accord, 15,410 families (5,399 old migrants and 10,011 new migrants) were living in the villages. Of these, 14,579 families (5,088 old migrants and 9,491 new migrants) were agriculturists and 831 families (311 old migrants and 520 new migrants) were non-agriculturists.

In the wake of the heavy influx from East Pakistan during 1970, it was decided to induct 10,000 families in the Project. In pursuance of this decision, 10,784 families were dispersed from West Bengal to the Project area. These families had been moved to the work sites in the Paralkote and Malkangiri zones of the Project for gainful employment.

Villages : In the 281 villages set up for displaced persons, 9,359 houses had been constructed and 2,013 houses were under construction.

Medical and Public Health : 6 hospitals and 7 primary health centres, 3 dispensaries and mobile medical units had been established.

Animal Husbandry : 15,782 pairs of bullocks and 3,510 heifers and calves have been procured and distributed to the settlers

Roads : 439·36 kms. of main roads, 569·71 kms. of link roads and 259·11 kms. of roads connecting tribal settlements have been completed.

Expenditure : A net expenditure of Rs. 443·2 million had been incurred on the Dandakaranya Development Scheme upto 30th September, 1971. The break-up of which is given below :

General Development Rs. 99·5 million ; Tribal Welfare Rs. 69·0 million ; Resettlement of D.Ps. Rs. 211·1 million ; Residual value of machinery assets and recoveries Rs. 63·6 million ; Total 443·2 million.

Programme for 1972-73 : The programme for the year 1972–73 envisages resettlement of 1,800 families of new migrants in agriculture and 200 families in non-agricultural occupations. Besides, 100 families of landless Adivasis were also proposed to be settled during the year.

Facilities and Rehabilitation Benefits : An agriculturist settler family is allotted about 2·25 hectares of agricultural land. Besides, 668·90 sq. meters are being provided for homestead plots while 0·25 hectares around homestead plots are allotted for horticulture. The non-agriculturist families are given an agricultural plot of 1·67 hectares and homestead plots of 668·90 sq. meters.

Progress of Rehabilitation : The overall progress of rehabilitation of new migrants in different States, other than the Dandakaranya area and Andaman Islands, is briefly indicated in the following paragraphs.

Andhra Pradesh : Isagaon Project : As against 1,000 families proposed to be settled in this project, 844 families were resettled as on 21st December, 1971. 2,739·82 hectares of land have been reclaimed and 1,755·67 hectares have been brought under cultivation.

METRIC SYSTEM

THE country adopted the metric system of weights and measures on 1st Oct. 1958. On that date the units of mass were introduced in selected areas, and the metric system generally in certain specified industries and Government departments. The law (the Standards of Weights and Measures Act, 1956) passed in December 1956, provides that the system should be adopted in the country within a period of 10 years, from the date of enactment. As a result, after December 1966, the metric system, as recognised by law, started functioning throughout the country.

LABOUR

EMPLOYMENT

As compared to 1961, the total number of workers employed in most of the States in 1971 has registered a fall. Andhra, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh have found fewer jobs for workers while Kerala, Punjab and West Bengal have recorded a rise in employment. The following table gives the break-down of employment in each State.

The breakdown of employment year-wise in these two sectors is given in Table II and that of employment industrywise is given in Table III.

Employment in the organised sector increased slightly faster (2·8%) during 1971-72 than in 1970-71 (2·5%). At the end of June 1972, the number of employed persons in the organised sector increased to 18·16 million giving a percentage rise of 0·4 over the figure of March 1972. The pace of increase in the level of employment in the public sector has generally been higher than that in the private sector since the beginning of the Fourth Plan.

The total working population was 139·5 million in 1951, 188·4 million in 1961, 212 million in 1970 and is expected to reach 280 million in 1980.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The spectre of unemployment continues to loom large on our horizon. It has in fact become a massive and burgeoning problem.

On a conservative estimate there are about 30 million unemployed in India today. Annually, there is an addition of about 7 million job seekers. It is estimated that total unemployment is likely to be around 65 million by the end of the Fifth Plan.

Employment by end 1972 had recorded a growth rate of only 0·2% against a 3·5% rise in the number of people registered with employment exchanges.

Judging by the registration in various employment exchanges in the country, unemployment, including educated unemployment, is mounting. The rate of growth of job-seekers in the labour market is faster than the employment opportunities provided in development schemes.

As against a rise of 18·8% during 1970, the number of job seekers increased by 25·3% in 1971 and 35·2% in 1972.

The figures tabulated by the Labour Ministry show that the increase in absolute numbers was from 4·1 million at the end of 1970 to 5·1 million at the end of 1971 and further to about 6·9 million when the year 1972 closed.

EDUCATED UNEMPLOYED

The increase is even more alarming in the case of educated job-seekers. From 1·8 million in 1970, they rose to 2·3 million in 1971 and about 3·3 million in 1972, signifying a percentage rise of 26 and 43 respectively.

There were about 23,000 engineering graduates and about 60,000 diploma holders in engineering in search of jobs. More than half among the educated unemployed (53·3%) were matriculates and about 18% were graduates and post-graduates.

The number of job-seekers on live registers of employment exchanges at the end of 1972 was 6,895,089. West Bengal headed the list with 1,381,000, Bihar came next with 913,000 and Maharashtra third with 598,000.

The figure of 6·9 million unemployed as calculated from the live registers in the employment exchanges, does not give a correct picture of the actual number of total unemployed in the country. According to a rough survey, about 10% of the unemployed did not register at all with the employment exchanges.

SOME IMPORTANT JOB SCHEMES

To counter this menacing problem of unemployment, the Central Government had initiated various development schemes to generate employment.

The Bhagwati Committee has suggested in its interim report (February '72) that a total of Rs. 7,400 million should be found over the next two years to create 4 million new jobs mainly to deal with the problem of rural employment.

In 1971-72 a provision of Rs. 500 million was made outside the Plan for execution of essentially labour-intensive projects in all the districts of the country. An additional provision of Rs. 250 million was also made for educated unemployed youth.

In the budget of 1972-73, there is a lumpsum provision of Rs. 1,250 million to cover requirements of rural water supply, rural home sites, slum clearance and improvements, and primary education to the schemes for educated unemployed.

The Crash Scheme for Rural Employment was introduced during the financial year 1971-72. The scheme with a total provision of Rs. 500 million was meant to cover all the districts in the country, aiming to provide unskilled work for about 1,000 persons in every district. The projects under the scheme were to include labour-intensive activities like rural communication, minor irrigation, afforestation, soil conservation etc. This scheme has been allocated another Rs. 500 million for 1972-73.

In 1971-72 the scheme resulted in the generation of 80·822 million mandays of employment, thus providing employment to roughly 320,000 persons during the year for varying periods, or to an average of 957 persons per district, against 1,000 persons envisaged in the scheme for 348 districts for which proposals were approved.

During the year 1972-73, the scheme is reported to have generated an employment of 60 million mandays in the villages till end of October 1972, giving job opportunities to about 300,000 people for 250 days in a year.

Educated Unemployed — Schemes for

Schemes for educated unemployed initiated in 1971-72 and continued through 1972-73 were expected to create additional employment opportunities for 65,000 people

In addition, another Rs. 1,000 million scheme to generate self-employment opportunities for 500,000 more people had been approved by the Planning Commission and would be implemented between April 1973 and March 1974.

The other special employment programmes launched in the States and Union Territories during 1972-73 at a total cost of Rs. 270 million were expected to generate employment for about 3·7 million people, inclusive of 70,000 educated people, of whom 11,000 would be engineers. The scheme is expected to continue during 1973-74 also.

LABOUR UNREST

Strikes and lockouts in 1971 cost the nation heavily resulting in a loss of production of Rs. 905·4 million. There was however some improvement in industrial relations in 1972. The loss in terms of industrial production is estimated at Rs. 606·5 million. (Provisional official estimate).

But the actual net loss is likely to be more as the loss of Rs. 606·5 million is related to only 1,252 cases of lockouts and strikes as against a total number of 2,614 such incidents in 1972.

The lockouts and strikes in 1972 were mainly due to disputes over issues relating to wages and allowances, bonus, retrenchment and hours of work. The maximum number of 662 industrial disputes were reported from Maharashtra, followed by West Bengal with 339, Tamil Nadu 334, Bihar 236, Uttar Pradesh 192, Kerala 183, Gujarat 120 and Madhya Pradesh 102.

The number of strikes and lockouts elsewhere : Mysore 94, Andhra 89, Rajasthan 69, Haryana 36. Goa, Daman and Diu and Orissa 31 each. Delhi 28, Assam 20, Punjab 15, Tripura 12, Pondicherry 12, Jammu & Kashmir 6, Himachal Pradesh, Andaman and Nocobar Islands 1 each.

Mandays lost on account of strikes and lockouts during 1971 were 13·65 million (Provisional) of which 2·03 million (Prov.) were in the Central Sphere undertakings and 11·62 million (prov.) in the State Sphere undertakings.

During the previous five years, the figures were : 1966 — 13·85 million, 1967 — 17·14 million, 1968 — 17·28 million, 1969 — 19·05 million and 1970 — 20·56 million (against reported provisional figure of 17·17 million).

SCHEME OF FAMILY PENSION-CUM-LIFE ASSURANCE FOR INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

This Scheme is formulated for the following categories :

(1) workers covered by the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952 and who were contributing to the Fund at the rate of 8 per cent of their pay.

(2) workers paying provident fund contribution at the rate of 6¼ per cent under the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952 ; and

(3) coal miners who are already paying provident fund contributions at the rate of 8 per cent of pay under the Coal Mines Provident Fund and Bonus Schemes Act, 1948.

The Scheme envisages the creation of Family Pension-cum-Life Assurance Funds under the two Acts by diverting a portion of the present employers' and workers' contributions to the Provident Funds, to which will be added a suitable contribution by the Central Government. From out of the Funds so created, a family pension at a prescribed scale is payable to the survivors of industrial workers, who die while in service before reaching the age of 60 years. Besides family pension, a compulsory life insurance benefit upto Rs. 1,000 will also be payable to the survivors of the workers in the event of death in service. In the case of retirement, a lumpsum payment upto a maximum of Rs. 4,000 will be made to the worker depending on the length of service.

An Ordinance giving effect to these proposals — The Labour Provident Funds Laws (Amendment) Ordinance, 1971 — was promulgated by the President on February 13, 1971. Two schemes of family pension, one for workers in Coal Mines and one for workers covered by the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952 were prepared and brought into force w.e.f. 1st March 1971. The Ordinance has since been replaced by an Act of Parliament.

Safety and Working Conditions : Apart from the statutory obligations under the factories Act with regard to maintenance of safety, other measures to encourage safety in factories continued to be adopted.

The National Safety Council for Industries other than Mines, set up at the Central Labour Institute, Bombay, had 658 corporate members and 133 individual members by end December 1971. The Council organises safety courses and conducts seminars and distributes safety posters and literature.

The National Council for Safety in Mines set up in July 1963 continued to promote safety education and propaganda in all major coal and mica mines. Pit Safety Committees were organised and at the end of 1971, there were 708 such committees functioning in coal and non-coal mines.

Factory Advice Service: The Directorate General of Factory Advice Service and Labour Institutes, Bombay, acts as a co-ordinating agency for bringing about a measure of uniformity in regard to administration of the Factories Act in the States, looks after the administration of the Indian Dock Labourers' Act, 1934 and the regulations made thereunder and renders, through the Central Labour Institute, Bombay and the Regional Labour Institutes at Calcutta, Madras and Kanpur, service to industry by carrying out training and research into the various aspects of industrial development as related to the human factor.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

The scheme of workers' education continued to make steady progress. The Central Board of Workers' Education had established 30 Regional centres throughout the country to serve important industrial centres. Sub-regional centres have also been opened wherever found necessary. During 1971, 2,845 worker-teachers and 168,943 workers were trained. Grant-in-Aid amounting to Rs. 168,000 were given to 132 unions/institutions to organise their own workers' education programme.

CRIME IN INDIA

Background : The trend of crime during the sixties shows a rise till the year 1967 — except for a marginal decrease in 1963 and 1965 — and a decrease thereafter. However, the growth of crime outsteps the growth of population during the years. The population increased from 431·7 million during 1960 to 550·0 million in 1970 representing an increase of 27·4 per cent, while the total cognizable crime under the Indian Penal Code increased from 606,367 to 955,422 during the same period, showing an increase of 57·6 per cent.

The Government of India have set up a National Council of Sports and Physical Education to advise on the promotion and development of sports, games, physical education and recreation in the country. It replaces the All-India Council of Sports, whose term expired at the end of November, 1970.

OLYMPIC RECORDS

'Citius, Altius, Fortius' — 'Swifter, Higher, Stronger'

In the world of sport, no event can match the OLYMPIC GAMES for colour and pageantry, for tension and excitement, for sheer brilliance of performance — from the days of Coroebus of Elis, a cook who won the first recorded Olympic event in 776 B.C., to the present day.

The history of the OLYMPIC GAMES is rich with famous names. Every four years, in some major city of the world, thousands of Olympians gather for athletic competition. In 1896 Baron Pierre de Coubertin fathered the modern Olympic Games. "The important thing" he said, "in the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part. The essential thing in life is not conquering but fighting well."

AGRICULTURE

Assam is primarily an agricultural state. Agriculture sustains about 72 per cent of its population but only one third of its area is cropped.

The State is divided into the plains of Brahmaputra valley and the hill divisions. The plains are covered by most fertile alluvial soils which are suitable for growing rice, wheat, sugarcane, cotton, banana, tobacco etc. The hilly areas are suitable for cultivation of fruit crops.

Assam is also known for its colourful orchids which have a good export potential.

Rice is the most important foodgrain grown in the State and accounts for more than 72 per cent of the total gross area under crops. Other important crops are pulses, sugarcane, oilseeds, potato and jute. (Please see article on 'Agriculture' for area cultivated and production.)

Land ceiling : 75 bighas (10 hectares) per family.

Commercial Crops : Tea is the principal commercial crop in Assam which accounts for more than 7 per cent of the total net area sown in the State. Jute (5 per cent of the total sown area), sugarcane, mustard, cotton and potato are other important cash crops grown in the State.

Forests : The forest area in Assam covers about 47,900 sq. kms. or nearly 39 per cent of the State's total area.

The Assam forests can broadly be classified into four categories, viz. reserved forests (16,800 sq. kms.), protected forests (300 sq. kms.), unclassed forests (24,400 sq. kms.) and private forests. The out-turn of timber and fuel from the forests during 1967-68 was 318,000 cubic feet and 209,000 cubic respectively. The forests of Assam also yield cane, thatch, bamboo, agrawood, keitha and medicinal plants.

Dairying : The last census of livestock was taken in 1966 according to which the total livestock was 8,457,000 (Cattle : 6,104,000 ; Buffalo : 551,000 ; Goat : 1,461,000 and others 351,000).

Poultry : No. of poultry : 9,880,000 (1966) ; No. of eggs (1969-70) : 2,480,000.

Fisheries : The main sources of fish production in the state are the natural fisheries of the rivers and their tributaries. These number about 750. Fish landing from inland fisheries during 1970 was 26,500 tonnes.

Irrigation and Power Projects : Please see main chapter on "Irrigation and Power Projects."

INDUSTRIES

During the first decade of planning the industrial sector in the State remained practically stagnant. Towards the latter part of the Second Plan and early part of the third Plan a number of new industries have been operating in Assam, namely a bicycle factory, a spun silk mill, two cotton spinning mills, some re-rolling and fabrication units, a mixed fertiliser plant, a hard board factory, refineries at Gauhati and Digboi, Jute mill at Silghat, a sugar mill at Baruabamungaon (a co-operative enterprise) and fruit processing plant. Though outlay for development of infrastructure like power, transport etc. was substantial the total private sector investment (including tea and oil) was only Rs. 2,200 million. However, there is good scope for further development of small industries.

Later, two major projects, viz., Noonmati Refinery (Third Plan) and Namrup Fertiliser plant (spilled over to annual ad hoc plans) both in the Central sector and a third, the Gas Distribution Project (the Assam Gas Company) in the State Government sector were established. The Noonmati Refinery has led to the establishment of India Carbon Products Ltd. During the Third Plan the State Government took over from the private sector the implementation of the Chirra Cement Project which started production in 1966.

The new industries which are being set up in the Central sector are a refinery, paper mills at Nowgong and Cachar districts, a petro-chemical complex at Bongaigaon. A power tiller factory, a cigarette factory, and a cement factory at Bokajan (Mikir Hills). These in turn are expected to give an impetus to further industrialisation in the State. Some of the fields indicated by industrial development bodies are petro-chemical based products, synthetic caffeine, fruit preservation, pulp and paper, plywood industry, sugar mills, steel billets, agricultural implements, automobile tyres and PVC leather and tubes.

Other industrial establishments include (1) Asoka Paper Mills Ltd. at Jogighopa, (2) Assam Alkali Allied and Chemicals Ltd., Jogighopa and Assam Petro-Chemicals Ltd., Namrup.

Steps have been taken by the State Government for setting up a sugar mill at Cachar at a cost of Rs. 26·00 million.

Tea industry plays an important role in the State's economy contributing nearly 11 per cent towards the State income.

Industrial Estates : Industrial estates have been established at Gauhati, Nalbari, Dhekiajuli, Tinsukia, Jorhat and Badarpur. Two more estates are under construction — one each at Nowgong and Sibsagar.

Production : Trends of output of selected industries during 1969 and 1970 respectively were as follows :

Tea (million kgs.) 208·2 , 215·16 ; Sugar (million kgs.) : 5·0; 6·6; Cement (thousand tonnes) : 69·4; 54·0 ; Matches (million gross boxes) : 5·12; 5·39 ; Fertiliser (thousand tonnes) (a) Urea : 24·7 ; 27·5 ; (b) Ammonium Sulphate : 66·9 ; 60·5 ; Electricity (million kwt.) 309·5 ; — ; Commercial Plywood (million sq. metres) : 3·41 ; 3·46 ; Raw Silk (thousand kgs.) 72 ; — ; Silk Yarn (thousand kgs.) 173 ; — .

GENERAL

Rainfall: The normal rainfall in the plains is 2,380 mms. and that of the hills is 2,550 mms.

Rivers: The Brahmaputra and her tributaries: the Subansiri, the Bhareli, the Dhansiri, and the Manas.

Flood Protection: The turbulence of River Brahmaputra causes widespread havoc all over Assam. Some Rs. 260 million has been spent on protection works until the beginning of Fourth Plan. More is needed. The Brahmaputra Flood Control Commission has calculated that short term measures spread over 5–6 years will cost Rs. 1,000 million and long-term measures such as building dams on the Dihang and Subansiri Rs. 400 million. At present Rs. 40–Rs. 50 million are being spent every year. This is woefully inadequate.

High Court: It will be known as Gauhati High Court and will serve Meghalaya, Assam, Manipur and Tripura.

Five Year Plans: Starting its First Plan with a moderate sum of Rs. 205·1 million, Assam executed the later two Five Year Plans with actual expenditure of Rs. 544·8 million and Rs. 1,324·4 million respectively. The state expended Rs. 608 million, Rs. 863·9 million and Rs. 1,129·3 million during the three Annual Plans and the First three years of the Fourth Plan. Even after all these Plans at a total cost of Rs. 4,675·0 million Assam still lags behind with other states in economic development. There was no investment in central industrial projects in Assam during the 1st two Plans. During the Third Plan, the Centre invested Rs. 328 million and the investment upto 1968 totalled Rs. 400 million. Total outlay for Assam Fourth Plan excluding Meghalaya comes to Rs. 2,237·5 million (Hill areas Rs. 320 million). The Centre's share in this will be Rs. 1,828·0 million.

Early in 1948 it was decided to build a new capital for the Punjab at a sight about 388 kms. north of Delhi. This afforded an ideal opportunity to town planners and architects. A team of experts planned the city under the overall guidance and direction of Charles Edouard Jeannert, the French architect popularly known as 'le Corbousier' (meaning 'A man with a crow's eye').

The city was inaugurated as the capital of the Punjab by President Dr. Rajendra Prasad on October 7, 1953.

FORMATION

On November 1, 1966 the Punjab was divided into three units, Punjab, Haryana and Chandigarh. Punjab and Haryana are separate States, while Chandigarh remains a Union Territory. Following is the text of the official announcement of the Central Cabinet on June 9, 1966: "Chandigarh Capital Project, which does not form part of either of the two regions (Punjab and Haryana) shall be constituted into a Union Territory. The Central Government will also acquire powers to give directions to the Governments of the two States to regulate land use in the surrounding areas declared as "controlled areas". Chandigarh will continue to be the capital of both the States of Punjab and Haryana". On November 1, 1966 the Union Territory of Chandigarh came into being in accordance with the Constitution (18th Amendment) Act providing for the linguistic re-organisation of the Punjab.

Subsequent to this the Central Cabinet announced a decision on January 29, 1970 providing for the transfer of the capital project area of Chandigarh to the Punjab within the next five years. Pending the construction of a new capital by Haryana, Chandigarh will remain a Union Territory.

The main agricultural wealth of the State consists of fruits such as apple, apricot, peach and vegetables like seed potato, ginger, tomato, peas etc. Salt is another important item, while forests yield, timber, firewood and charcoal. Forests supply the largest quantities of coniferous timber in Northern India. They are the main source of revenue. Estimated revenue for 1972-73 being Rs. 299·9 million. Seed potato is the chief cash crop. During 1971-72, 60,000 tonnes of potato is estimated to have been produced over an area of 13,770 hectares. (Pl. see also main Chapter on 'Agriculture.')

Livestock : After the merger of the hilly areas of Punjab with Himachal Pradesh in 1966 the livestock census as compared to those of 1951 provided the following picture:

Dairying : The present handling of milk per day on an average comes to 400 litres and 2,500 litres at Nahan and Mandi respectively.

The State Government has established a full-fledged dairy at Chakkar in Mandi district. This dairy plant is handling 10,000 litres of milk per day at present, which would be gradually increased to 20,000 litres. Simla town milk scheme has also been started and will be linked up with the Mandi Scheme.

Irrigation and Power Projects : The State's hydel power potential constitutes about 20 per cent of the aggregate hydro power resources of the country. The rivers Sutlej and Beas provide about 80 per cent of the total hydel power resources of the State. Almost all the hydro-electric projects in the State lend themselves to easy execution and expeditious completion. (For details see chapter on Irrigation and power schemes.)

With the integration of the erstwhile areas of Punjab with Himachal Pradesh in 1966, the State's size doubled both in area and population. This made the State richer than before as Kangra and Kulu districts offered numerous avenues for setting up small-scale industries and development of local handicrafts.

The two major industrial ventures — the Rs. 300 million newsprint factory in the private sector and Rs. 80 million cement plant in the public sector — are to be set up soon. It is expected that the newsprint factory when commissioned will produce 200 tonnes of newsprint a day and will give employment to 10,000 persons. The cement factory will have a capacity of 600 tonnes daily.

At present two main units, the Bilaspur turpentine and rosin factory and Nahan foundry and rosin factories are earning revenue for the State. During 1971-72 the Nahan factories had produced goods worth Rs. 5·9 million. These factories are producing turpentine oil, rosin, varnish, mono-block pumps, electric metres, sugarcane crushers and several other agricultural implements. During the last four years, as many as 576 industrial units, big and small, have been set up.

The number of small-scale industrial units increased rapidly with the integration of new areas in 1966. At present, there are 4,000 such units in the State.

Administration : The islands were constituted into a Union Territory on 1-11-1956 with an Administrator.

An Advisory Council, consisting of non-official members selected from local population is constituted every year and advises the Administrator on developmental matters. An Advisory Committee associated with the Home Minister was also constituted during 1967-68.

The Judiciary of the Union Territory is under the jurisdiction of the Kerala High Court. There are now two Munsiff courts and one court of the subordinate judge for the administration of civil justice, and four sub-Magistrate's courts and one District Magistrate's Court for the administration of criminal justice in the Territory. The sessions jurisdiction is vested in Sessions Judge of Calicut in Kerala State.

It is mainly confined to coconut cultivation. The total production of copra in the island during 1967-68 was 1,071 tonnes valued at Rs. 4·21 million. The total area under coconut cultivation is about 2,738·90 hectares. The coconut trees numbering about 653,000 yield about 20 million nuts. During the Third Plan period the Government had sold to the agriculturists 48,630 seedlings, 114 tonnes of chemical fertilisers, 2,076 agricultural implements and 21 tonnes of galvanised plain sheets at concessional rates. The Planning Commission has approved an outlay of Rs. 1·8 million for agriculture during the Fourth Plan period.

In order to diversify the agricultural base of the economy, paddy cultivation on an experimental basis has been started, in about 50 hectares in Androth and Kalpeni. Food crops like maize, rice, pulses, tapioca etc. have also been started as intercrops in coconut plantations.

Livestock and Animal Husbandry

Poultry : Fowls 18,095 ; Ducks : 445 ; Total Poultry : 18,540.

The total expenditure for animal husbandry schemes during the Third Plan period was Rs. 240,000. During the Third Plan a poultry farm was started on Kavaratti island. A full-fledged veterinary clinic and a dairy unit have also started functioning during the Plan.

The allotment for the Fourth Plan is Rs. 300,000. It is proposed to start three new poultry farms, five goat rearing centres, one duck farm and one more veterinary clinic during the Fourth Plan period.

Fisheries : There are now 46 mechanised boats in the islands. Out of this 28 boats were issued to fishermen on a subsidised hire purchase system. The territory has now its own workshop and boat building yard at Kavaratti.

A small unit for canning tuna fish was opened at Agatti island in 1963. Another canning unit is expected to be opened at Minicoy shortly.

An outlay of Rs. 8 million has been sanctioned for the Fourth Plan. The Fisheries Department has decided to expand the existing workshop at Kavaratti and to start new minor workshops at Agatti, Kalpeni, Kadmat and Androth during the Fourth Plan period.

Power Development : It is proposed to electrify all the islands by the end of the Fourth Five Year Plan. So far electricity has been introduced in six islands, viz. Minicoy, Amini, Kavaratti, Agatti, Androth and Kalpeni islands.

According to 1961 census, household industries engaged 82·8 per cent of the total working population. The main industry on the islands is production of coir. The total production of coir during 1967-68 was 590 tonnes. About 800 people were trained in improved methods of coir twisting on charkhas at the Coir Training-cum-Production Centres. A handloom weaving centre has started functioning at Chetlat island. An oil mill has been started in Kavaratti under the co-operative sector and a hosiery factory has been set up in Kalpeni. Fish-drying, jaggery and vinegar-making also provide gainful employment to the islanders, though this work does not contribute significantly to the total income of the island. Diesel operated electricity generators having capacity of 225 k.w. are functioning in four islands.

The expenditure on industries during the Third Plan period was Rs. 361,000. The approved outlay for the Fourth Plan is Rs. 340,000. During the Fourth Plan period training will be given to 10 islanders each year in blacksmithy, carpentry and allied trades.

EDUCATION

The Territory has at present 38 institutions including one Higher Secondary School, 4 High Schools, 11 Senior Basic Schools, 18 Junior Basic Schools and 6 Nursery Schools. To encourage education of girls, separate sections in free schools have been opened exclusively for them. Besides 4 senior basic schools, and 4 junior schools are exclusively for girls. Education is free at all stages. Scholarships and full tuition fees are awarded to students who take post-matric studies outside the Territory. In 1968-69 number of students listed was 67,000, and teachers numbered 302. It is proposed to start a junior college during the 4th plan.

PUBLIC HEALTH

There are at present seven primary health centres and two hospitals at Kavaratti and Minicoy. One of the achievements of the Medical Department during the last decade was the control of the spread of communicable diseases like leprosy and filaria. All the leprosy cases have now been isolated in separate colonies where free medical aid is provided. At present there are 3 such colonies. There are health inspectors in all the islands and medical aid is free. Acute cases are brought out to the mainland and given free treatment.

The total expenditure on health schemes during the Third Plan period was Rs. 780,000. A sum of Rs.1·5 million has been provided for health schemes during the Fourth Plan. Among the major schemes for implementation during the period is the expansion of the hospital at Kavaratti by providing an operation theatre, an X-ray unit and a T.B. Ward.

COMMUNICATIONS

Three motor vessels, one owned by the Administration and two chartered from a private company, are plying between the islands and the mainland. The motor vessel of the Administration, 'M. V. Laccadives' was launched in 1966.

The islanders carry the bulk of their cargo by traditional sailing vessels.

There are 9 post offices and 9 wireless stations in the Territory. The opening of wireless stations and post offices in all the nine major islands now enable continuous communication between the mainland and the islands.

FIVE YEAR PLANS

The islands did not have the benefit of the 1st Five Year Plan. The Second Plan, finalised in 1957 envisaged a total outlay of Rs. 7·38 million. The actual expenditure came to Rs. 4·02 million. The total expenditure during the Third Plan was Rs. 10·85 million, which was Rs. 1·02 million in access of the actual allotment for the territory.

AGRICULTURE

The principal crops of Manipur are paddy and maize. There has been a remarkable development in the field of agriculture after the end of the Third Plan and a considerable hectareage of land has been brought under Japanese method of cultivation, double-cropping, etc., by introducing improved seeds and green manuring. Manipur is well situated for the development of horticulture on account of its fertile soil, varied climate and different altitudes. Cultivation of apples on a large scale can be undertaken in the medium-height ranges of the hills and of walnuts and chestnuts in the higher altitudes. The important horticultural crops at present grown are pineapples, oranges, mangoes and guavas.

The area occupied and production of rice during 1969-70 respectively were : 144,000 hectares and 232,000 tonnes.

Forests : Manipur forests are rich in bamboo, cane, teak, jurjan, pine and varieties of timber. There is a proposal to set-up a paper mill as a Government undertaking to utilise the bamboo resources. The immediate prospect for the forest based industry is said to be limited to the manufacture of looms and furniture. The resin from the pine trees can be of use in sizing paper. Bamboo and canes are available in abundance in the South-western hill ranges, specially in the Jiri and Barak river drainage area, and it is estimated that about 2,585 sq. kms. are at present under bamboo and cane, yielding on an average 300,000 tonnes annually.

Fisheries : Pisciculture occupies an important place in the economy of Manipur since more than 75 per cent of the population consume fish. The total annual consumption is estimated to be 13,935 quintals, while the total yield is only 9,400 quintals approximately. There are 303 fishing units registered with the Fishery Department, Manipur, most of which are lakes for pisciculture and the rest riverine and irrigation channels.

Major Power Project : The Loktak project started in 1970 is the biggest centrally sponsored project in Manipur. Canal construction of the project was completed. The construction of Loktak Hydel Tunnel was inaugurated on Oct. 25, 1971, which provides for commissioning the first 35 m.w. unit by March 1974. So far 160 villages have been electrified.

Handloom is the biggest industry in Manipur. There are more than 200,000 registered looms in the territory and 241 weavers' co-operative societies.

One handicraft design centre, one doll and toys production centre, and two bamboo and cane training centres have been established.

Khadi and Village Industries : Khadi and village industries schemes include hand pounding, edible oil-pressing, leather tanning, gur and khandsari, pottery, non-edible oils and soap making, hand-made paper, bee-keeping and match making industries.

An Industrial Advisory Board to accelerate the development of small-scale industries has been set up and the jurisdiction of Assam Financial Corporation has been extended to Manipur, in order to enable private entrepreneurs to establish small industries in the private sector. The administration is considering the establishment of a small paper mill.

The Government of Manipur has taken up in hand the establishment of an industrial estate at Takyelpat, 5 kms. from Imphal with a view to creating basic overheads and conditions for the growth of industries.

Most of the industries are concentrated in the central district of Manipur.

Sericulture : For revitalising the old sericulture industry demonstration centres, silk farms and muga silk production centres were opened. Grants and loans are given for the development of sericulture.

Forest-Based Industries : Under the forest department a seasoning and treating plant has been set up at Dimapur at a cost of Rs. one million. It is expected to add a few saw mills and a joinery mill (for the manufacture of doors, windows, floor and ceiling boards, wall frames etc.) and a waste board mill for the manufacture of hard-board from saw-dust.

AGRICULTURE

Orissa has a total cultivable area of 8·09 million hectares. Seventy per cent of the cropped areas is under foodgrains. Apart from rice, turmeric, castor, jute (and mesta) in respect of which the State's share is 10, 17, 11, 7 per cent respectively in the country's total output, the States agriculture hardly makes any contribution to the national economy. This is because the farmers are too poor to adopt modern methods of agriculture. Production of oilseeds is 198,000 tonnes, jute 36,000 tonnes and sugarcane 191,000 tonnes. Almost 74 per cent of the people of Orissa live on agriculture.

(For further details see main chapter on Agriculture).

Land Reforms : The important steps taken for agrarian reforms include : Abolition of intermediaries (as many as 370,000 out of a total of 420,000 have been abolished). The tenants now hold tenancies under the Orissa Estates Abolition Act. The bulk of the remaining 50,000 estates are Trust Estates or Religious Endowments. The system of collection of rent by hereditary village headmen (karjis and karnams) has also been abolished. Land revenue has been abolished from 1st April, 1967. The provisions in the Land Reforms

Act relating to fixation of land ceiling are still sub-judice. In case it is decided in favour of State Government, about 708,200 hectares of surplus land can be taken over by Government.

Forests : Forests cover almost 40 per cent of the total area in Orissa. Forests yield timber, firewood, bamboo, Kendu leaves, charcoal, honey, wax, resins, cane, tussar cocoons, arrowroot, simli cotton, cashew etc. Of late Sal seeds have been tapped for oil. Orissa Forest Corporation Ltd., was set up in 1962, and its activity engulfs 20 per cent of the forests.

Animal Husbandry : An Intensive Cattle Development Block with a cattle population of 100,000 was established at Phulnakhara to feed the milk plant there. Another Intensive Cattle Development Block covering a breedable cattle population of 50,000 cattle is being set up.

Cattle breeding, feeding and disease control is handled by 19 key village blocks, with 194 key village units in the State. 2 more key village blocks with 26 units were proposed for 1971–72.

306 Artificial Insemination Centres for cattle breeding are functioning in the State and 20 more were to be opened in 1971–72.

8 livestock breeding farms at Chiplima, Khapuria, Bhanjanagar, Balangir, Boudh, Keonjhar, Kalahandi and Sundargarh have been established for production of seed bulls. One more breeding farm was scheduled for 1971–72.

A Seed Production Farm has been set up at Chiplima to improve fodder.

For treatment and control of cattle diseases, 333 veterinary hospitals, and 1,159 stockman centres are working in the State. 10 more dispensaries and 12 more stockman centres were to be set up in 1971–72.

Biological Products Institute produces sera and vaccines for the control of cattle diseases.

A sheep breeding farm is in existence at Chiplima and another at Balangir.

Dairying : A milk plant at Phulnakhara is functioning with a capacity of 6,000 litres of milk per day, for supply of wholesome milk to the people of Cuttack and Bhubaneswar. A pilot scheme for collection and marketing of milk has been established at Kaimati in Dhenkanal with private sector.

Poultry : A State Poultry Farm at Angul, two regional Poultry Farms at Koraput and Sundargarh and Poultry Farms at Bhanjanagar, Balangir, Similiguda and Bhubaneswar are functioning in the State. Six Poultry Feed Mixing Centres have been established to supply balanced poultry feed to Government and private poultry farms in the State. A research programme to evolve high productive strains was proposed for 1971–72. Besides expansion of the existing poultry farms, expansion of Poultry Extension Centre into that of District Poultry Farm and revival of 10 poultry units will be taken up this year. For poultry development in the private sector, 2 intensive Egg and Poultry Production-cum-Marketing Centres at Rourkela and Cuttack-Bhubaneswar are functioning.

Fisheries : Chilka lake is being developed for fisheries at a cost of Rs. 130 million.

Irrigation and Power Projects: Please see the chapter on Irrigation and Power Projects.

ELECTRICITY

The present installed capacity of power generation is 560 megawatts. This is expected to go up to 920 megawatts by the end of the Fourth Plan, with the completion of Balimela project. At present Chiplima and Talcher are the main power stations. Construction of Indravati and Upper Kolab hydro-electric projects are also under active consideration. A massive programme of distribution and transmission is being taken up.

About 98 per cent of the total power generation is consumed by a few giant industries in the State and only two per cent is available for non-industrial purposes. As a result only 3 per cent of the villages have been electrified.

GENERAL

Climate: It is essentially tropical. The maximum temperature hardly exceeds 43°C (110°F) and the minimum seldom goes below 18°C (65°F).

Rainfall: The rainfall in the region is determined by the south-west monsoon (June to September) and the north-east monsoon (October to December); The average rainfall of the Madras Division is 1,008·1 mm. with an average annual number of 53·5 rainy days, i.e. days on which 2·5 mm. or more of rain is recorded.

Temperature: From January, the temperature rises through the months of February and March to a maximum in April, May and June. The temperature falls gradually until September. With the commencement of the north-east monsoon in October, the temperature falls at a fairly rapid rate till December. The lowest temperature is recorded during December-January.

Soils : The three main types of soils found are red, black and alluvial; red is however the predominant type. Along the coast line patches of arenaceous soils are also found.

Minerals : Salt, limestone, magnesite, gypsum, crude mica, bauxite, ilmenite, fireclay, lignite, iron ore etc.

Hills : The important hill ranges are the Western Ghats (Palani Hills in Madurai district and Annamalai in Coimbatore district form part of this range), the Eastern Ghats, Shevaroy Hills, Javadi Hills, the Kalrayans and the Pachaimalai. The Palghat gap averaging 24 kms. is the only marked break in the Western Ghats.

Important Rivers : The Cauvery, the Ponnaiyar, Palar, the Vaigai and the Tambraparani.

Major Lakes : (Capacity more than 14,000 million litres) Chambarambakkam, Madurantakam and Red Hills lakes (Chingleput District); Veeranam Tank (South Arcot District); Kaveripuk (North Arcot District); Ramnad and Rasimangalam Tanks (Ramanathapuram District).

State Boundaries : The State is bounded in the north-west, west, south and south-east by Bangla Desh and in the north-east by Assam and Mizoram.

AGRICULTURE

Over 60 per cent of the land area is forest and of the total reported area of 1·07 million hectares, only 0·24 million hectares or about 22 per cent is under crops. The principal products are paddy, jute and mesta, potatoes, oilseeds, sugar-cane and cotton. The State is, therefore, deficit in foodgrains and has to import about 30,000 tonnes to meet its requirements. (For production figures and other details please see Chapter on "Agriculture".)

Livestock and Animal Husbandry : Total No. of cattle 524,880; Buffaloes 20,243; Sheep 1,854; Goats 147,058; Horses and Ponies 328; Pigs 44,024; Poultry 517,664.

At present there are 2 Veterinary hospitals, 19 Veterinary dispensaries, 7 Veterinary units and 24 Stock-man centres and one Disease Investigation Laboratory. During the year 1971-72, 213,483 livestock were treated, 8,231 animals were castrated and 19,908 innoculations were performed.

Dairying : Dairy development activities began in Tripura in the Second Five Year Plan. An urban milk supply scheme with a capacity of 1,850 litres of milk per day for distribution to the people in Agartala town was duly implemented. To meet the growing demand for milk the scheme was expanded and arrangement was made to handle 3,700 litres of whole milk per day.

Further the Government is going to start three rural dairies at Dharmanagar, Ambasa and Udaipur.

Poultry : The poultry development scheme was first launched in this State during the Second Plan period. Besides the State poultry farm at Gandhigram, 2 poultry Extension Centres have been established.

Piggery Development : There are four piggery units in different parts of the State.

Power Development : The source of power in Tripura is from diesel stations located at Agartala, Ambasa, Khowai, Dharmanagar, Kailashahr, Udaipur and Bogafa. The aggregate installed capacity of the generating stations is 5,051 kW. but since the generators are old the aggregate capability is only 1,600 kW. Part of the shortfall is made up by purchasing power from Assam. Work is in progress on two grid substations at Dharmanagar and Agartala and on the Gomti Hydro-Electric Project after which Tripura will be able to draw more power from Assam.
